MacArthur Invades New Isle Off Guinea, Takes Air Field

17,000 CHEER AT DEMOCRATS' STATE SESSION

Hail F.D.R., Lucas, and Courtney.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

Illinois Democrats, 17,000 of them, gathered in convention last night in the Chicago Stadium, shouted a greeting to State's Atty. Courtney, candidate for governor, and Sen. Lucas, seeking reëlection in the fall.

They cheered Courtney's attack on Gov. Green as a "do nothing governor," and voiced vocal appreciation when Lucas urged them to draft and reëlect President Roosevelt. When called upon to show the radio audience their enthusiasm, the delegates and spectators brought a beam of pleasure to the face of Mayor Kelly with their response.

There were gaping blocks of empty seats among the spaces allotted to the downstate delegations, but ward committeemen responded to orders to get 400 each to the meeting. They heeded also the admonition from the mayor that there be plenty of noise and no dull moment.

Bored Donkey Leaves Early.

Bands appeared from the 45th, 24th, and 17th wards and paraded the halls with cheerful uproar. A donkey, looking a little bored, appeared from somewhere, but didn't stay long.

There were signs advocating the reëlection of President Roosevelt, predicting victory for Courtney, for Lucas, for Michael Mulcahy, candidate for sheriff, and for William J. Tuohy, candidate for state's attorney.

There were more signs for Sonnenschein's Boosters, for municipal Judges, and for people who just wanted to make up some signs.

Three large pictures of Courtney, Kelly, and Lucas were borne to the front of the hall and placed among the delegates. Whistles, cowbells, and other odd noise makers added to the merriment.

"Sovereignty" Is Eliminated.

A peace plank, submitted to three major operations by platform makers, was brought to the floor for approval by the delegates. A last minute excision was performed on the document to remove the word "sovereignty" before it was given to the convention.

Apparently it was not that the state Democratic leaders had changed their stand, but were afraid they might be termed copy-cats if they took over a Republican word. When first assembled Saturday, the platform committee was prepared to demand United States participation in international peace plans, implemented by force, if necessary.

Peace Plank Wording Changed.

After considerable debate, the platform emerged with the assertion that Illinois Democrats had confidence that the nation's leaders could set up any necessary peace organization "to fully protect American sovereignty." In final form, it was changed to read "to fully protect American freedoms and the permanence of American institutions."

The crowd had its first chance to whip up a demonstration when State's Atty. Courtney was introduced. It was dampened, however, when a plank fell from the ceiling among the spectators. Luckily there were only minor injuries.

Courtney drew a roar from the meeting when he said that "it looks as tho the Republican platform has fallen." He charged that Green had failed to keep his promise to voters in the last campaign to take the sales tax off food.

Broken Pledges Charged.

Waiting for a momentous "boo" directed at the governor to subside, the speaker held that Gov. Green had built a Republican machine in violation of his pledges. He also charged that Green overlooked the protests of labor in naming the head of the state department of labor. Courtney went on:

"The cost of state government under Gov. Green has increased 10 per cent every year over the previous administration. He has increased the tax burden from 320

A NATION BORN 168 YEARS AGO AS BELLS RING

BY CARL WIEGMAN.

A WARM rain was falling in Philadelphia on the afternoon of July 4, 1776, but there was an excited crowd outside the two story red brick Pennsylvania statehouse, where the Continental congress was in session.

Up in the statehouse belfry, 168 years ago, boys were waiting for a signal to ring the bell. They could see a company of soldiers, some with muskets and some with strange long rifles, drilling in the yard. In nearby Carpenters hall, owned by the Company of Master Carpenters, older men gathered to get out of the rain, and talked about a story in the Pennsylvania Post, fresh from the press.

The story told how the congress, only two days earlier, had adopted a resolution introduced by a Virginian, Richard Henry Lee, "that these United colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent states." Thomas Jefferson of Virginia had been named to draw up the resolution in the form of a "Declaration" and he had asked Benjamin Franklin of Pennsylvania and John Adams of Massachusetts to advise him.

Now the congress was voting on the Declaration in its final form, and couriers were awaiting to carry the news to the army and to all the colonies.

The people waiting outside the courthouse were a little worried. News had just come that Gen. Howe had landed with a large force at Sandy Hook, N. J. Some of the older folks said they feared Gen. Washington's raw troops wouldn't be able to beat the British regulars. An argument started over what that fellow Tom Paine had written in a sheet called "Common Sense." People said thousands of copies had been sold.

The rain stopped and people drifted out of Carpenters hall into the statehouse yard. They could see the clock in the cupola was nearing 2 o'clock and the boys were still waiting to ring the bell. The sun came out. It was hot and sticky and everybody hoped congress would hurry and get the job done.

Suddenly the crowd heard a shout in the belfry. The bell started to peal, slowly at first, and then a rapid tumult. Bells in churches soon began to join the celebration. The Declaration of Independence had been adopted.

Until late that night, staid Philadelphians made merry, firing cannons and ringing bells and drinking toasts. Horsemen raced to the other colonies and to Gen. Washington with copies of the Declaration to be read to the troops.

It was a joyful day, but there were dark times ahead: "Times that try men's souls." More than five years passed before Gen. Washington forced the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown and brought about the end of the war.

U. S. HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, July 4 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Independence day passed without formal observation either by the army or the navy, but many American service men were surprised to find that their Australian friends had arranged informal parties. In New Guinea and the Solomons the business of war went on without more than a casual notice of July 4.

YOUNG MAN'S COUNTRY

IKE HONORS 1ST DIVISION HEROES

Tells Unit He Looks on It as 'Luck Token.'

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

U. S. 1ST DIVISION HDQ. IN NORMANDY, July 2 [Delayed].—Heroes of this veteran fighting 1st division, which stormed the mainland beaches of Normandy and pushed on to open the gateway into France, were hailed today by Gen. Eisenhower in the shade of tall Normandy elms.

The invasion commander in chief pinned distinguished service crosses on the battle stained field jackets of 21 officers and men from one outfit. A young assistant division commander also received the D. S. C. Two other heroes were awarded Legion of Merit medals.

Congress Medals for Dead.

It was announced also that one infantry regiment alone will have scores of silver stars when all honor recommendations have been passed upon. Congressional medals of honor also will be awarded to men who gave their lives that the regiment might advance.

The ceremony was simple. There were no bands, no flags, no reviews.

To each man, Gen. Ike spoke warm words of praise. Behind him as he moved along the double file went Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, 1st army commander; Maj. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, commander of the 5th corps, and Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner, 1st division commander.

It had been this reporter's privilege to see most of these men in action on the shell swept shore below Colleville-sur-Mer when 88 millimeter shells, mortars, and machine guns swept thru the landing barges and back and forth over the beach only seven yards deep.

Colonel an Illinoisan.

Their colonel, a native Illinoisan—now standing square and rugged with the dignity of old battle honors on his firm shoulders—had run back and forth along that shore putting order and command into what had been confusion.

These men, many bearing ribbons and oak leaf clusters won in battle in North Africa and Sicily, had fought up and off that beach thru the enemy's coastal battalions and on thru another German division.

Now, Gen. Ike was speaking:

"You fellows fall out and close in closer. I'm not going to make a speech." He paused, pulling at his visored cap as the division pushed closer.

"But this simple little ceremony gives me an opportunity thru you to say that you are one of the finest regiments. I know your record from the day you landed in North Africa and thru Sicily.

"Always Goes Along."

"I'm beginning to think of the 1st division as a sort of praetorian guard which always goes along with me to bring me luck. Without you there is no luck.

"Altho many of you wanted to go home I demanded when I came here that you should be here, too, for this tough job. This proves that you've got what it takes to finish the job.

"If you would do me a favor when you go back you would say thruout your regiment that I am terrifically proud of them and grateful.

"To all of you fellows, good luck, keep on top of them and so long."

British Demand More Facts on Damage by Flying Bombs

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 3.—While the public was awaiting a government statement on the flying bombs, it was reported Prime Minister Churchill will give as much news on the subject in the house of commons this week as security permits.

When Churchill speaks it is believed he will be asked to give the average number of casualties per bomb. Some members of parliament will insist that bulletins be made more specific as to where the bombs hit and the damage done. A demand for more spotters armed with whistles to give warnings of imminent danger probably will also be made.

The German radio asserts that delayed action bombs are being carried in these pilotless airplanes. One German military commentator said that incendiary flying bombs may be used.

Anti-aircraft guns are reported to be taking a toll of the comet bombs. In one area this morning a number of them were brought down, while in another area only a few succeeded in crossing the coast. This setup, however, was ascribed to the fact that yesterday large allied air forces hammered the secret weapon launching sites in the Pas-de-Calais area.

Anti-Aircraft Effective.

It is believed the Germans are chary in sending bombs from northern France while an allied raid is on in that area lest they reveal the positions of their installations.

In one village in southern England the people are said to have great faith in the effectiveness of anti-aircraft guns. "Every time they go into action at least one flying bomb comes down," an observer said.

German pilots and other air crew ranks grounded thru lack of aircraft in Germany caused by the switch-over from piloted planes to flying bomb production, are said to be responsible for the launching of the new weapon.

Built in Plane Plants.

Separate parts of the flying bomb are said to be built in plants which previously were engaged in the construction of planes for the luftwaffe, and it was from German air fields that the first test flights were made, these reports add.

Maj. Gen. Arthur Scott, retired, his wife, Aimee Byng, a novelist, and Percy Alden, prominent in the campaign against slums, were killed by the bombs in southern England. Gen. Scott, 82, began his army career in 1881, and retired in 1920. Both Scott and Alden were British knights.

One flying bomb hit a house, killing a mother and five of her nine children. A number of American soldiers also were victims.

Plymouth, Portsmouth Hit.

The German-controled Paris radio identified Plymouth and Portsmouth as the principal targets of today's robot blitz, and said both cities suffered heavy damage.

One flying bomb blasted a row of stores and dwellings, causing numerous casualties.

The robot bombs appear to have scared professional criminals temporarily out of business. It was announced tonight that not one serious crime has been recorded in southern England since the first attack by the robots began nearly three weeks ago.

American soldiers have been winning British tribute for the way they have helped whenever an "incident" occurs near them.

Acting on a hunch yesterday one civilians took an outfit of clothes to the home of a relative and left it. This morning he was blasted out of his own bed and saved only the pajamas he wore—and a bottle of whisky.

4 NEW ENGLAND CITIES SHAKEN BY HUGE BLAST

Windows Shattered 70 Miles Away.

Bedford, N. H., July 3 (AP).—Blowing scores of houses off their foundations and rocking an area of 70 miles in radius, a terrific explosion blew apart the John P. Bedrick powder works late tonight, creating panic in nearby Manchester and surrounding New England communities.

Despite the force of the blast, which shattered windows in Worcester, Mass., 70 miles away, no fatalities were recorded and hospitals in the area reported only one minor injury being treated.

Only shattered walls of one of two powder houses on the property remained after the blast. A huge crater was the only trace of the other building.

Fear Air Field "Bombed."

For a time, frantic Manchester residents, milling about in the streets of the city five miles from the scene of the blast, thought that near-by Grenier field, one of New England's important air bases, had been bombed.

The force of the blast cracked walls in Nashua, N. H., 15 miles away; sent hundreds from their homes in Fitchburg, Mass., 50 miles distant, and cracked windows 70 miles away in Worcester, Mass.

Thousands poured from their homes in Manchester and other smaller communities in the area soon after the blast at 11:15 p. m. Police for a time were unable to reach the scene of the explosion because of the wild confusion which ensued.

Police Reassure Residents.

More than two hours after the blast police cruising cars, equipped with loud speakers, still were driving thru the area, pleading with the people to clear the glass littered streets.

Newspapers in Manchester, Nashua, Worcester, and Fitchburg were deluged with calls.

The police in Fitchburg said that the shock hit headquarters in that city with the force of a tornado.

Citizens in Worcester first feared that their city had been rocked by an earthquake.

600 U. S. AGENTS TAG AUTOS FOR FEDERAL TAX

The internal revenue bureau yesterday intensified its drive on automobile owners who have failed to purchase $5 automobile use tax stamps, which fell due July 1. The department announced that 600 agents were available for the triple holiday to place stickers on all those cars that do not display the new stamp.

It was planned to concentrate the survey today in areas adjacent to war plants and amusement places, including the Washington Park race track, the Cubs' ball park, Riverview park, picnic grounds in the forest reserve district, and other places where large holiday crowds will assemble, said Daniel J. Conerty, head of the field division.

Owners whose automobiles are tagged were advised to report to the nearest division offices of the internal revenue department if they had gotten the stamp. The department said summonses would be issued for violators. The penalty is a fine of $25 or 30 days in jail, or both.

Gains 100 Mi. in His Advance to Philippines

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, July 4 [Tuesday].—In an Independence day bulletin Gen. MacArthur today announced American troops had landed on Noemfoor Island and seized one air field there, jumping another 100 miles closer to the Philippines.

Landing craft threaded their way thru the treacherous coral reefs which form an almost solid ring around the island, but because of the heavy air and naval bombardments before the assault and because the Japs were confident that no effort would be made to breach the reefs, our troops reached the shore with almost no loss.

Soldiers came ashore directly upon the eastern end of Kamiri air strip and quickly fanned out around the coral runway. Our troops ran across snipers but within three hours had cleaned out all resistance, leaving 45 Japs dead in the grass.

30 Jap Planes Captured.

Thirty Jap planes, all of them damaged in the terrific aerial and naval bombardment, were found around the strip.

This newest assault brings the Americans within 800 miles of the Philippines and puts Manila within heavy bomber range. Noemfoor is strategically situated as an advance base to screen development of Biak Island.

MacArthur's bulletin said: "The movement was an amphibious one and the troops went ashore thru the surf under cover of naval and air bombardment. Landings were made thru narrow, difficult coral reefs generally regarded as impracticable for such a purpose. As a result, the attack was completely unexpected by the enemy and his defense preparations were outflanked.

Practically No Loss.

"Our forces consequently landed with practically no loss, either naval or air, and promptly secured the air field, our main objective, without a struggle.

"The seizure of this base will give added breadth and depth to our air deployment and will further dislocate the enemy's south seas defenses already seriously shaken by our previous advances."

Warships started shelling Noemfoor before dawn while small landing craft made their rendezvous offshore and fighter bombers flew overhead in support.

Landing Is Unopposed.

The landing was unopposed until the troops were well ashore. Then mortars or artillery fire forced the invaders to duck their heads momentarily. By 9:50 a. m. infantrymen had spread over the 5,000 foot Kamiri drome. Shortly after 10 a. m. all enemy mortar or artillery fire had been silenced, and the troops were pushing southeast toward Namber airstrip in the northeast and Korasoren, the third Japanese air field on the island.

Noemfoor had been well softened up by the 5th and 13th army air forces. On Saturday, Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney sent 150 planes over the island to drop 230 tons of explosives. In Sunday attacks they dropped over 150 tons.

Headquarters also disclosed that Maffin bay airdrome on the Dutch New Guinea mainland, 250 miles east of Noemfoor was captured Friday. Bombers attacked Manokwari, Timor island, in the Dutch East Indies, Palau and Yap in the Carolines, Wewak, British New Guinea, Rabaul, New Britain, and Kavieng, New Ireland.

Strategic Interests Will Be Insured, Says Curtin

CAPTURE TOWN AND KEY HEIGHT IN 3 MILE PUSH

New Offensive Hits 40 Mile Front.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

U. S. FIELD HDQ. IN NORMANDY, July 3.—Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's American 1st army tonight was within three miles of the German stronghold of La Haye du Puits after a sudden attack this morning along a 40 mile front extending from the western side of Cherbourg peninsula inland to the highway hub of St. Lo.

[Berlin radio asserted the Americans were preparing to hurl even larger forces into the battle, saying that Lt. Gen. George S. Patton "will bring his troops now stationed in southeastern England into action in the second invasion phase."]

By nightfall the attack, which started at 5:30 a. m. behind heavy artillery preparation, penetrated 1½ to 3 miles in rain and mud from the take-off lines. The greatest advance was made by the forces which captured the village of St. Jores, five miles east of La Haye, posing an outflanking threat to that center.

Activity In Two Sectors.

Other forces, altho covering a shorter distance because of the bulge in our original lines south of St. Sauveur-le-Vicomte, fought their way onto a 430 foot wooded hill about three miles north northeast of La Haye. From this hill the Americans could direct artillery fire to cut the one good all-weather road south of La Haye. La Haye is six miles inland.

Headquarters said the main weight of the new drive was hurled southward in the sector stretching from St. Lo d'Ourville to the Carentan area, but activity extended as far southeast as St. Lo in the heart of Normandy.

Bradley's offensive was launched after local advances had won favorable "jump-off" positions south of St. Lo d'Ourville and also west of Caumont, in the eastern sector.

Patrol Action Near Caen.

Headquarters reported that while American forces were gaining ground in this sector, British patrols on the currently static Caen front to the east had penetrated deep into enemy positions.

In their assault the Americans found themselves fighting elements of three battered German divisions which had escaped from the Cherbourg trap. Along the coastal sector our right flank encountered stiff enemy resistance which took advantage of the bottleneck passage between the hills along the main road south of St. Lo d'Ourville to La Haye.

There our forward units managed to advance only 1½ miles. Not only had the Germans had time to dig themselves in behind hedgerows, reinforcing their pits with timbers, but in that area the Americans were faced with German bunkers designed for all around coast defense.

Fight West Wall Defenses.

The western forces found themselves in the strange position of fighting German pillboxes originally designed to protect the Atlantic coast from possible allied invasion.

Along this area wherever the beach would present a possible landing opportunity, the Germans had erected strong points of their Atlantic wall. The beaches have thousands of miles of wire, row upon row of iron obstacles and mine fields.

In addition many of the bigger German fortifications atop the bluffs had been built to cope with an attack from the rear. It was these concrete boxes with their 88-mm. guns which pounded the Americans as they drove on slowly.

Heaviest Mass of Artillery.

The Germans in this sector also had managed to mass more artillery than we had previously encountered in one area, and with more extensive mine fields than the Germans had used to protect their Cherbourg forts.

There and in other sectors we also encountered somewhat different German tactics in hedgerow fighting, tho the terrain is similar to other battle grounds of Normandy, checkerboard green fields, bright green coloring, small fields, thick hedges and plenty of mud.

The Germans used many riflemen, machine pistols, machine guns, and mortars in their front lines. They would deploy smaller arms along the first hedgerow, for example, while keeping their mortars at least one hedgerow behind.

Mortars Shift to Rear.

In this way they tried to pepper our lines constantly with mortars protected by their riflemen. And as our men worked slowly along the hedgerows, eliminating or forcing the riflemen back, mortars would often shift to the rear, keeping out of counter mortar distance.

In their thrust to St. Jores, the Americans took advantage of the marshy meadows, fanning out westward from Carentan. These prevented the use of tanks and self-propelled artillery on both sides but also afforded flank protection.

Most of the Germans facing the Americans in this attack southward from the Cotentin peninsula are rated as first class troops. But their general fighting qualities as divisions are lowered by the usual admixture of 15 to 20 per cent of German amalgamated troops. The first surge captured more than 100 prisoners.

BRITISH PATROLS OUT

BY E. B. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 4 [Tuesday].—News from the British sector yesterday — Caumont to east of Caen—was mainly of patrol activity, with no sign of strong German reaction.

After making more than a score of sharp counter-attacks last week to cut off the British salient across the Odon river which threatens to outflank Caen from the south, no attacks whatever were launched from midday Sunday until midday yesterday. British patrols found that the Germans were in Gavrus, a mile or so south of the Odon. The patrols also penetrated a mile east of the salient and not far from Fontaine-Etoupefour. Since this village was clear of the enemy the British occupied it.

Little Salient All Its Own.

From Grainville, on the west of the salient, the patrols were extended two miles west to Brettevillette, which also was clear of the enemy. They proceeded to occupy this territory which forms a little salient all its own but which, it was admitted, may require some fighting to hold.

The continued probing and patroling, it was said at headquarters, has kept the enemy continuously on the alert, has denied him the use of no man's land, and has put all his tanks and armor in a state of uncertainty as to where the next attack is coming from. By slackening off in his attacks, Marshal Rommel has given the British troops, who repelled every counter-attack so far launched in this sector, time to regroup and reorganize for renewed offensive action.

Fresh American Troops.

Some observers believe the American attack in the La Haye area, launched in bad weather, may have caught the enemy somewhat off guard, since such operations are usually conducted with heavy air support. The Americans have many troops in the Cherbourg peninsula who have not yet been in combat. Those who fought in the earlier engagements have been regrouped and rested.

The general direction of the American attack is southward toward Granville and Vire. There is a main line railway running thru these towns and a road which the Germans use to supply their defenses farther east around Caen. Loss of these roads would increase their difficulties in maintaining their positions around the British eastern flank.

A German broadcast said allied disembarkations in the Vire estuary and on the east coast of the Cherbourg peninsula are in full swing night and day.

OFFICIAL BULLETINS

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 3 (AP).—The text of war bulletin No. 56 issued tonight said:

"During Sunday afternoon there were only local clashes in the Caen area.

"Our patrols penetrated deep into the enemy positions in some parts of the Evrecy sector. Contact was maintained along the whole front.

"Today allied forces gained some ground to the south in the Cotentin peninsula.

"Air activity from midnight until noon today was again reduced by bad weather.

"Our fighters destroyed eight enemy aircraft for the loss of two during the forenoon over the battle area."

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Monday's German war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press in New York said:

"In Normandy the enemy, as the result of his great casualties suffered in previous days, made a few thrusts only in battalion strength. Particularly high casualties were inflicted upon the opponent in successful defense.

"In southern France several groups of terrorists were met in combat and wiped out.

"There was heavy vengeance fire on London."

CHERBOURG, France, July 1 [Delayed] — (AP). — Commodore William A. Sullivan, in charge of repairing the Cherbourg docks damaged by the Nazis, has established headquarters in a partly destroyed building and it has its drawbacks. Curious French and American army officers keep poking their heads thru the unglassed windows asking questions.

Another seabee toured the port area in a jeep today and drove over still burning equipment blown up by the Nazis. He was Carpenter's Mate 3d Class William G. Black, 20, of 3640 S. Damen av., Chicago.

YANKS CHUCKLE AT CLAIM NEWS FAVORS THEM

British Action Stressed in Early Reports.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN NORMANDY, June 30 [Delayed].—American soldiers, who were highly annoyed during the early stages of the Normandy campaign, in the belief that their efforts were going unnoticed in Britain and even at home, today chuckled over reports that the British think the shoe is on the other foot.

Once the Yanks saw only news of British fighting in British newspapers reaching the beachhead and heard virtually the same reports from the British Broadcasting company. Today they have been told that London fears the United States is getting a onesided view of the British-American invasion, in which British and Canadian troops also are fighting.

Earliest News All About Caen.

During those early days in June it was difficult to explain the British newspapers to the American soldiers by saying that the British correspondents naturally would be partial to the British effort, just as American correspondents might be for ours.

In those days the London newspapers wrote almost entirely about the British drive toward Caen, while the two American beachheads were being expanded and while one of these beachheads had seen heavy casualties and the severest fighting.

Even the Stars and Stripes, the daily newspaper published for American service men and women by American soldiers, came in for criticism. It published one war map containing an arbitrary and wholly untrue division of the American, British, and Canadian forces along the beachhead, then climaxed this by stating that the British had captured Caumont.

Belated Credit to 1st Division.

The veteran 1st division which had won Caumont was so mad about this that Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's headquarters officially announced, post facto, that the 1st division was the captor of Caumont.

One reason for the distorted view of the Anglo-American effort, as reflected early in the British press and by BBC, was the slowness of communications between the American beachheads and London, then our only outlet.

While the British correspondents were getting their invasion day stories back in London on D-day, those of the correspondents covering the American sector took days to reach the British ministry of information. Other dispatches apparently were lost by the cross channel couriers and it was not until Press Wireless was established on the beachhead, with speedy communications direct to New York, that we knew our copy was being received.

To London Via New York.

British correspondents with the American forces labored under the same limitations, so their copy, too, arrived days late in London. Later, when Press Wireless opened up, they sent their stories to London by way of New York, since Press Wireless could beat the slower army system of teletype and courier service.

BBC and American broadcasters on this beachhead were unable to reach their audiences with live broadcasts for one week. Since then there has been a noticeable pickup in American fighting news in the British press. Just prior to the Cherbourg push virtually every correspondent on the British sector trooped to the peninsula to follow the spectacular American drive.

Yanks Given Major Role.

Americans were given a major role in the assault against the Nazis, according to a reliable source, when it finally became the American decision to attack directly across the channel. Prime Minister Churchill, according to this source, had opposed this plan on the grounds that the losses in any attack against so heavily fortified a coast would be too costly.

It is known, tho, that Gen. Marshall and Gen. Eisenhower believed that an overwhelming power play with the shortest lines of communication and supply was the best strategy and would not entail high casualties. Their views, particularly those of Marshall, it is understood, prevailed, and accordingly the British supposedly relinquished the major role in the assault to the Americans.

BLAST ELECTRIC PLANT IN HEART OF BRETON AREA

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—Rocket firing Typhoons blasted the Brest peninsula from Normandy bases today and up to 750 Fortresses and Liberators from Italy bombed German transportation and supplies in the Balkans.

The Typhoons attacked an electric transformer station at Mur de Bretagne, in the heart of the Brest peninsula, southwest of Normandy.

Bad flying weather reduced to a minimum support of the British-based allied airmen for ground forces battling in Normandy.

Nazi air opposition was light over the battlefield and in the only scrap reported up to midnight allied fighters in the Thury-Harcourt and Falaise area, south of the Caen front, shot down eight Germans at a loss of two.

11th Day of Bad Weather.

Ninth air force Thunderbolts on an armed reconnaissance near Vire, 20 miles south of the Normandy battle line, shot up a German road convoy of ammunition and gas trucks and other vehicles moving up toward the American zone on the Cherbourg peninsula.

Regular beachhead patrolling was the other principal operation over France during the day. It was the third successive day of bad weather and the 11th since the invasion started June 6.

The 500 to 750 heavy bombers from Italy which blasted targets in Romania, Hungary, and Yugoslavia included 8th air force units which flew from England in a shuttle flight.

Center for Oil Supply.

One oil storage plant outside Belgrade, Yugoslav capital, was left in flames and smoke, Rome dispatches reported. The plant was a central distribution point for oil supplies to Nazi Balkan forces.

The heavies struck at an oil storage port at Giurgiu on the Danube river south of Bucharest, Romanian capital, and the Malaxa locomotive works east of Bucharest.

A Berlin broadcast, reporting an attack on the Budapest area for the second consecutive day, said 45 American planes, including 34 four engine bombers, were shot down in a fierce air battle. Rome dispatches, however, said the opposition was limited and all targets well hit.

PRZYBZSZEWSKI IS JUST 'KELLY' TO THE MARINES

San Diego, Cal., July 3 (AP).—It's a grand old Irish name, at least the way the United States marines pronounce Przybszzewski.

Back from action on Choiseul, Vella Lavella, and Guadalcanal, Pvt. Edward Przybszzewski of Chicago related that the leathernecks experienced considerable difficulty during mail call when there were letters for him.

The problem was solved when one mail clerk began to pronounce his name Kelly. Since then he's been just plain Kelly to his corps comrades.

Frenchwoman with Rifle Takes 4 Nazis for Yanks

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCES, July 3 (AP).—An officer of the allied psychological warfare division said investigation had revealed one case of a Frenchwoman bearing arms in Normandy. She marched four Germans at rifle point into an American captured town, the officer said.

REPORT STRIKES SPREAD TO 20 DANISH TOWNS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 3 (AP).—Danish workers' demonstrations and strikes against the Germans were reported spreading today to 20 towns, including Helsingor and Kalundborg in Zealand [Sjaelland] and Aarhus in Jutland, the second largest city.

At Helsingor, the Elsinore of Hamlet fame, gas, electricity and water were cut off, the free Danish press service reported, possibly by the Nazis to force the workers back to their jobs. In Copenhagen, where 15,000 Danes are reported to have clashed with 3,000 Germans, appeals by prominent Danes to the workers and a German offer to restore public utilities service appeared to have failed to halt the general strike, now in its fourth day.

Thruout the day the Danish radio broadcast appeals for the people to return to work, assuring them that a military ring thrown around Copenhagen had been lifted. The Stockholm newspaper Aftontidningen reported with reservations that two ships had arrived at Copenhagen, possibly to transport the Danish Nazi Schalburg corps outside the country. Removal of the Danish nazis has been one of the demands of the strikers.

DIVE BOMBER MISSION IS LED BY GENERAL TO HELP NEW DRIVE

AN ADVANCED AMERICAN 9TH AIR FORCE FIGHTER BASE IN FRANCE, July 2—[Delayed]—(AP).—A dive bombing mission of such unusual importance that Maj. Gen. Elwood [Pete] Quesada himself led the flight was carried out late today by 9th air force fighter pilots in advance of the big American push in the southern Cherbourg peninsula.

The young general who commands the 9th tactical air force led the flight down to the deck, flying within a few feet of the ground to loose 500-pound delayed-action bombs on the target. He said details of the mission could not be disclosed for several days.

All 12 planes on the mission returned. Among the flyers was Lt. E. D. Hays, Duquesne, Ia.

HIDDEN DRAFT DODGER SIGNS UP WITH HIS BOARD

Miami, Fla., July 3 (AP).—Morris Stanley Neff, 23, who Assistant District Atty. Fred Botts said hid in his home for three years to avoid the draft, registered today with selective service board No. 3 of Dade county.

Earlier young Neff and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Neff, were held for federal grand jury action, the son on charges that he failed to register for the draft and the parents on counts of conspiring, aiding, and abetting to have the son fail to register.

Botts said he was unwilling to prosecute the youth, but would leave the decision to Washington.

"I hope they will take me in the army," young Neff said.

The youth had left his parents' home here only three times in three years, Richard G. Danner, agent in charge of the FBI here, said.

3 MORE GERMAN GENERALS DIE IN RUSSIA BATTLES

21 Killed or Captured Since June 6.

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—A German war bulletin today reported the death of three more generals in the Russian fighting, thus bringing to 21 the number of German general officers killed or captured during June, Germany's first month of warfare on three great fronts.

Deaths or capture of most of the generals have been acknowledged by German bulletins, but the German public probably has not been told of the other losses—about 394,000 men to date since the inception of this three front struggle, by official allied announcements.

The Germans have lost by death or capture, according to official allied estimates, 219,000 men on the Russian front, 75,000 men in Normandy, and between 80,000 and 100,000 in Italy.

Reds Capture 2 More.

Today's bulletin told of the deaths of Generals Pfeiffer and Martinek of the artillery. This branch also counted only recently deaths of two others of its ablest leaders, Col. Gen. Friedrich Dollman, artillery specialist, and commander of the German 7th army in France, and Col. Gen. Eduard Dietl, commander of seven divisions in north Finland, who died in an airplane crash.

The bulletin also told of the death of Lt. Gen. Schuenemann, member of a prominent publishing family which owned the Bremen Nachrichten.

The Russian bulletin tonight added two more major generals to the list of those captured. The bulletin said Maj. Gen. Konredy, commanding officer of the 36th infantry division, was captured by Red army troops on the 1st White Russian front, and Maj. Gen. Michaeli, commander of the 95th infantry division, was taken on the 3rd White Russian front, both along with large batches of prisoners.

List of June Casualties.

The other generals who have died during June were Gen. Erich Marks, killed at Cherbourg; Lt. Gen. Hellmich, Lt. Gen. Richter, Maj. Gen. Steegmann, Maj. Gen. Fallay, and Maj. Gen. Witt, all killed in Normandy.

The captured general officers were Gen. Gollwitzer, 53d army corps commander in Russia; Lt. Gen. Carl Wilhelm von Schlieben, Cherbourg garrison commander; Maj. Gen. Stattler and Rear Adm. Walter Hennecke, in Cherbourg, and Maj. Gen. Erdmannsdorff, Maj. Gen. Baeumler, Maj. Gen. Heine, and Maj. Gen. Hamman, all taken in Russia.

Additionally, the allied command in Rome said "it appears that Col. Gen. Von Mackensen has been removed from the command of the 14th army [in Italy], which is not unreasonable, in view of the heavy defeat inflicted on him, in which his army was practically destroyed."

Why Robot Bombs Are Inaccurate

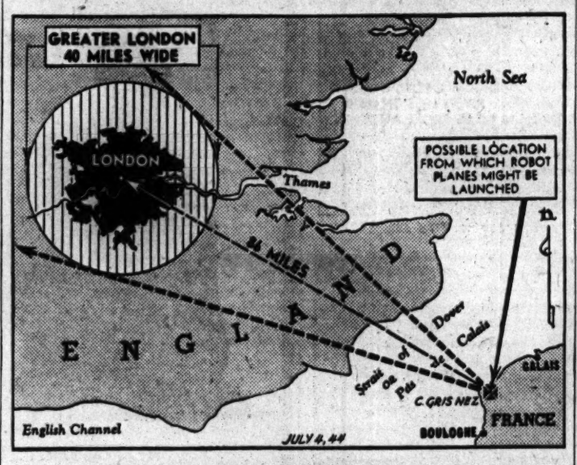
Side view of the trajectory of German robot bombs launched at the greater London area. Head or tail winds can subtract or add to their maximum flight.



Map shows how robot bomb could be fired over wide dispersion angle and still drop within limits of Greater London.

How Bomb Is Aimed

Altho rocket bombs such as the Germans are showering on England, are less accurate than artillery fire and therefore incapable of being aimed with precision at exact objectives, it is nevertheless possible to drop them within a specified area with a fair degree of consistency, ordnance experts said yesterday.

In the Germans' favor is the fact that the outskirts of the city of London, which has an approximate radius of 20 miles, are only about 70 miles from the supposed German rocket gun source along the French coast near Cape Gris Nez.

This means that after a trip of less than 70 miles, the rocket bombs, in order to hit some portion of London, must come down in a rough circle some 40 miles in diameter. To the Germans' disadvantage is the fact that the rocket bombs, traveling much more slowly than artillery shells [their speed has been estimated at 300 miles an hour] are much more subject to wind drift.

A wind blowing across the rocket's course will deflect its flight in proportion to the strength of the wind. Similarly, the distance it flies will be affected by a head or tail wind. A 20 mile wind would affect its range some five miles, over or under.

The fact that the rockets are steered automatically makes it impossible to correct for wind variations during flight; and this, in turn, prevents an accuracy of better than approximately 7 miles to the right or left at the termination of a 70 mile flight. Thus a rocket bomb fired at downtown Chicago from 70 miles out in the lake might land anywhere between Foster av. and 67th st., or a bomb aimed at Navy pier, with a 20 mile tail wind, would fall somewhere in the vicinity of Pulaski rd.; with a 20 mile head wind, it would fall five miles short of the target.

RACE FOR ROMAN PALATIAL VILLA WON BY TAYLOR

ROME, July 3 (AP).—Myron Taylor, President Roosevelt's representative to the Vatican, established his residence today in a 60 room villa owned by Marion Morgan Kemp at 22 Via Gregoriana, after a scramble among high allied officers who wanted it.

Taylor's rights were established when he walked in with a personal letter from the wealthy New York woman who had requested him to take over the villa. Servants who looked after the premises led officers to a quiet corner of the garden and dug up a box containing jewels which the owner was unable to take to the United States.

The villa's walls are hung with priceless Gobelin tapestries. Complete services of gold plate, china, and sterling silver are among its treasures, which include alabaster baths, wall coverings made of hand-woven silk and a library of 5,000 volumes.

STEP LIGHTLY TO SAVE FEET, BRITISH ADVISE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 3.—The board of trade today advised women wearing shoes soled with wood to walk more lightly if they find their war time footwear uncomfortable.

Many women have blamed wooden soles for an increasing amount of foot trouble and digestive disturbances.

"Women must learn to adapt themselves to wooden shoes," a board of trade spokesman said. "Naturally these shoes don't possess the resilient qualities of leather, so it is necessary for women to cultivate a more springy gait."

SPRUANCE SAYS JAP FLEET MUST STILL BE CAUGHT

BY WILLIAM L. WORDEN.

[Associated Press correspondent representing the combined allied press.]

ABOARD FLAGSHIP U. S. 5TH FLEET IN PACIFIC, June 24 [Delayed—(AP).—Adm. Raymond A. Spruance, skipper of the United States 5th fleet, is downright disappointed because the result of a week of maneuvering between his armada and major elements of Japan's navy between the Marianas and the Philippines was not decisive.

"Airplanes can do a great deal of damage but they are not decisive," Spruance said today. "To gain a decisive result we will still have to catch the Japanese fleet with ships some day."

Score: 27 to 402.

One definite result of the air-sea battle of June 18-19 was destruction of Japan's carrier air fleet in this area. It was destroyed in less than 12 hours of the first day of the conflict. The Japanese lost 402 planes and the United States 27.

Nippon will be able to replace the planes but the carrier pilots are something else again. Almost 100 per cent of the Japanese airmen aboard the 402 planes were lost and for Japan that fact may be critical. Already known to be short of pilots of all kinds, Nippon quite likely is especially short of carrier flyers.

With 402 of their carrier planes destroyed and 17 of their surface ships, including five carriers, sunk or damaged, the Japanese fleet avoided meeting Spruance's fleet and fled westward toward the Philippines and Formosa.

West of Tokyo.

For months some prophets have asserted that sooner or later the Japanese navy would come out to fight—whenever it found the United States fleet far enough from home and conditions right.

During the last week the Spruance fleet was almost as far from home as it will ever be. The maneuvering area of the air-sea battle was well west of Tokyo and within 500 miles of the Philippines.

The American fleet was hampered by various things—by having to guard the landing on Saipan island; by being far from fueling bases; by tactical disadvantage in regard to wind; by the fact that the Japanese knew exactly where the 5th fleet was while the Americans could only deduce the general location of the Nipponese most of the time.

DIAMOND DEALER ADMITS EXPORT OF FROZEN GEMS

New York, July 3 [Special].—Leonard J. A. Smit, 58, dealer in industrial diamonds, today pleaded guilty in federal court to seven indictments accusing him and three concerns he controls of violating export control laws by shipping strategically important diamonds out of this country.

Smit's admission of guilt left the court to dispose of two indictments involving the Chase National bank, which is accused of having made available funds Smit used to finance his trade.

As a Netherlands citizen, Smit was subject to the fund "freezing" orders issued by the President when the Nazis occupied the Low Countries in 1940. His circumvention of these was admitted today.

U. S. FLYERS DROP TON OF BOMBS A MINUTE ON NAZIS

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 3 (AP).—American heavy bombers dropped an average of more than a ton a minute on the enemy during June in attacks by the United States 8th air force. Their combined manpower totaled 280,000 men, the equivalent of some 20 divisions.

The figure includes both bomber crews who flew 25,600 sorties and fighter plane pilots who flew 24,000. The bombers dropped 57,600 tons of explosive, the fighter-bombers 1,750.

These tabulations covered only the United States 8th air force. The total number of sorties of the allied air forces during June amounted to more than 150,000. The 8th air force losses were 225 heavy bombers and 211 fighters, less than 1 per cent of the planes sent out. The American planes shot down 348 German craft, 293 of them bagged by fighters.

Churchill Again Calls for Unity in Government

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 3.—Prime Minister Churchill today renewed his appeal for national unity behind the coalition government. In a message to Maj. F. W. Cundiff, a Conservative candidate in the Rusholme, Manchester, by-election, he says, "The glorious events on our battlefronts are proving beyond all doubt the overriding importance of political unity at home in support of our magnificent forces on land and sea and in the air. Rusholme's electors will surely wish to record their confidence in the national government."

Chicago Gunner in Nazi Camp with Broken Ankle

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Smith, 2208 W. 54th pl., reported yesterday that their son, Sgt. John F. Smith, had written them that he was recovering from a broken ankle in a German prison camp. The ankle was broken when he parachuted from a B-24 bomber shot down over Germany. He was a radio man and gunner. The plane was downed March 23, about two months after Smith arrived in England.

IKE UP FRONT PROVES SOLDIER IS HIS COUSIN

AT THE 2D INFANTRY DIVISION COMMAND POST IN NORMANDY, July 3 (AP).—A four star general and a sergeant, kinsmen, met at the front recently and swapped Kansas hometown gossip.

They were Gen. Eisenhower and George T. Etherington, 24, of Abilene, Kas.

"Let's see, you're my first cousin once removed," said Eisenhower as they met. "I had a letter from Florence [the sergeant's mother] three weeks ago saying I'd run into you somewhere over here. I'll send a message telling your mother about you. How about your Uncle Will?"

After Eisenhower drove away in a jeep following, some one asked Etherington, "Why didn't you ever tell any one you were related to Gen. Eisenhower?" The sergeant replied, "I did, but nobody would believe me." Then he wheeled about on a group of his buddies, "Well, now will you believe it?"

MINSK STORMED AND CAPTURED BY RED TROOPS

Battle Rages in Streets for Polotsk.

LONDON, July 4 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Red troops captured the White Russian capital of Minsk yesterday, Moscow announced last night.

Gen. Cherniakhovsky.

The fall of the city opens the gates to a Russian drive toward Warsaw, capital of pre-war Poland, 300 miles to the west; Wilno, in Lithuania, 100 miles to the northwest, and Riga, Latvia, 220 miles to the northwest.

Premier Stalin told of the fall of Minsk. He described it as the last major stronghold in Russia and "a most strategic center of German defenses in a westward direction." In peace time the city has a population of about 250,000.

City Taken by Storm.

The taking of Minsk, which was stormed by the 1st and 3d White Russian armies, was the most spectacular coup of the 11 day old drive, which already has carried as much as 150 miles on a 350 mile battle-front. More than 1,150 populated places were reported captured yesterday.

Premier Stalin sent congratulations to Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky and Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky, whose armies cracked open the gateway to Warsaw.

The broadcast Russian bulletin said other soviet forces had broken into Polotsk, 120 miles northeast of Minsk, and were fighting in the streets.

Fifty miles west of Polotsk the 1st Baltic army captured Iody, 39 miles from Daugavpils [Dvinsk], Latvia.

Other Russian troops reached the outskirts of Molodeczno, rail junction 40 miles northwest of Minsk.

No mention was made of the fate of the remnants of 17 German divisions, possibly 200,000 men, who were reported defending Minsk, but the Russian bulletin said the 1st and 3d White Russian armies had captured 23,652 prisoners on Saturday and Sunday.

Total Put at 225,000.

This brought to approximately 225,000 the number of German troops announced by the Russians as killed or captured since the offensive in White Russia began on June 23.

Many large railway stations were among the places captured in yesterday's fighting, the bulletin said. One of the most important was Glebokie in old Poland, about 50 miles southwest of Polotsk.

Berlin commentators said Polotsk, the last barrier to the soviet advance into Latvia, might be swept away in a few hours.

The Russians said their troops had advanced to the Molodeczno-Polotsk railway virtually along its entire distance north of Wilejka, which was captured Sunday. At Wilejka the Russians are 160 miles from German East Prussia.

Finns Lose More Ground.

The southern flank of Marshal Rokossovsky's 1st White Russian army, plunging rapidly toward the rail junction of Baranowicze [Baranovichi] in old Poland, took more than 250 communities, the Russian bulletin said.

The northward drive against the Finns was continued, it was announced, and soviet forces captured more than 50 places between Petrozavodsk and Sortavala.

Four hundred miles west of Minsk the Germans were reported preparing to flood the lowlands of Poland along the Wisla [Vistula].

The Polish telegraph agency said the Germans had begun an offensive with two divisions against the Polish underground army in the area of Lublin, where a battle had been in progress since mid-June.

[The German broadcast war bulletin said Russian attacks west of Slutsk were repulsed, that Germans had disengaged themselves in fighting around Minsk, and that fighting for Polotsk continued.]

ONE CONQUEROR AFTER ANOTHER STORY OF MINSK

Tragic History Begun in 1066.

Minsk, near the western border of Russia, has always been subject to invasion. The city, first mentioned in Russian annals in the 11th century, was devastated by invaders as early as 1066 and 1096. In the 13th century it became a part of the Lithuanian principality and in the 15th century an important trading center under the Madgeburg charter, but was invaded in 1505 by the Tartars and in 1508 by the Russians.

Once Taken by Swedes.

In the 18th century it was taken several times by the Swedes and Russians, and was annexed by Russia in 1793 after the partition of Poland.

A few years later, in 1812, it again was laid waste, this time by Napoleon I. In 1918 it was occupied by German troops, who advanced to the Dnepr river, but withdrew after the revolution in Germany. In the spring of 1919 the Polish army occupied the district, and it was not until after the Russian civil war of 1920 that the town settled down to peaceful development.

Normal Population 250,000.

It had, before the present war, a population of about 250,000 and important industries, but in 1941 it found itself again in the path of an invading army. In July three years ago it was taken for the second time by the Germans and again was reduced to ruins.

The city, in times of peace, is the capital of White Russia and a political and cultural center. The White Russian Academy of Science is located there, as well as scientific institutes, a university and several museums. It lies astride the Svislocha river and is at the intersection of the Moscow-Warsaw and Libau-Kharkov railways.

NINE POUND SON BORN TO WIFE OF FINN EX-ENVOY

Washington, D. C., June 3 (AP).—A nine pound son was born today to Madame Hjalmar Procope, wife of the former Finnish minister to the United States.

The minister was handed his passport by the state department last month with the announcement the action had been taken because of actions by Finland "inimical" to the interests of the United States. Later the state department said Procope might remain here until his third child was born, but he left as soon as possible with most of his staff. Madame Procope remained here. There has been no disclosure of arrangements for reuniting the family.

Kyrill Meretskov, commander of the Karelian front; Marshal Leonid Govorov, on the Leningrad front; Gen. Ivan Bagramian and Gen. Georgi Zakharov, on the second White Russian front, and Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky on the first White Russian front. Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky, on the Ukranian front, is 37.

SPEECH ON PEACE GARBLED BY U. S., SAYS ARGENTINE

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 3.—Col. Juan Domingo Peron, Argentine war minister, told foreign press correspondents today that the United States state department's version of his speech on June 10 at the University of La Plata was a mutilation of the real text to the extent of completely altering its meaning, apparently as a result of a captious or false translation. "Since I cannot conceive the state department would lend itself to distortion, I infer it has been deceived by some biased source," he said.

The government today closed for eight days the nationalist and pro-axis newspaper Cabildo because of an editorial in which it sharply criticized the state department.

[Washington dispatches on June 30 quoted an authoritative source as interpreting a speech by Peron as an effort to establish that all attempts at lasting peace are doomed to failure. Excerpts from the speech quoted him as saying there was little likelihood of avoidance of general war in the future "in case the united nations win, and the same applies if Germany and Japan win." He urged Argentina to prepare for war.]

STIMSON VISITS ITALY TO INSPECT AMERICAN SETUP

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Italy, July 3.—Secretary of War Henry Stimson arrived in Italy this afternoon to inspect the American troops, hospitals, and front line installations, and will hold a conference with high ranking officials.

Stimson flew from the United States to Africa and at an air field there was met by Maj. Gen. Idwal H. Edwards and Lt. Col. E. E. Shumaker, aide to Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, deputy allied commander in the Mediterranean. He then took off for Italy and when his plane landed in this country he was greeted by Gen. Devers and Maj. Barbara Stimson of the royal medical corps, who is with the British base hospital. Maj. Stimson is the secretary's first cousin.

Among those accompanying Stimson from the United States were Harvey H. Bundy, a special assistant; Maj. Gen. Alexander D. Surles, director of public relations for the war department; Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, war department surgeon general, and Lt. Gen. Col. William H. Kyle, aide to the secretary. The pilot was Col. T. R. Kreps.

ART TREASURES SAVED AS ALLIES WIN SIENA, ITALY

ROME, July 3 (AP).—American and French forces occupied the medieval city of Siena, 31 air line miles from Florence, early today without damage to its famous art and architectural treaures. Yanks on the west who had won Cecina in a bitter fight pushed on to within 15 miles of the port of Livorno [Leghorn].

The virtually uncontested capture of Siena by French infantry and American artillery and tank units followed weeks of fighting on its mountainous approaches.

[A broadcast German bulletin said German troops were withdrawn north of Siena to spare "precious memorials of culture of the ancient historical town."

Cathedral World Famed.

Siena is rivalled only by Florence in the wealth of its renaissance art. Its black and white marble Gothic cathedral is regarded as one of the world's most beautiful structures. The 50,000 people of the city paraded its famous silk flags in a wild demonstration for the allies.

American units stormed past Cecina despite some of the most stubborn German resistance since the fall of Rome.

It was believed their vanguard was within 20 miles of the Nazis' Gothic defense line running from Pisa, just above Livorno, to Rimini on the Adriatic coast.

Nazis Get Beönforcements.

The Germans were reported throw-reinforcements into the fighting, with elements of 10 divisions facing the 5th army alone.

The allied advance was general across the peninsula, with the British 8th army getting in hard blows. South African troops almost completed the encirclement of Lake Trasimeno in the center of the line and pushed on within 15 miles of the city of Arezzo, north of the lake.

Other 8th army forces made substantial gains northeast of Perugia, on the eastern side of the lake, clearing the enemy from Monte Castellacco and Nocera and capturing a large number of 88 mm. guns. Along the Adriatic coast the British pushed to within less than nine miles of the port of Ancona.

Nazi Command Shift Hinted.

Headquarters announced the capture of a German order dated June 21 that an allied spokesman said indicated that Col. Gen. von Mackensen had been relieved of command of the Nazi 14th army, which was defeated at the Anzio beachhead and before Rome. The document was signed by Gen Lemensen as commander of the 14th.

Allied medium bombers and fighters ranged over the battle area in great numbers and spread a pattern of explosives over northern Italy. Fifty-seven enemy planes were downed over Italy and the Balkans yesterday at a cost of 15 American heavy bombers and eight other craft.

North Italy 'Security Belt' Reported Formed by Nazis

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—The German Transocean news agency broadcast today that a "security belt" two miles wide was being established along the Italian side of the Swiss frontier. Civilians will be ousted from the area and nonmilitary traffic prohibited, the broadcast said.

TENOR GIGLI IS DEAD, WOMAN WRITER TOLD IN SECRET MESSAGE

LONDON, July 3—(AP).—Naomi Jacobs, the novelist, said today she had received a message by secret means saying that Beniamino Gigli, former Metropolitan opera tenor, had died in Italy.

Miss Jacob, a friend of Gigli, said, "I do not think he died a natural death. I think it is something else."

There was no confirmation of the report. Only last June 22 Gigli was barred from singing in an army concert in Rome. He had been accused by Romans of having Fascist sympathies. Gigli said he had sung for the Germans and for the Fascists, "but I am an artist and I never had interest in politics." He added that he desired to sing for the American and British troops in Rome.

YANKS SQUEEZE JAPS INTO NECK OF SAIPAN ISLE

Marines Block Escape from Garapan.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, July 3 (AP).—Marines and infantry closed in today on the Japanese defenders of Saipan, squeezing them into the narrow northern neck for the final battle for this strategic island.

The capital city of Garapan, on the western coast, had been razed, said field dispatches. Patrols of the American 2d marine division probed its blackened ruins for Jap units still holding out.

The leathernecks held new ridge positions east of Garapan, from which they dominated the escape corridor to the north. American warships lobbed shells into the rubble of what once was a city of 10,000.

Near Northern Tip.

The 4th marine division had advanced up the eastern coast of the island to within five miles of the northern tip. With the 27th army division, the marines were cleaning out the hills commanding Garapan and Tanapag harbor, just above Garapan.

It appeared the showdown fight would come in the Tanapag area. A battlefront less than five miles wide was indicated. Into the northern neck of the island had been compressed the remainder of the Saipan garrison, once estimated at 20,000 but reduced to 10,000 thru casualties. More than 6,000 enemy dead had been buried and 200 prisoners had been taken.

Tremendous stores of enemy supplies and munitions had been captured and at least 80 tanks destroyed.

Garapan a Mass of Fire.

ABOARD JOINT EXPEDITIONARY FORCE FLAGSHIP OFF SAIPAN, July 3.—Garapan has become a mass of flame which illuminated the sea thruout the night. The razing of the town provided an awesome spectacle from the bridge of this ship. To the naked eye the fires merged in one immense orange glow.

Tireless troops of the 2d marine division which captured the ridges of Topatchau fought their way down toward the plateaus to invest the heights behind Garapan.

On the plain below, other elements of the same division, which held a line in Garapan's suburbs for several days, rolled forward over the rubble of concrete buildings and the wreckage of still burning flimsy, mud walled, paper windowed houses.

Army units pushed forward toward a point where tanks dueled with Japanese emplacements. After a few minutes of rapid firing the enemy strongpoint was knocked out and the infantry line advanced thru groves of breadfruit trees. The troops are constantly entering caves and finding Japanese bodies as well as stores of equipment.

Take House by House.

GARAPAN, Saipan, June 25 [Delayed]—(AP).—The marines are taking Garapan street by street, ruined house by ruined house.

American artillery controls the flat streets of the waterfront. It breaks up tank led counter-attacks. It has fired oil stores which burn with white heat.

Observers atop the hills and ridges can look down into the town and see the governor's palace. There isn't much left of that, or anything else in the town. But it still is recognizable for what it was.

Marines lying in the gutters of streets on the south side of Garapan are thinking of the time when they will reach that palace. It will be one of the climaxes which all soldiers create for themselves in battle.

Mortars Still in City.

The marines have squirmed northward until now their lines have passed four streets. They are pressing on toward the business section, with its department stores, government buildings, and postoffice.

The wounded limp back south thru Garapan's outskirts. Some come back on stretchers. Some do not come back.

Enemy mortars are still firing from vantage points in the south section of the city. American tanks wait in the alleys for the moment to move forward. Aid stations are set up behind barns.

Between the lines and back of them move thin goats. Chickens scatter wildly when they see men running, bent over, against distant machine gunners or snipers. Deep chested cattle, some suffering from lack of milking, move thru the ruins.

MacGowan was wounded in the leg April 25, 1943, during an allied attack on Jebel Mansour. Despite his injury he followed the attacking force and was cited for bravery and awarded the croix de guerre by Gen. Henri Giraud. He is now in Normandy with the allied armies.

CRIPPLING BLOWS TO NAZI AIRMEN TOLD BY ARNOLD

Bombs Cut Output of Planes and Fuel.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—Gen. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, estimated today that allied bombing had cut German aircraft production more than two-thirds and slashed Nazi oil refineries' output to 30 per cent of normal.

The general, reporting on his recent trip with other American military chiefs to England, France and Italy, told a press conference that the combined air blows at production in Germany and the Nazi armies in France and Italy have been carried out with only negligible resistance from enemy planes.

Fail to Bomb Invaders.

The Germans, he said, apparently because of aircraft and gasoline shortages, have passed up some of the greatest air targets in history by failing to bomb our invasion forces before, during and after the landings in France.

"We believe that Germany has now been forced to dip into her reserves of gasoline," he said. "Her consumption is apparently far in excess of production. If this continues, the enemy will be in a bad way. He has, of course, tremendous recuperative powers, but with our freedom in the air, we can keep hitting German targets."

Germany, he said, has, or had, 55 major refineries for synthetic and natural oil, including 14 for 100 octane [aviation] gasoline. On the first day allied bombers attacked the refineries, six were hit, and since then, practically all of them have been bombed, he added.

Unopposed Over Berlin.

From 40 to 50 per cent of the central area of Berlin has been destroyed by bombs, the air chief said. The most recent raid on the German capital, by 1,100 planes on June 21, was virtually unopposed by enemy aircraft.

Instead of the 200 to 600 Nazi fighters our bombing raiders used to meet, "they now seldom encounter 100 planes," Gen. Arnold said. The German high command, he continued, is now faced with the dilemma of whether to send up its depleted air force on specific missions or simply to hold it back in an attempt to "bolster morale" of the German people.

Discussing the Nazi robot planes, the general said he and American technicians designed such weapons in 1917-'18, but could not get them into production before the end of World War I.

Found Less Effective.

Subsequently, he explained, our military chiefs decided "robot bugs" were less effective, for the resources expended, than precision bombers.

It is possible, Arnold said, that the Germans may be getting ready to use jet propulsion planes against the allies, but none has been observed yet.

The general disclosed that one of the four B-29 super-bombers lost in bombing Japan June 15 is still unaccounted for. One was shot down over Yawata by Japanese anti-aircraft and two crashed and burned as a result of mechanical difficulties, he said.

It is thought that the crew of the plane shot down by the Japs bailed out, Arnold added. He declined to say where the other two crashed or what happened to the crews.

The Japanese air force is relatively better off now than the German Luftwaffe, because we have not started hitting Japan's plane factories, the air chief explained.

CHINESE SEIZE JAPANESE KEY TO TENGCHUNG

CHUNGKING, China July 4 [Tuesday] (AP).—Chinese forces have captured the most important strongpoint in the Japanese defenses of the town of Tengchung in western Yunnan province, the Chinese high command announced today.

Because of heavy monsoon rains the Japanese had withdrawn in part from the strongpoint to a nearby village, a bulletin said, and Chinese troops stormed and captured the strongpoint, the night of July 1, holding it against enemy counter-attacks.

The strongpoint dominates nearby Japanese positions in the defenses of Tengchung, one of the Japanese bulwarks against the Chinese drive toward northern Burma in the Salween river sector.

Battle Jap Spearhead.

Chinese troops have been hurled against a strong enemy spearhead which stabbed 46 miles south of encircled Hengyang on the Canton-Hankow railway, the high command announced, and fighting raged in the area where the Japanese were attempting to seize the entire route across China.

This Japanese force had swung suddenly to the southwest from the outskirts of Anjen, 38 miles southeast of Hengyang, where the Chinese said they had once checked the enemy assault.

The enemy smashed at Leiyang, 34 miles below Hengyang, and that railway city apparently had fallen. A bulletin of Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters reported American bombing and strafing of Japanese positions in the city.

The spearhead then pushed southward for another 10 miles, where a crossing of the Lei river was forced. Heavy fighting, with severe casualties on both sides, was raging at points eight and 12 miles below Leiyang, the Chinese bulletin said.

This new penetration placed Japanese forces only 100 miles from Kukong, provisional capital of the southern province of Kwangtung.

Japs Tell of New Drive.

LONDON, July 4 [Tuesday]—(AP).—The Toyko radio announced today that Japanese troops had launched a new all-out offensive on the South China front, northeast of the French Indo-China border in Kwangtung province.

The broadcast said the drive opened "under a tight air umbrella" and claimed the Japanese forces had "effected a forced crossing of the Peh river at a point some 20 miles north of the coast."

FRENCH VILLAGE AND CHICAGOANS GO TO CONCERT

BALLEROY, France, July 3 (AP).—A strange assemblage of khaki clad soldiers and villagers dressed in their Sabbath best crowded into a tiny room yesterday to attend a benefit concert for war victims.

On a stage, flanked by the Stars and Stripes and Union Jack, amid a hush broken only by the rumble of guns and the crack of shell bursts, the girls and children of Balleroy sang in honor of their friends and allies — soldiers of Britain and America. They sang light songs of France, concert numbers, and religious lyrics and no group of entertainers ever had a more enthusiastic audience than the American troops in the front rows.

Among the Americans were Capt. Ben Appel, 1825 S. St. Louis av., Chicago; Sgt. Adrian Pinsinco, Evanston, Ill., and Pvt. Seymour Robinson, 1043 Christiana av., Chicago.

WIPE OUT JAPS' SUICIDE ATTACK ON MYITKYINA

Attempt to Capture Airport Fails.

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, July 3 (AP).—A suicide force of Japanese stabbing from the west has been wiped out in an attempt to seize the firmly held main airport south of Myitkyina in north Burma, allied headquarters announced tonight.

The field was taken by allied air borne troops at the outset of the attack against Miyitkyina, and served as a base of operations against the enemy stronghold.

Penetrate Jap Base.

South of the field Chinese troops are firmly established on the Waingmaw ferry road, holding positions along a line which in the future may connect with the Ledo route by way of Bhamo, about 75 miles to the south.

A British raiding force in the Manipur hills campaign in India four nights ago penetrated the Japanese base of Ukhrul 24 miles northeast of Imphal, Adm. Mountbatten's bulletin announced. The main body of the British and Indian troops still is four miles west of the base, and still is encountering Japanese resistance along the road from Imphal to Ukhrul about a mile further west.

General Is Missing.

The British announced that Brig. Gen. R. N. F. Marks of the 3d Gurkha rifles was missing and presumed killed in an airplane crash in the Mogaung valley area of north Burma.

Marks was senior administrative staff officer under Maj. Gen. Orde C. Wingate, leader of Wingate's raiders, who also was killed in a Burma plane crash March 24.

END PHASE IN BEATIFICATION OF POPE PIUS X.

VATICAN CITY, July 3 (AP).—The first phase of the ceremonies leading to beatification of Pope Pius X. has been completed with the sealing of his coffin and replacing of his body in its resting place in a crypt of St. Peter's.

The body was placed in a wooden coffin with silken purses containing medals struck during his reign from 1903 to 1914, along with a parchment describing the recognition ceremonies of the last 46 days in which the coffin was opened and the body examined.

The coffin in turn was placed in a leaden casket which was sealed by the judges.

MERRY TO WED HER MEXICAN HUSBAND IN CATHEDRAL, SHE SAYS

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 3 (AP).—Merry Fahrney, former Oak Park, Ill., patent medicine heiress, said today she would join the Catholic church and marry 23 year old Carlos Ojeda, son the Mexican ambassador, Carlos Dario Ojeda. The wedding of the five times married Chicago woman and Ojeda has been set for July 21 in the Buenos Aires cathedral.

Miss Fahrney, who has been in Buenos Aires two years, said she fell in love with the young Mexican at first sight and intends to settle down and cook and sew for him. Her funds have been blocked in the United States and Brazil since she left the United States with a Swedish passport.

Miss Fahrney is known here as the Baroness Berlingieri, the name of her third husband. She secured her Swedish passport by marrying Kurt Holm, a Swedish waiter, in 1941, then immediately divorcing him. Young Ojeda speaks faltering English, while his fiancee manages a few words in Spanish. He says her cooking won his heart.

HAIL STATE PLAN OF POST-WAR AID TO CHICAGO AREA

Regional Board Head Sees Over-All Policy Need.

Gov. Green's announced plan for a post-war program under state sponsorship for the revitalizing of the Chicago area was hailed yesterday by Robert Kingery, director of the Chicago Regional Planning association, as desirable and encouraging

"Our association certainly will be willing and ready to coöperate," Kingery said. "It will be a fine idea if the state comes in and takes leadership, as it should, in planning for the metropolitan area's future."

He added that planning for new roads and improvements was well advanced after two years of study and that counties in northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin, and close-in Indiana would welcome complete programs for post-war construction.

Need Over-All Policy.

"Chicago and the suburbs need super-highways and parkways," Kingery said. "We have been hoping the state's engineers would decide on definite policies. For the last two years we have been urging their leadership. Our staff will tackle any problems assigned to it."

The regional association's activities are confined to the suburban area within a radius of about 50 miles from the loop. It is a quasi-public organization and most of its funds are furnished by counties and municipalities; the rest comes from subscriptions of citizens.

The governor's program was outlined in a letter to the Illinois post-war planning commission. It contemplates the revamping of the metropolitan area's transportation, including waterways, railroad service and airports—to be done in a manner that will take account of the latest engineering advances.

He was urging special attention, he said, to the plight of Chicago because the "lack of accomplishment" here had been conspicuous on the part of the local government for a decade.

Commission Members.

Following is the membership of the commission: Anderson Pace, chairman, general industrial agent, Illinois Central railroad; M. M. Leighton, vice chairman, chief of state geological survey, Urbana; Paul D. Angell, secretary of Chicago Building council; Walter H. Blucher, executive director of American Society of Planning Officials; D. H. Burnham, president of Chicago Regional Planning association; Joseph J. Cavanagh, vice president of Chicago Motor club; Harold F. Cheesman, Alton, international representative of the AFL Carpenters union.

Paul W. Dillon, Sterling, president, Northwestern Steel and Wire company; Bernice R. Goedde, East St. Louis, president of the Illinois Business and Professional Women's clubs; Frank M. Lindsay, Decatur, vice president, Decatur Newspapers, Inc.; Wesley W. Polk, chief state highway engineer; James Evan Rockwell, editor and publisher, Murphysboro; Mark A. Saunders, Kewanee, administrative assistant to Gov. Green; Earl C. Smith, Detroit, Ill., president of Illinois Agricultural association.

Personnel Listed.

Charles M. Thompson, Champaign, former dean of school of business administration, University of Illinois; Arnold P. Benson, Batavia, president pro tem of Illinois senate; State Sen. Richard J. Daley, Cook county deputy controler; State Sen. T. Mac Downing, Macomb, attorney; Rep. R. J. Branson, Centralia, attorney and banker; Reed F. Cutler, Lewistown, majority leader, Illinois house of representatives; State Rep. Charles H. Weber, Chicago, Democrat; George B. McKibbin, Chicago, state director of finance; Francis B. Murphy, state director of labor; Walter A. Rosenfield, director of state department of public works.

Mayor Kelly, apparently perturbed by Green's letter, accused the governor of political maneuvering in the matter.

"This is a blow at home rule," the mayor said. "Gov. Green is a candidate now; I am not. Who blocked traction unification? The governor's Illinois commerce commission."

Blocked Transit Plan.

[In 1943 the commission refused to let a traction plan involving the issuance of 179 millions of securities go thru. This plan was backed by the city, which holds now that the properties of the elevated and surface lines are worth only 84 millions for purchase and conversion to unified operation under municipal ownership.]

Mayor Kelly said he would urge the United States Conference of Mayors, of which he is vice president, to support a movement to treat big cities as states, so they "won't have to go to statehouse politicians" for help in solving their improvement problems. He did not explain how this could done.

Anderson Pace, Illinois Central railroad executive who is chairman of the state planning commission, said he was studying the governor's proposal and that he believed it had great possibilities. Until he understood more of it, he said, he would not talk on the details.

Ald. James B. Waller [43d] said it was logical for the state, which furnished much of the money from gasoline taxes, to take the lead in metropolitan planning. It was "picayune," he contended, for the city to raise home rule questions when what was needed was cooperation by all governmental units.

BRITISH-FRENCH AGREEMENT NOT BINDING ON U. S.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—The United States is not bound in any degree by the two weeks of negotiations just completed between the British and the French on civil administration and financial questions, it was empasized here today. The negotiations were concluded in London between representatives of Britain and Gen. Charles de Gaulle's French national committee.

At the state department it was asserted that the British conferees were acting solely for Britain and did not speak for the United States. It was conceded that the British probably hope that the United States eventually will join in the agreement, but no official overtures have been made.

What position the United States will take toward France will depend on the visit of Gen. De Gaulle this week. He is expected to arrive here some time between July 5 and 9 for the purpose of selling himself as the head of the French nation.

[An Associated Press dispatch from Algiers said the French Committee of National Liberation yesterday approved arrangements for its leader, Gen. De Gaulle, to visit Washington and he was expected to leave within a few days.]

Recognition Held Up.

To date the United States has refused to recognize De Gaulle and his French national committee and there is no indication that recognition is impending. The general asked to be received here and was not invited by the state department or President Roosevelt.

It is expected that De Gaulle will be treated courteously and listened to patiently, but observers doubt that he will be given recognition. It is believed that he will be told that the United States, is kindly disposed but will await developments as the invasion advances.

Meanwhile, it is expected that in any relations with the De Gaullists, Gen. Eisenhower, allied commander in chief, will deal with Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig, newly appointed commander in chief of the French forces of the interior under the American general. Gen. Koenig is establishing headquarters in reconquered France, making contacts with the French underground, and taking other measures to aid the allies.

May Get Pact Drafts.

Because of these contacts the United States had no immediate need of participating in the British-French negotiations. Drafts of tentative policies agreed on by the conferees will be submitted to the British government and the French national committee for approval. It is possible that the drafts may be submitted to Washington for information of the state department and with the hope that the United States may conclude similar arrangements, but the United States is not committed to act upon them.

It was reported that the drafts excluded recognition of De Gaulle's committee as the provisional government of France. It was said that the civil agreement is similar to those Britain has reached with the governments in exile of Belgium, the Netherlands, and Norway. It was understood that the French committee was authorized as the sole issuing authority for currency provided for the allies in France.

B-29 OFFICER JAPS 'DOWNED' WRITES: 'SAFE'

Long Beach, Cal., July 3 (AP).—A Jap broadcast on June 22 said that Lt. Col. James V. Edmundson was a member of the crew of a B-29 shot down over northern Kyushu Island six days previously. Mrs. Edmundson got a letter today, her first from her husband since the Super Fortress raid on Japan, dated June 22, the day of the broadcast. "Jimmy is safe and sound," she exclaimed happily. "He said he was over the target and got in some fine hits."

NECKTIE STRIKE ENDS AS WLB CUTS THE KNOT

The 110 employes of the Greyhound bus lines depots in the city, who have been on strike since Friday, returned to work last night, but the controversy—whether the ticket sellers will or will not wear ties—still goes on.

The strike was terminated when the national war labor board in Washington, after being informed of the cause of the strike, considered the issues trivial and ordered the strikers back to work—with or without ties. The employes immediately returned to work, some wearing ties, others not.

A representative of the WLB here was balked during the day in an effort to settle the strike when the "status quo" was considered by the strikers to mean not wearing ties and by company officials to mean that the ticket sellers will wear ties. Both sides previously had agreed that the strikers would return and preserve the status quo until the controversy was settled by agreement.

STATE LEADERS OF DEMOCRATS HAIL PRESIDENT

17,000 Cheer for F.D.R., Lucas, Courtney.

million dollars annually to 372 million dollars. Again he has done nothing in the interest of the people. Another reason for the title 'do nothing governor.'"

Courtney Cites Own Record.

Courtney pledged that if he is elected governor the sales tax will be reduced immediately at least 50 per cent. He offered his record in public office as evidence of his sincerity that he will not build a political machine.

"I positively will reduce the expenditures of the state," he continued. "Again I refer to my record in the state's attorney's office, where I demonstrated economy in public office by returning to the treasury unexpended funds each year, and at the same time rewarded faithful service by increasing salaries. Post-war planning must be encouraged by reduction in public expenditures."

Courtney was followed to the microphone by Sen. Lucas, who urged his hearers, to the accompaniment of cheers, to follow the old adage of the sea, "Never to change the pilot in the storm."

Lucas Pleads for F. D. R.

"We enter the most crucial political battle in all our history," Sen. Lucas told his listeners. "We will not be sidetracked with petty and insignificant sniping for political and selfish reasons. We contend that the issues are clear: Win the war! Win a lasting peace! Give our full measure of love and protection for our wounded veterans and full opportunity for the millions of soldiers returning to civilian life. Create an economy after this war giving full employment and security to our people!

"My friends, in these post-war issues lie the destiny of America. Our people understand that—our people understand the necessity for the continuation of experienced and reliable leadership. In this great crisis intelligent and discriminating people will not send a boy to the mill to do the job. They will keep as their commander in chief to win the war and the peace—Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Soldier Vote Issue Revived.

Lucas then turned to oft-repeated charges that Republican leaders in congress defeated his bill for a soldier vote bill because "they were afraid that those boys would vote for their commander in chief." He asserted that Illinois has the most complicated soldier vote law of any state in the nation. To Rep. A. J. Sabath went the first "boo" of the meeting. There was an undercurrent of mumbled dissatisfaction when Sabath appeared at the microphone to make a routine motion.

Bruce Campbell, chairman of the downstate advisory committee, charged that the state administration had violated pledges and betrayed a trust. He said that the "Len Small machine appeared pure and lily white in comparison."

Candidate Cables from Front.

A cablegram from Edward J. Barrett, candidate for secretary of state, who is now in the marines in the South Pacific, brought a warm reception from the crowd. Barrett wired that he was present in spirit and, in the language of the marines, ever faithful.

Some of the heaviest applause of the night greeted Mayor Kelly as he stood and waved to the audience. He went on record for the entire state ticket, paying special tribute to Courtney.

The mayor told the meeting that he did not know whether a change in Vice Presidents was contemplated. Then he added that it was suggested that Sen. Lucas be presented for that position and asked what the convention thought of the plan. The metting yelled approval.

Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman, urged party workers to concentrate on organization work in an effort to carry Illinois. He charged that the Republican national convention last week was "well oiled by that millionaire oil man from Pennsylvania—Joseph Pew."

Hannegan Boosts Kelly.

Hannegan declared that Roosevelt would be reelected by a great majority, and reiterated for some time that he is proud to be an organization Democrat and to be known as a "Kelly man."

"We're proud of Mayor Kelly and proud of his organization," he said, speaking in behalf of the Democratic party.

Sveinbjorn Johnson, candidate for attorney general, was given the job of nominating Walter McLaughlin of Decatur, Dr. Karl A. Meyer of Chicago, and Kenney Williamson of Peoria for trustees of the University of Illinois. In so doing, he turned the oral guns on George E. Barrett, present attorney general.

He charged that Barrett had "stabbed the university in its vitals at two points." Barrett, he held, demanded the right to name officers of the university and then made boorish, unsupported charges against it.

Johnson Assails Barrett.

"His malicious charges put the university under a black cloud," Johnson continued. "I remind the people of Illinois that it was the Democrats on the board of trustees who demanded that the charges be either proved or their total falsity exposed. It was they who insisted that the American council on education be asked to investigate, and it was this same attorney general who replied with abuse instead of evidence, when counsel courteously offered him an opportunity to present any substantiating proof he might have.

"It cost the state thousands of dollars to vindicate the character and reputation of the university against such slanders of the Day-Lyons-Green political machine and its henchmen."

DEMOCRATS VOW THEY'LL DEFEND U. S. 'FREEDOMS'

BY ROBERT HOWARD.

Illinois Democrats adopted a foreign relations plank in their state platform last night which ended with a declaration for full protection of "American freedoms and the permanence of our American institutions."

The peace plank elsewhere implied that the United States should join an "association of nations" but left that entirely to President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull.

The post-war issue wasn't mentioned in any of the speeches and the delegates dispersed into Madison st. without knowing that sovereignty or a world organization had entered the minds of the Illinois Democratic leaders. Rep. William Vicars of Pontiac, candidate for auditor, had read half of the preamble when he was escorted back to his seat and it was announced that no one was greatly interested in the rest of the platform. It then was adopted unread.

Sen. Daley of Chicago presented a resolution asking Gov. Green to call a special legislative session to amend the law under which soldiers and sailors may cast absentee ballots.

Plank by plank, the platform took these stands:

WAR.

Unconditional surrender of Hitler, Tojo, and all their fanatical followers, was demanded while high tribute was paid to Gen. Marshall, Adm. King, Gen. Arnold, Gen. MacArthur, and other American commanders "for their masterful startegy, bold tactics and undaunted preservance." Also commended were Secretary of State Hull and other cabinet members.

"We urge Illinois citizens to remember that this great program of [war] production was instituted and directed by our commander in chief, Franklin D. Roosevelt," the plank concluded.

PEACE.

"We hold that harmonious joint action between Britain, Russia, China, United States, and all other allied nations is the basic foundation for the early winning of the war.

"We are confident that such harmonious relationship in the winning of the war will be the foundation for the winning of a just and durable peace.

"We commend President Roosevelt for his great achievement in obtaining the Atlantic Charter, a document which guarantees the integrity and sovereignty of all nations, large and small.

Coöperation Favored.

"We stand for the principle of international coöperation to keep the peace of the world as accepted and approved by the United States senate thru the passing of the Connally resolution by a vote of 85 to 5.

"We submit that no association of nations is powerful enough to keep the peace of the world unless the United States is a member thereof.

"It is, of course, impossible at this time to prescribe every detail of such an organization. We have full confidence that President Roosevelt, Cordell Hull, and those under them, will in due course create the necessary details within the limits of the general principles annunciated, to fully protect American freedoms and the permanence of our American institutions."

AGRICULTURE.

Farm policies of the Roosevelt administration were praised, especially corn loans and reciprocal trade agreements. The opinion was expressed that history would justify soil erosion and conservation policies.

BUSINESS.

"We stand for free enterprise with reasonable regulation, intended to protect business from the exploitation of extreme self-interest and for the promotion of the common good of business men, large and small," the plank said.

CITIZENSHIP.

Pledging economic and political justice for all citizens, the platform said: "We stand with President Roosevelt and Sen. Lucas against denying the right to vote to southern Negroes, including Negro soldiers, who are fighting and dying for their country."

CONSUMER.

President Roosevelt was commended for "determined efforts to protect the consumer against runaway inflation prices."

EDUCATION.

Full educational opportunities and appropriations were promised Illinois youth.

EMPLOYMENT.

Private enterprise must be supplemented, if necessary, by "suitable government work" if full employment is to be provided as a post-war right, the platform said.

GOVERNMENT.

The Democrats pledged to stand for "constitutional government."

LABOR.

A plank insisted that virtually "all beneficial labor legislation was enacted under Democratic state and national administrations."

TAXES AND REVENUE.

The Democrats insisted that Gov. Green had nothing to do with the $90,000,000 state treasury surplus and demanded that the poor relief tax levy on property be eliminated. Reduced appropriations and a reduction of the sales tax to 1 per cent were promised.

VETERANS.

Demobilized soldiers and sailors were promised full employment and a demand was made that "Illinois enact legislation providing for payment of additional benefits out of the $90,000,000 sales tax hoard."

WELFARE.

The Green administration was accused of exploiting welfare and relief clients as the Democrats urged relaxation of old age pension laws.

WOMEN.

The Democrats inserted a plank promising "the fullest protection of the rights of women in the office, in the factory, on the farm, and in the home."

YOUTH.

Gov. Green's Republicans were accused of defeating a proposal to reduce the voting age to 18 years.

Other planks promised strict civil service rules, home rule for municipalities, congressional and senatorial reapportionment, escape-proof prisons, honest elections, and enforcement of motor vehicle laws. The charge was made that Republicans have attempted to use the University of Illinois for political patronage.

LYONS EXAMINES WORK OF RIVALS AND PITIES THEM

Democrats Had to Think of Browder, He Says.

"The Illinois Democrats apparently had trouble getting phone connections with Sidney Hillman and Earl Browder to discover what should be incorporated in their platform," Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for senator, said last night in commenting on the expressed principles of the state Democratic convention.

"It is almost impossible for the local Democratic machine to keep up with the latest policies of the New Deal big shots in Washington," Lyons continued. "The state Democrats couldn't find out whether to go pro-British, pro-Russian, pro-world state, or for an international police force.

Planned "to Stumble Along."

"Apparently the old Illinois New Dealers were planning to stumble along the old line for super-states, super-post-war peace plans, and super-taxes, and super-expenditures. But the candidates for governor and senator, knowing that Illinois has repudiated these super-dreams for a wholehearted Americanism, pleaded with the platform makers not to make their campaigns harder.

"Temporarily, the Kelly leaders acceded to these wishes and allowed the platform to entreat the party for some recognition of the sovereignty of the United States. Then came more confusion. The party leaders were told that any declaration for Americanism would bring them into disfavor with the Washington palace guard.

"A Nondescript Platform.'

"As a result, the Democrats came out of this conference bearing a nondescript platform that apparently advocates a modicum of good weather, some happiness, more pay roll jobs, and several more fish for Illinois streams.

"The platform has at least made the issue clear cut between the Republicans and Democrats. The G. O. P.'s foreign plank pledged the full prosecution of the war thru international coöperation and 'not thru joining a world state.'

G. O. P. Puts U. S. First.

"It puts the United States first and puts full emphasis on adherence to the Constitution.

"The state Democratic platform says only that the party leaders believe the national leaders can set up some kind of organization to take care of things.

"The state Democrats are more to be pitied than blamed. They must determine the latest desires of ex-convict Earl Browder, the New deal visionaries, the city hall machine, and the tea drinking internationalist snobs before they can take a stand on anything."

SCHROEDER MAY LEAD G.O.P. IN WESTERN DRIVE

Further recognition of Illinois is expected in the organization of the western campaign, state Republican leaders said yesterday.

Werner W. Schroeder, Illinois national committeeman, was reported to be Gov. Dewey's choice to head western headquarters in Chicago. After the G. O. P. convention Schroeder was named a vice chairman of the national committee.

Schroeder represents the midwest viewpoint. He urged party leaders to give his section its share of speaking honors at the convention. He has been militant but scholarly in his consistent attacks upon the Roosevelt burocracy.

In 1942 Schroeder was a runner-up in the election of a national chairman. He prevented selection of a Willkie man by swinging his votes to Harrison E. Spangler of Iowa, who was succeeded last week by Dewey's choice, Herbert Brownell of New York.

4 PERSONS HURT AS PLANK FALLS AT CONVENTION

A heavy plank apparently fell from the top of the Chicago Stadium onto the crowded main floor while the Democratic state convention was going on last night. Four persons suffered minor injuries. Supervising Capt. John Horan, the first police officer to reach the floor, said, "It was a miracle that we didn't have serious casualties."

"I saw the plank in the air," said Shirley Franz, a cadet nurse living at Mercy hospital. "It was dropping end down."

Cap. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed police, said the timber might have dropped from a catwalk under the roof. Resultant confusion on the floor momentarily interrupted the speech of State's Atty. Courtney, candidate for governor.

Emergency treatment was given the four injured. Mrs. John O. Halloran, 71, of 2937 Lowe av., was taken to Presbyterian hospital. Others were Mrs. Willie Pearl Raybon, 876 Sedgwick st.; Phil Jordan, 7041 Euclid av., and Mrs. Margaret Wujastyk, 15828 Woodridge av., Harvey.

U. S. DROPS MAIL PLAINT IN CASE OF H. M. PARKER

United States Commissioner Walker yesterday dismissed charges of sending obscene matter thru the mails against Harrison M. Parker, 67, of 4534 Greenwood av. at the request of Assistant United States Atty. George G. Kelly.

Parker protested the dismissal and demanded a trial. He said he would ask a grand jury investigation of the attorney's office.

William J. Connor, first assistant United States attorney, said the government had received authority to dismiss the case from Tom C. Clark, assistant to the United States attorney general.

It was understood that Clark had authorized United States Atty. Woll to use his discretion in disposing of the case. Connor said his office planned to bring the matter to the attention of state authorities. Federal Judge John P. Barnes last week refused a government request for a sanity hearing for Parker. He was arrested May 27 on a warrant obtained by Earl K. Jones, postoffice inspector. His bond was fixed at $7,500 but later reduced to $5,000.

DEMOCRATS GIVE WOMEN BIG PART IN CONVENTION

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—Democratic national committee officials announced today that women have been given two top speaking spots on the program of the party's national convention, opening July 19 in Chicago—the first time women have been so prominently recognized.

Listed to address sessions are Helen Gahagan Douglas, actress and wife of movie actor Melvyn Douglas, and Mrs. Gladys Tillett, head of the women's division of the national committee. Mrs. Douglas was nominated for congress in the California primary.

SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED.

A verdict of suicide while despondent because of illness was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at the inquest into the death of Mrs. Clara De Haan, 43, of 846 E. 88th st., who shot herself Saturday in her home.

NATION'S OUTLAY FOR WAR TOTALS OVER 199 BILLION

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—Fighting a global war and getting ready for it has cost the United States 199 billion 940 million dollars since July 1, 1940, or about 140½ million dollars a day.

These figures were disclosed by the treasury today in a year end report placing the cost of war activities in round figures during the fiscal year ended June 30 at 89 billion 721 million dollars, including 2 billion 682 million dollars paid out by the Reconstruction Finance corporation and its subsidiaries.

These outlays and the interest on the war debt, the treasury said, accounted for more than 95 per cent of the "unprecedented" 1944 fiscal year expenditures—93 billion 744 million dollars. The total was 15 billion 565 million dollars more than in the fiscal year of 1943.

Income Zooms.

While spending increased, the government's income zoomed. Receipts amounted to 44 billion 149 million dollars or nearly double the 22 billion 282 million dollars taken in during fiscal 1943.

Despite this record income, the government was left with a deficit of 49 billion 595 million dollars, a reduction of 6 billion 303 million dollars from last year's deficit, but still enough to shove the public debt to $202,625,456,521.98 as of June 30.

In round numbers, this is the nation's annual bill for war expenditures, including RFC disbursements, during the fiscal years 1941-'44:

1941—6 billion 655 millions; 1942—28 billion 266 million; 1943—75 billion 298 million, and 1944—89 billion 721 million.

Spending Increases.

All of the top war agencies spent more than in the previous year, the army accounting for an increase of 6 billion 985 million; the navy 5 billion 650 million; the maritime commission billion 36 million, and the war shipping administration 817 million.

There was a trend among nonwar agencies, however, to spend less. For example, the department of agriculture laid out 61 million dollars less than in the preceding year.

Income taxes accounted for 26 billion 262 million dollars of the government's income, a jump of 18 billion 561 million over the previous year.

Included in these collections was 8 billion 393 million dollars from withholding taxes.

WOMEN EXCEED MEN IN JULY'S GRAND JURORS

Cook county's grand jury for July, 13 women and 10 men, was impaneled yesterday by Chief Justice Benjamin Epstein in Criminal court. It was one of the few occasions when women had been in the majority on the panel.

Fred J. Ostrander, 7604 Cregier av., was named foreman. He had been foreman of the April grand jury in 1939. Those who asked to escape duty were rebuked by Judge Epstein for a lack of civic pride and patriotic duty.

"We must maintain these institutions here at home," he said, "to protect society and to protect it for the future when our boys come back. Plain business and shortage of help are no reasons for excuse."

He said it was unfortunate when the country was engaged in war that crime has not taken a holiday.

"When people ask us what we've heard from the Colonel, it's hard to realize they just mean our Billy!"

FATALLY HURT IN FALL.

Joseph J. Piszczek, 64, a bricklayer, was fatally injured yesterday in a 26 foot fall from a smoke stack under construction at 335 N. Lamon av. His home was at 2009 Adeptus st., Park Ridge.

GUNMAN FLEES WITH CASH.

Miss Ann Phelan, manager of a Checker Cleaners shop at 3120 N. Cicero av., was robbed of $24 by a young gunman who fled in an automobile, she informed police yesterday.

LABOR LOSING ITS INFLUENCE, TOBIN DECLARES

New York, July 3 [Special].—Declaring organized labor has lost its "punch" and influence on government because of its disunity, Daniel J. Tobin, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, largest affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, today called upon AFL and the congress of industrial organizations to resume efforts to achieve amalgamation.

He said the negotiating committees of the two organizations had not met in 23 months and suggested it was time they got together again in a serious attempt to end the labor feud. He warned that unless labor achieved unification it would pay a great price for its disunity in the loss of wage and working standards after the war.

Tobin, who was chairman of the Democratic labor committee in the last two Presidential campaigns and is expected to play a similar role this year, gave his views in an editorial prepared for the International Teamster, official organ of his union.

Gen. Baylis to Return to Camp Grant Command

Fort Lewis, Wash., July 3 (AP).—Brig. Gen. James E. Baylis, who has established a new medical training unit here, will return soon to his permanent post as commanding officer of Camp Grant at Rockford, Ill., it was announced officially here tonight. The general was called here June 1 on temporary duty.

4 Midwest States Lead U. S. in Saving Auto Steel

The midwest region of the war production board—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, and Wisconsin—led the nation in steel scrap from automobile graveyards in May, turning in 15,452 tons, the WPB said yesterday. In addition, 5,200 scrapped cars provided parts for repairs, Samuel J. Sutton, WPB salvage manager, said. He added that man power shortages prevented the junking of nearly 6,000 more cars.

WHILE the Declaration of Independence was being signed, Washington was on the battlefield fighting for that independence. After it was adopted he ordered it read at the head of each brigade of the Continental Army. "The General hopes," his order read, "that this important event will serve as a fresh incentive to every officer and soldier to act with fidelity and courage . . . defending the dearest rights and liberties of his country."

LET US PAUSE ON

Independence Day

. . . and give thanks for the freedom which the Declaration of Independence proclaimed. Let us remember, too, that today this great document is being signed in spirit by every American who contributes anything, no matter how humble, toward the war which our country is fighting. May we all reconsecrate ourselves on this Independence Day to those great and simple principles upon which Washington and the framers of the Declaration of Independence built this nation. And may we in the spirit of patriotism do all we can to guard zealously the precious heritage of liberty which that document gave us.

DEWEY PLANNING CONFERENCE OF G.O.P. GOVERNORS

Meeting Likely Following Democratic Convention.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., July 3.—Gov. Dewey, Republican candidate for President, will spend a quiet Fourth of July in the executive mansion here reading the thousands of congratulatory letters he has received on his nomination. This morning, at his first press conference since his return from Chicago, he asked newspapers to express his thanks to the letter writers.

The governor said he has no other definite plans altho he disclosed tentative arrangements are being made for a meeting of the 26 Republican governors, including himself and Gov. Bricker of Ohio, the Vice Presidential nominee, to map the party's campaign strategy. The session will probably be held late this month, after the Democrats name their candidates and adopt their platform in a convention opening in Chicago July 19.

No Comment on Politics.

Some of the corps of newspaper men assigned to cover Dewey, asked the governor about campaign issues. His "no comment" indicated he believed such discussions premature, at least until after the Democratic convention.

Dewey hopes to spend quiet weekends this summer on his 300 acre farm near the small town of Pawling in lower New York. He said he wanted "just to read, study, rest, and get some exercise." No speeches or tours have been scheduled as yet.

The governor announced that his campaign headquarters have been opened in the Roosevelt hotel, Manhattan, named for Theodore Roosevelt. From there, organization work is to be directed by Herbert Brownell Jr., Republican national chairman, and J. Russel Sprague, New York national committeeman.

Impressed by Midwest.

In visiting about the state capitol here, reporters found Dewey's associates favorably impressed with midwestern Republicanism as they saw it at the Chicago convention.

"All we had known about THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE before the convention," said a secretary, "was what we had heard from New Deal radio commentators and the pink New York press."

New York state was a battleground of the Revolutionary war which established America's independence, never seriously threatened until the radicals in the New Deal fostered schemes of a world state. Of 308 skirmishes and engagements noted in histories of the Revolutionary war, 92 were fought in New York.

George Washington was in New York when he received his copy of the Declaration of Independence protesting against "arbitrary government" and "absolute rule."

Phrases Against Crown.

From a copy of this declaration in the governor's office, it was noted that it contained other phrases directed against the British crown but sounding remarkably like today's complaints against President Roosevelt. These include the following:

"He made judges depend upon his will alone."

"He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance."

"He has excited domestic insurrection among us."

Dewey has another copy of the Declaration of Independence at the mansion, printed with the Constitution of the United States, for re-reading in the shaded lawn beside a swimming pool installed by a former New York governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

COOK COUNTY REPORTS 500,000 TAX PAYMENTS

Chief Clerk William J. Lake of the county treasurer's office said yesterday that more than 500,000 tax payments had been received by mail before the July 1 deadline and that he estimated they represented 30 million dollars. The mail has not yet been opened. Cash already tallied has reached 55 million dollars. It was Lake's opinion that total collections this year will be above those of last year.

CITY BOND SALES BEHIND RECORD OF OTHER AREAS

Only 62% of Quota Is Reached.

The war bond drive in Chicago and Cook county is lagging, Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the 5th war loan for the city and county, said yesterday in disclosing that sales up to Saturday evening totaled $557,401,000, or 62.35 per cent of the quota of $894,014,000. In the memory of war dead and in the name of the 700,000 soldiers and sailors from this area, Clarke appealed for observance of Independence day with purchases of extra war bonds.

As of Saturday, bond sales to individuals stood at $119,257,000, or only 43.06 per cent of the $277,000,000 quota in this category, while corporate sales were $438,144,000, or 71.01 per cent of the quota of nearly $617,000,000. Clarke asserted that this showing "is far behind the Illinois, as well as the national performance."

Bond Booths Open.

Clarke reminded prospective bond purchasers that scores of bond issuing agencies will be open today despite the holiday. Virtually all motion picture theaters and many chain drug stores, as well as places where public celebrations will be held, are offering war bonds and stamps for sale.

"Today, flags will be waved in observance of Independence day, but flag waving alone is not enough," declared Clarke. "The buying of extra war bonds is a more concrete and eloquent, testimonial to our determination and sincerity of purpose. Our bond drive is lagging, but the men who are sacrificing life and limb on many battlefronts are ever going forward."

State St. Rally Set.

Activities in the bond drive next Monday evening will center at State and Madison sts., where more than 700 Chicago Shriners, comprising uniformed marching units of the Medinah temple, will present a colorful program. The State Street council is coöperating with the activities.

All traffic in State st. from Congress to Lake sts. will be stopped during the program, scheduled for 8:45 to 9:45 p. m. Invitations have been extended to Gov. Green and Mayor Kelly to participate in the bond rally. The procession will start at Michigan av. and Balbo dr. Music will be provided by the Medinah Brass band of 100 pieces, the Oriental band of 68 pieces, and 60 Shrine chanters.

Balaban and Katz Theaters corporation announced yesterday that all its executive office employes have volunteered to assist in bond sales Thursday, which has been designated Free Movie day. Persons attending any of the corporation's 50 theaters will be admitted free with the purchase of war bonds in the theater lobbies.

5th War Loan Campaign Reaches 92 Pct. of Goal

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—Sales thru Saturday in the 16 billion dollar fifth war loan drive totaled 14 billion 685 million, or 92 per cent of the goal, the treasury announced today.

AIR LINE TRAFFIC SETS RECORD IN FIRST HALF YEAR

Cite Figures to Prove Need of Terminal.

More airplane passenger traffic was handled at Chicago airport from January thru June this year than in any six months' period since the airport was built in 1928, Public Works Commissioner Hewitt reported yesterday.

He said 364,231 passengers arrived at or departed from the airport in the first half of this year, compared with 298,328 in the comparable period in 1943. The June figure was 79,933, which was exceeded by only two previous months—August and September, 1941, in each of which there were 84,000 passengers.

Commercial Traffic Up.

Commercial planes taken by the government when war was declared are being returned gradually, with a consequent rise in the number of passengers carried. The eight major air lines using the airport operated 92 scheduled planes on Chicago runs before Pearl Harbor. They were reduced to 60 after the Japanese attacked, but the lines now operate 75.

There were 22,709 scheduled plane movements—arrivals and departures—in the last six months at the airport, in addition to 25,883 nonscheduled movements. The nonscheduled flights included military planes, and privately chartered missions such as Gov. Dewey's arrival from Albany to accept the Republican nomination for President. Nonscheduled flights this year have been fewer than last year.

"The scheduled air line operations are a definite sign that air traffic will be immeasurably increased in the succeeding six months, and the need for a new air terminal is becoming greater," Hewitt said. "Work should be started on this terminal as soon as possible."

A terminal to cost from $950,000 to $1,250,000 has been proposed for construction on the northwest corner of the field. The air lines have offered to finance the construction, for the city, and to be repaid in rent.

USES A KETTLE TO FIRE RIFLE; FAILS IN SUICIDE

Archie Solomon, 26, of 617 Lorel av., made elaborate preparations to commit suicide yesterday, but last night he was in St. Anne's hospital, where his condition was described as serious.

Solomon, a millwright, fastened a .22 caliber rifle to his bathtub, tied one end of a rope to the trigger, tossed the other over a towel bar and tied it to a tea kettle. In the spout of the kettle he put a rubber hose, the other end of which was attached to a water faucet. Placing a blanket in the tub and two pillows to his back, Solomon turned on the faucet, took a sleeping pill, and crawled into the tub, according to Policeman Tom McClade.

When the kettle became heavy with water, it pulled the trigger on the rifle, sending a bullet into Solomon's chest. The shot awakened Solomon and he staggered into the kitchen, where neighbors found him. Police said they also found a noose hanging from a chandelier in the front room. Neighbors reported Solomon had been despondent since his wife left him, taking their 14 month old child with her.

FIRST EXHIBITION OF B-29 DEVICES AT TRIBUNE SHOW

MAYTAG DAY.

Today is Maytag day at the Tribune War Products show. It is dedicated to employes of the Maytag company for their war production. A special program by Maytag workers will be broadcast by W-G-N from 7:15 to 7:30 p. m. The small swing band from Camp Robert at the Great Lakes naval training center will play before the broadcast. This feature will begin at 7 p. m.

Operating units for the B-29 Super Fortress will be exhibited publicly for the first time today in the War Products show at the Tribune Tower. Special permission from the army air forces was required to display these devices.

The War Products show, now in its fourth week, closes Sunday. The United States treasury is sponsor of the show, in coöperation with THE TRIBUNE, and the armament manufacturers, whose products are on exhibit. The show is open daily from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Opens Bomb Bay Doors.

The Super Fortress units may be seen in the booth of the Maytag company in the big tent. There are electrically driven actuating devices, one of which, when set in motion by the pilot of the giant bomber, opens the bomb bay doors, then closes them when the bombs have been dropped.

The Maytag company also is showing many other aircraft parts manufactured in its Newton, Ia., plant, including engine castings, a hydraulic cylinder mechanism, and a speed reducer.

Workers to Explain.

Four workers from the plant turning out Super Fortress parts will be in the Maytag booth to explain how they are made and operate. Two of these workers will be Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Barrett. Two of their sons are marine veterans of Tarawa and are now believed to be fighting in the Marianas. Another son, in the navy, has seen action in the Southwest Pacific, and their fourth son, also in the navy, has been reported missing since the Java sea battle.

Another worker to be in the booth is Tom Roush, foreman in the foundry producing aluminum alloy bomber turret rings, whose son is a Liberator pilot who has been on missions over France. The fourth Maytag worker is Le Roy Dimond, final inspector on B-29 parts.

3 DAY HOLIDAY REVEL REACHES CLIMAX TODAY

Legion Show to Top Off Wide Celebration.

Despite the sobering knowledge that Americans are fighting on at least three major fronts and that the domestic war plants must continue full blast if the mounting needs of these men for equipment and supplies are to be met, Chicago and the nation will celebrate today their 169th Independence day in a manner reminiscent to some degree of the jolly old Fourths of pre-war years.

In and around Chicago the forest preserves and parks will be gay with picknickers. More than 140 organization picnics and thousands of family picnics are scheduled. Feasting, singing, and games will fill the day and evening.

Vast Beach Throngs Expected.

Three-quarters of a million persons will visit the park district's beaches and pools if a preliminary estimate of a park district spokesman is correct. There will be additional thousands at the city controled beaches.

The Brookfield and Lincoln park zoos, the Shedd aquarium, Adler planetarium, Chicago Museum of Natural History, and the Museum of Science and Industry will be open.

There will be fireworks displays, but nowhere near as many as in former years. They will be seen in Oak Park, Evanston, and other outlying localities, and an elaborate display depicting a beach landing, the bombing of Berlin, and a rocket plane attack will climax the American Legion's 10th annual Independence day celebration at Soldiers' field tonight.

Army Music in Grant Park.

The Legion's celebration, also to include a Red Cross pageant, several circus acts, and other features, will not be the evening's only lake front patriotic observance. Army musical organizations will appear at the band shell opposite 11th st. in the Grant park free summer concert series.

A giant barbecue will be the Fourth of July feature at the Chicago service men's summer center, Fullerton pkwy. and the Outer dr. From 5:30 to 7:30, beef, corn, potatoes, buns, pickles, and coffee will be served to service men and women. Americans of Greek ancestry planned the party under the chairmanship of George Kocalis, president of Grocerland Co-Operative, Inc., which is donating the food.

Despite office of defense transportation warnings of travel discomforts and possible delays, a great many Chicagoans are spending the Fourth away from home. Transportation agencies are expecting the peak homeward movement today.

One day excursion travel on the lake was heavy. The river ticket office of the Cleveland and Buffalo Steamship company said that the S. S. City of Grand Rapids left for St. Joseph and Benton Harbor, Mich., with a capacity load of 1,388. Many hundreds were turned away. Owners of the Milwaukee Clipper said she sailed with 1,028 passengers and that 6,000 were turned away.

Thousands will spend today working.

Puzzler: Why We Celebrate

A TRIBUNE reporter patroled the sidewalks along Michigan av. yesterday and asked Chicagoans: "Why do you celebrate July 4th?" And the reporter discovered that a number of Chicagoans haven't the vaguest idea.

In all, 45 men and women, representing all walks of life, were questioned by the reporter. Thirty-eight knew — or were given the benefit of the doubt. Most of those answers considered correct were: "Because it's our Independence day."

One war plant worker, age 65, said: "I'm a Pennsylvania Quaker. We used to feel more strongly about the Fourth of July than we did the Sabbath." That wasn't the answer, but it was as close as some of them.

Most forward of them all was a restaurant worker, age 47, who said point blank, "I don't know." The reporter asked him if he wanted to know, and he said, no, he'd gone thru life this far without knowing, and guessed there wasn't much point in learning now.

"I'll tell you why," said another war plant worker, who gave his age as 52. "Because I celebrated it when I was born, and all the time while I was a kid." But why, insisted the reporter. The war worker then said he was a veteran of World War I, and he guessed he ought to know why, without having to tell some newspaperman.

A 67 year old plumber said, "Because it's a great holiday for the country." He coughed as if embarrassed, looked at the reporter, and then added: "I really don't know. It's a black eye for the plumbing profession, isn't it? Would you tell me why? I think it would come back to me then."

So the reporter explained how the Continental congress met in Philadelphia in 1776 and adopted the Declaration of Independence, declaring the 13 American colonies were free from the British empire. He explained further that the important piece of paper was adopted on July 4, and that eventually 56 men placed their signature on the document.

The plumber nodded his head. "I guess I did know that. But I hadn't thought of it for a long time."

A 20 year old office worker said she celebrated the Fourth because "It's a custom." But most amazing of all was the answer given by a salesman, who said he was "about 41." Without hesitation, he told the reporter that the Fourth "was the day the firecracker was invented."

A 39 year old laborer, asked why he was celebrating July 4, growled, "I'm not. I'm gonna work."

FIREWORKS SOLD AT MANY STANDS IN COOK COUNTY

Many fireworks stands were operating in Cook county yesterday in defiance of the state law prohibiting the sale of "firecrackers, torpedoes, skyrockets, Roman candles, bombs, and any fireworks containing any explosive compound." Exempted are sparklers and toy pistol paper caps containing less than 20/100ths grain of powder.

"If there are any violations of the fireworks law, immediate steps will be taken to correct the laxity," said Sheriff Mulcahy. "All laws will be enforced as long as I am sheriff of Cook county."

After years of efforts, the strict state law was enacted in 1941 to end the fireworks casualties. It was approved by Gov. Green.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

When Richard Henry Lee proposed in the second congress June 7, 1776, "That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, Free and Independent States," only three delegations at Philadelphia had authority to consider so bold a declaration. They represented North Carolina, Virginia and Massachusetts. None of the other colonies was definitely committed for, and indeed some were committed against, independence. Yet the war had been in progress more than a year.

Boston had been taken. Canada had been invaded, Montreal occupied and Quebec besieged. North Carolinians had fought and defeated a large force of loyalists at Moore's creek. Charleston's sand and palmetto fort on Sullivan's Island had repulsed Parker's fleet and Clinton's army. Norfolk had been burned and naval guns turned on the tidewater people. Adm. Howe was on his way to New York with a fleet and an army of Germans to join his brother, the general, who had been driven out of Boston.

The admiral carried an olive branch with his sword and hoped to end the war with guarantees and by persuasion. As his ships came in he could hear the guns celebrating the signing of the Declaration of Independence. His peace mission was a failure before he could land.

Courage to form a new nation with a new creed had been rarer than the courage to defend colonial rights, but the step had been taken. For the purpose of separation the resolution adopted by congress July 2 would have been enough. It was a declaration of independence: "Resolved, that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, Free and Independent States; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them, and the state of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved."

That did not lack finality but fortunately it did not satisfy the delegates. They were impelled by "a decent respect to the opinion of mankind" to declare their causes. Thus they gave the world a philosophy of government and of social order which if not wholly new to the thinkers of all ages was wholly out of the expectations of any other people.

When in later years the authorship of the Declaration was questioned by contemporaries who knew it had borrowed freely, particularly from James Wilson of Pennsylvania and George Mason of Virginia, Jefferson wrote that he hadn't thought it his province to "find out new principles" or to say things that never had been said before but to present "an expression of the American mind." It might be true, as John Adams said, that the ideas had been hackneyed in congress for two years. Aristotle, Cicero and Locke might be in the Declaration. As one of a committee of five Jefferson had been intrusted with the composition. He had sat down without notes or reference books and had composed it. What so freely flowed from his mind might have had many sources.

"All men are, by nature, equal and free," had been written by Wilson. "No one has any authority over another without his consent." "All men are by nature equally free and independent," Mason had written in the Virginia declaration of rights adopted June 12, "and have certain inherent rights, of which, when they enter into a state of society, they cannot, by any compact, deprive their posterity; namely, the enjoyment of life and liberty, with the means of acquiring and possessing property, and pursuing and obtaining happiness and safety." Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness as unalienable rights of men created equal was the literary gift of Mason to Jefferson.

We may be thankful that Jefferson at the close of his days wanted to make an explanation of his work. He there gave us the life spark of the Declaration. It was "an expression of the American mind." Otherwise, remaining a noble piece of literature, it would have been nothing more. It would have had no relation to human conduct or any effect on human conditions. We can't ignore the fact that slavery existed where these ideals flourished, but the Virginia thinkers hated the institution, none more so than George Mason, and didn't know how to rid themselves of it. In spite of the inconsistencies which we must note even today, the expression of the American mind survived and lives. Men are created equal and they create governments not to coerce them but to insure their liberties, protect the rights of all men, provide for the common security, and permit the attainment of happiness.

Jefferson's indictment of the king of Great Britain was an accusation leveled at a ruler who had, in the words of his accuser, denied the people the protection of their courts, made judges dependent on his will, erected a multitude of new offices, sent swarms of officers to harass the people, subjected them to a jurisdiction foreign to their constitution, and altered fundamentally the forms of their government. For these and other reasons found in "a long train of abuses and usurpations" the government of Great Britain no longer derived "its just powers from the consent of the governed." It had become necessary to dissolve the political bands.

The expression of the American mind taking political, economic, and social form, created a nation and a country to which the oppressed, the unfortunate, and the underprivileged everywhere in the world hoped to escape. The attractions of the land of liberty everywhere broke down the natural and strong ties to home, friends, customs, and language. The attraction was an irresistible force and it filled this country from ocean to ocean with people seeking freedom, opportunity, and happiness. They became Americans. The magic of transformation was without parallel or precedent in the history of world migrations.

The expression of the American mind is alive and astir today. It is marching on battlefields and it is in the watch towers at home. An American government which will indorse subjugations anywhere in the world is false. If it undertakes usurpations at home it is false. If it subjects people to a jurisdiction foreign to their constitution it is false.

If it is false we know it cannot prevail.

We know that an American government that is false to the Declaration cannot long prevail. We know it, and with that knowledge, face the future with hope, with confidence, with courage.

PATTERN OF MILITARY TYRANNY.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco has been learning from the lips of Hawaiian lawyers how the army has been administering justice to civilians in the territory.

The first thing to be said about this testimony is that it is not irresponsible. The lawyers journeyed to the mainland as representatives of the Hawaiian Bar association; they spoke as officers of the court, with their reputations for honor and probity at stake if the facts they alleged were proved false. The published account of the court proceedings makes no mention of any attempt by the representative of the attorney general to deny or even dispute the facts put before the judges by these Hawaiian lawyers.

One of the lawyers, E. J. Botts, reported that of 819 civilians who had been hailed before the provost courts in one period and had pleaded not guilty, exactly 819 had been convicted. He added that frequently the fine for a minor offense, such as intoxication, was from $200 to $500.

Atty. Fred Patterson described what happened when the military took over the civil courts. A soldier, he said went into the courthouse "with his gun, his tin hat, and his gas mask. He went up to the bench. He set his gun on one side and his gas mask on the other. With a big cigar in his mouth he said, 'This court is in session; we're ready for business.' That's what happened day after day down there."

Gardner Anthony, another member of the Hawaiian bar, added: "The excesses of military power in the trial of civilians in Hawaii are a matter to be left to the historian, but no one who hasn't been there will know the despair of the lawyer who is trying to present a case to these tribunals."

It is unnecessary to extend these quotations. They establish the pattern of legal administration which the New Deal desires to impose on the American people. The practices complained of were instituted if not on direct orders from Washington, then certainly with the full consent and approval of Washington, as is proved by the fact that they were retained in the face of protests in Hawaii and on the mainland.

The question before the Circuit court in July, 1944 is the right of the military to try and punish civilians in Hawaii. The federal District court in Honolulu has upheld the civil law and the civil courts. This decision is being appealed by the government, tho the war has moved thousands of miles to the west of Pearl Harbor and there is little more likelihood of a Japanese attack on the territory than there is of an attack on San Francisco.

Why is the administration so determined to maintain a military tyranny in being. Obviously not because the safety of the nation requires it. The only explanation that makes sense is the desire of the New Dealers to have a precedent under which they can tyrannize over civilians everywhere. If military tyranny is valid in Hawaii when there is little danger of invasion, it is equally valid in Los Angeles or Chicago or New York.

The attorney general at the last moment changed his mind about putting the question of military supremacy directly to the courts in the Montgomery Ward case here. He must have felt that the same end could be achieved more readily by getting his precedent in Honolulu where the existence of a great naval base might help.

This is an appropriate moment to quote the Declaration of Independence. Our forefathers gave as one of the principal reasons for ending their allegiance to George III., the fact that "he has affected to render the military independent of and superior to the civil power." When the Revolutionary war had been won, the fathers wrote into the Constitution the most careful safeguards against military tyranny. Chief among them was the provision that "the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it."

There is no rebellion in Hawaii and no invasion, and the public safety does not require the suspension of the writ; yet the New Deal administration, which boasts of its liberalism, is playing the game exactly as George III. played it.

If Mr. Roosevelt should be reëlected we may be sure that he will "render the military independent of and superior to the civil power." He will make "judges dependent on his will alone" and we shall all be subject to such military tyranny as he established in Hawaii.

The parliamentary secretary to the British ministry of economic warfare, Mr. Dingle Foot, has arrived in Washington. Dingle Foot, Dingle Foot, dingle all the way. . . . —St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"Castor oil is once more available for use in the manufacture of lipsticks." Come, come, isn't it bad enough printing the contents of the nickel candy bar on the wrapper?—Detroit News.

So far as noted, Father's day was about the same as any other Sunday, with Dad doing the supper dishes as usual.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Ser. U. S. Pat. Office

THE INSANE FOURTH.

They used to call it the Insane Fourth when the anniversary of independence was celebrated with a 24 hour orgy of firecracker explosions and was followed by an epidemic of lockjaw. What is a suitable epithet for it now, when it brings a three day interruption of civilian work in war time and a flood of unnecessary civilian travel?

* * *

Up to the 1890s the standard ammunition of the day was plain, ordinary Chinese firecrackers. A small boy could touch them off from dawn until midnight without becoming a hospital case. He generally finished with a few powder burns on his fingers and a few scorched holes in his pants, but his parents never thought of screaming for anti-tetanus serum. Then American industry went into the firecracker business and produced the so-called "dynamite" variety. Their detonation was sharp and shattering, and if a boy didn't throw fast after lighting the fuse, he was likely to lose a finger or two. Severe lacerations from "dynamite" crackers increased the lockjaw percentage and caused a hullabaloo among the reformers.

* * *

Chinese firecrackers cost a nickel a pack, but every family with an energetic boy or two bought them by the box of 50 or 100 packs. These wooden boxes had come all the way from Canton; they smelled of the orient and the holds of ships in the China trade; and opening them at sunrise, after Pop had fired his salute to the day with a revolver, was more thrilling than opening a gift package under the Christmas tree.

* * *

There were many ways of enjoying these crackers. They could be tossed as harmless grenades at any stray dog that didn't have sense enough to go home and crawl under the bed. They could be touched off in strings, when their fuses were twined together. They could be covered with sand to produce small volcanic eruptions. They could be loaded into toy breech-loading cannon for mimic artillery practice. Large sizes, called "giants," also Chinese, could blow tin cans many feet into the air.

* * *

Such was the Insane Fourth of dreadful reputation. We prefer its memories to the ennui of today's alleged sanity.

CAN'T MAKE UP HER MIND.

Shall I contribute my all to the WAC
As my ultimate share in the war?
Or should I be brave in the ranks of the WAVE,
Or join the MARINES or the SPAR?

Should I matriculate, campus and all,
At a college to train for the WAVE?
Or carry the pack of the militant WAC
While helping my country to save.

I feel my enlistment is imminent now
With the vigorous shifting of scenes.
But I'm faced with the draw of choosing the SPAR,
Or the WACS, or the WAVES, or MARINES.

The WAVE is so trim in immaculate white,
And she carries her Knox with a knack.
But I'm partial to green of the dainty MARINE,
Or the khaki and gold of the WAC.

The WAVES are romantic, progressive, and new,
The SPARS are undoubtedly keen.
Yet I'd like to attack overseas in the WAC,
Or to march with the gallant MARINE.

I'm filled with confusion, my mind is at sea,
Vacillation has made me its slave.
And I'm still in between pledging up with MARINE,
And of serving in WAC or in WAVE.

Fond Memories of Cherbourg?

Linemaster: Literature may lack references to Cherbourg [June 27], but if it were bursting with them, they couldn't properly be classified as "nostalgic," in my opinion.

As the only one out of a whole tenderful of travelers not "in a hurry to get to Paris," I spent several hours in Cherbourg while waiting for a train going south via Coutances and Pontorson to Mont St. Michel, and my memories are utterly lacking in nostalgia.

Patient search failed to reveal a café inviting enough to persuade a tourist to enter. I ended up by lunching in the square across from le gare on two hard rolls, a double handful of cherries, and what remained of a bottle of vin rouge after a generous portion of it had been used to wash the cherries—the eau potable in the fountain not appearing suitable for any such cleansing.

If I passed by the hôtel de ville, it's architecture was not sufficiently arresting for me to remember it. My memories include a huge yellow cat sunning himself on a window sill, a French urchin homeward bound from the bakery with a long, unwrapped loaf tucked under his arm, Madame with the promising mustache and beard who wrapped my cherries in a piece of newspaper, and the gendarme who demanded a pourboire for summoning a taxi to take me back to the station.

The next time I shall be the first one on board the Paris train. Gene of Maywood.

TO A SOLDIER.

I cannot go where you have gone,
For I must stay
To tend a hearthfire and a faith,
While you're away.

The winter of my tears will pass,
Some day I'll sing,
When I look up and see your smile again,
It will be spring. Mary.

From an Old Anvil Shooter.

Glenn Stewart's story in the Line about shooting anvils [June 22] thrilled me to the core. I have wondered for years why I have never seen anything in print or heard any one say a word about shooting anvils, and why no one I have talked with ever heard of such a thing.

Mrs. S. T. asks: "Is the wife of a lieutenant eligible for the free maternity care provided under the government plan?"

ANSWER: Wives of commissioned officers are not eligible. Consult the personal affairs bureau of the 6th service command, room 1100, 20 N. Wacker dr., for necessary assistance.

Mrs. W. A. writes: "May the illegitimate child of a soldier receive a family allowance?"

ANSWER: Yes, if the soldier acknowledges parentage. Our bulletin on the allowance gives complete information. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for it.

CAN WE PRESERVE OUR LIBERTIES?

WHAT has become of the annual Fourth of July celebration, with the procession led by old soldiers? They always wound up at the city park, where a congressman or a local "spellbinder" delivered the oration. The Spirit of '76 was kept alive by those who had worn the blue, the gray, and the khaki. It is a tradition that must not die. We dare not become so sophisticated, so ultra modern that the deeds of our heroes will remain unsung.

The body politic, aware that all is not well, has called upon the doctor. Even a cursory examination reveals the diagnosis. There is an obvious deficiency of a spiritual vitamin—love of country. It cannot be supplied unless each citizen shares to the full the valor that fired the souls of the mountaineers on their long trek to defeat the British at Kings mountain; that defended the Alamo; that conquered the wilderness and carved new states out of the great northwest territory. Only with this same burning courage can our warriors on the farflung battle fronts achieve victory.

The colonies along the Atlantic coast were established by emigrants from England in an effort to escape religious and political tyranny. Subsequent to the American revolution, millions from across the water found freedom in this land where opportunity, education for their children, and a happy existence were guaranteed. All have prospered.

Has success impoverished our blood? Is it pale in comparison with the rich, red stream which coursed thru the veins of our pioneer forebears? Because of our lack of alertness, we are afflicted with a swarm of pestiferous uplifters whose schemes of world comity dwarf the fancies of Utopia. Perhaps it is a disinfectant we need instead of a stimulant; a national insecticide. Otherwise the bites of these "varmints" will be certain to inoculate a poison which may be as deadly as the malaria which destroyed the civilizations of Greece and Rome. Already enough of the toxin of paternalism has been injected to bring on a type of delirium, which has resulted in the wildest post-war planning ever conceived. We are to assume the role of Santa Claus for all time to come, to nations everywhere.

The authors of these fantastic schemes of handing the American way of life, in gilt edged parcels, to every one everywhere, do not understand the fundamental concepts of biology else they would know that social laws and traditions change only with the passing of centuries. Dabbling and interfering where we are not wanted, except for the gold which we can contribute, will surely turn the peoples of the earth against us. Then, truly, will we be fighting for existence.

Unless we are careful, this war—with all its sacrifices—will be in vain. It is a deadly, ghastly business. Its spectral countenance will rise again unless we can recapture faith in our Union; fealty to our Constitution. Only in this way can we hope to preserve the independence which has been ours.

Further testing the patient, it seems clear that our democracy has grown weary in preserving its liberties. We enjoy the rights of citizenship but shirk its duties. We must summon fortitude and accept individual responsibility in the affairs of state or we will perpetuate a dictatorship. The Minute Men opposed the invaders in our early days. Devoted citizens must maintain what they died to establish.

Here is the prescription: Large daily doses of veneration for our flag and all that it means to every true American. This will furnish sufficient inspiration to banish lethargy. We can then put to rout the destructive parasites boring from within.

CHEWS PAPER.

Mrs. W. writes: My 11 year old son has the habit of eating paper. He has all the books he reads torn at the edges. What could be wrong with him?

REPLY.

He is probably hungry for knowledge. Unfortunately, the human digestive apparatus cannot extract nutriment from cellulose [paper]. Bookworms can. He probably craves the starch and glue [sizing] or the clay usually employed in manufactire.

Tender Thoughts of Cash.

In the absence of Miss Winn, who is taking a few days off to change her typewriter ribbon in midstream between conventions, this department's substitute mind lightly turns to thoughts of quite a lot of money, such as $200,230,958,523 and no sense.

That's how much this nation owed on June 28 at the close of what our elder statesmen laughingly call business.

Is their ink red!

By coincidence, the announcement of the debt came on the same day as the funeral of WPA [We'll Potter Around]. Remember him? Bowed by the weight of sheer boredom, he leaned upon his hoe—or was it a shovel? He didn't cost much, comparatively. He would rake up the leaves into neat piles, and presently a passing breeze would scatter them so he could rake them up again. Thus one crop of leaves did double duty. By this and similar economies, WPA pared its expenditures down to not much more than a billion dollars a year—and 59-cent dollars at that.

It was WPA that revived for a grateful nation the beautiful word "boondoggle," originally used by cowboys to describe the way they occupied their idle hours making little doodads to dangle from their saddles. But President Roosevelt said the word "boondoggle" would be "enshrined in American history" if we only "boondoggled" our way out of the depression.

We made a brave try. We enlisted armies of boondogglers. They adorned the rural landscape of Indiana with 54,520 back yard comfort stations. They made lily ponds in California, counted the trees in Harrisburg, Pa., made a scholarly study of the annual rainfall of Russia, drained a piggery in Waltham, Mass., installed a greenhouse in a poorhouse, discovered that by sawing off pieces of broomhandle you could make yourself a set of checkers, and gave instruction in the art of whittling, which meant any thing from sharpening a lead pencil to carving a totem pole.

The boondogglers also taught small boys to play marbles, but it is not of record that the teachers ever dared play the pupils for keeps.

As a money waster, WPA was, on the whole, pretty good—for an amateur. It nicked the national treasury for only about 10 billions, a New Deal dime. And so, since amateurs always must make way for experts, its demise was inevitable.

Moody, Sort of—No?

Salvador Dali, the surrealist painter who likes to hang a grand piano in a tree to dry after he has lifted its cuticle [with precautions], has written a novel, so they tell us. Haven't read it, but Halifax Gadley reports that it moved him strangely, so strangely that he lashed himself to a ouija board, closed his eyes, and automatically produced the following lines, which [if you ask us] are weighted with significance or something:

Three mauve suns stab the sea
And mutely mourn. The lark
Lies mottled with the mark
Of future memory.
But, ah, to them, to me
One ruby! And the dark
Philosophers embark
In less than ecstasy.

Grief's greeting, Yesteryear,
To all your unborn days
Whose faith, we faintly fear,
Must writhe in roundelays
While every throbbing sphere
Invites—invokes—dispraise.

"ONE OLD MAN."

Nashville, Tenn., June 29.—Those unselfish lovers of four or five freedoms are agonizing over the stupidity of their political opponents who have, in their crass, addle-pated nescience nominated Tom Dewey—actually. Why, the "Dealers" could have picked a much better opponent! Not only that but they, in their helpful way, actually offered suggestions. And what did the long eared, short sighted, dimwitted, inexperienced opponents do about it? Ignored these trusty advisers!

And it may be, furthermore, that Tom Dewey will not take advice from the capacious minded New Dealer who has for 12 years dieted the nation on a regimen of flap-doodle and promises that he would, if given enough time, lead us to the land of the languid, dreamy, lotus eaters—those dear people who feel no pain, have no unfulfilled wish, nothing but eternal beatitude. But people are so darned unreasonable! They are growing tired of the glut of promises and the absence of results. They talk about a change, too. In fact, a lot of asinine lob-dotterels are beginning to talk about "one old man." There used to be "nine old men" but now, they say, there is one and he is all tuckered out and needs a rest. Some unappreciative people even say we need a rest from talk about bonuses for failure and shackles for success. Let's all move in and in a truly "New Deal" spirit of unselfishness, give the "Deal" a long, long rest. W. W. PHILLIPS.

THE ZIONIST PLANK.

Chicago, June 29.—The Republican party is to be congratulated on its adoption of a resolution on Palestine calling for the opening of Palestine to unrestricted immigration and land ownership to millions of distressed Jewish men, women, and children needing a refuge from their homes now overrun by tyranny and oppression. It is the writer's belief that this is the first time that a resolution in favor of Palestine for Jewish people has been adopted by a major political party in the United States.

It is to be congratulated for a reaffirmance of the Balfour Declaration of 1917 and the resolution adopted by our congress in 1922, with the result that Palestine may be constituted as a free and democratic commonwealth as a home for the Jewish people.

This Tom and John leadership is what Americans, both Republicans and Democrats, have been waiting for—stanch Americans who will lead us back to our "American way!"

WHEN PLANES WERE "ON ORDER."

Chicago, June 29.—Leo Cherne, news analyst, who is head of a research institute whose recent mushroom growth has paralleled the growth of bureocracy in this country and whose salesmen brag that their largest customer is the United States government said Wednesday night that certain of Mr. Dewey's former statements may rise to plague him.

He cites the one in which Mr. Dewey remarked that the country could not produce 50,000 airplanes a year. Mr. Cherne does not choose to employ his "penetrating" analysis on this kind of a situation. Mr. Dewey was right. The America of 1940 could no more produce 50,000 planes a year than anything. America's production has been in spite of, not because of burocratic hamstringing. If he will recall, our planes at the time of Mr. Dewey's remark were "on order" and still would be if American men of production had not said, "To hell with little planners in Washington, America has a war on its hands, you can tie our left hand behind us with red tape and still we will produce 70,000 planes a year!"

BRUCE S. ROBERTSON.

THE DARK SECRET OF THE PHILIPPINES.

Chicago, June 27.—How grateful I should be, and I am sure numerous others, if we could get further information regarding our fine boys lost in the Philippines! After my years of anxiety I have in the last few days, received word about one of my nephews, which reads in part: "In view of the fact that two years have now expired without the receipt of evidence to support a continued presumption of survival, the war department must terminate such absence by a presumptive finding of death."

Why should this tragedy of the Philippines be such a dark secret? We know about the fall of Rome, Cherbourg, etc., but no satisfactory explanation as yet has come from Washington concerning the most pathetic victims of the war, our gallant and helpless men of the Philippines.

ELECTION FORECAST.

Chicago, June 30.—From what I have observed in comments from editors, commentators, news gatherers, etc., only the Communists and crackpots are dissatisfied with the G. O. CHARGE BRITISH SCHEME TO GRAB LEATHER TRADE

Censorship Leak on U. S. Letters Blamed.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—William La Varre, a former official of the department of commerce, charged today that British concerns are attempting to obtain raw leather thru lend-lease to capture the American leather market in India.

William La Varre.

He said confidential information taken by the American office of censorship from letters of an American manufacturer and turned over to the British led them to this attempt.

La Varre backed the National Association of Manufacturers in an assertion that an agreement by the combined production and resources board is depriving American leather belting manufacturers of export business.

Knowledge Denied by Batt.

The board is composed of representatives of the United States, Great Britain, and Canada, and was established in 1942 to combine the members' nations' output and material procurement into an integrated program in keeping with military requirements. Replying to the N. A. M., William L. Batt, American representative of the board, has denied knowledge of proposals to exclude American manufacturers from foreign markets.

La Varre resigned in February as chief of the American republics division of the department of commerce, in protest against the encroachment of followers of Vice President Wallace on the department's protection of American foreign commerce.

La Varre testified before the senate postoffice committee a month ago that information taken by American censors from letters of American business men is being used by British firms to seize American markets.

Tells of Letter Being Copied.

"One of our oldest manufacturers and exporters of leather belting for industrial machines, writing to agents in Argentina from whom large purchases of raw leather have been made over many years, described the special quality of leather desired as a stockpile during 1944 to fill orders from India," he said today in a statement.

"The correspondence between the American manufacturer and his leather purchasing agent in Argentina was copied by the office of censorship, mimeographed, and supplied to the British embassy.

"The result has been that the American manufacturer has been informed from Calcutta that all import licenses formerly granted him for importing trademarked belting into India have been canceled. All his 1944 applications for export licenses out of the United States and import licenses have been denied.

Orders Shifted to British.

"He has furthermore been advised that the unfilled orders for leather belting, amounting to over $358,000, which he expected to fill from his New England factory, have been transferred to manufacturers in England. And he has been informed that these English manufacturers are now attempting to get the same raw leather in Argentina, thru lend-lease arrangements, which the American firm sought to reserve for its own stockpile.

"This means that instead of this American firm buying raw leather from Argentina, manufacturing its well known brand of industrial belting and servicing its customers, the policy of the New Deal has allowed English manufacturers to take over both his export business and his source of raw hides."

Federal Officials Lashed.

In support of the N. A. M. assertion that a British-American agreement is depriving American leather manufacturers of their export business, La Varre said British officials canceled the Indian import licenses of the firm he was discussing simultaneously with the American denial of the company's export license applications.

"Unfortunately," La Varre said, "we have people in Washington executive agencies who will give away everything we have to expand their own personal activities and emcialdom into world-wide activities. They never built any foreign commerce either for themselves or for the United States. They are liquidating the foreign commerce of many substantial American firms."

ONE KILLED, FOUR SAVED AS PLANE CRASHES, BURNS

Pilot Sticks, but He Orders Crew Out.

One naval flyer was killed and four others saved themselves with parachutes late yesterday when the pilot crash-landed a large airplane on a farm in Kendall county, eight miles west of Troy.

The pilot sustained a gash on his forehead. He reported to officers at the Glenview naval air station that he ordered the crew to bail out when both engines of the bimotored Ventura ship failed. The plane, on a cross-country mission, caught fire and burned several minutes after the forced landing.

Six Men in the Plane.

There were six men in the plane, and those who were saved were flown to Glenview. They said the flyer killed might have fouled his parachute when he jumped.

Glenview naval officers said they were not permitted to disclose the names of the pilot or the crew members, and they said the destination and point of departure of the ship could not be revealed. It was not a Glenview plane.

The plane was being flown toward the Joliet Municipal airport, which is located east of Troy, near the intersection of state highways 66 and 52. The pilot said the right engine "conked out," and a few minutes later the left engine stopped.

Farmers Hear Plane "Sputter."

Farmers reported hearing an airplane motor "sputtering" shortly before the big plane skidded across a cornfield and thru a fence on the farm of Alfred Heap. The flyers descending by parachutes landed within a radius of two miles.

The pilot reported at Glenview that the landing was successful. He climbed out of the ship and cautioned farm folk running to the scene to stand clear of the plane. State police arrived, and at the pilot's request they kept spectators far from the plane.

HOPES for a sunny day are uppermost in the minds of those who will be having a holiday today and who hope to spend it in the country, at country clubs, or at the races. The race program of Arlington Park, which is being operated at the Washington Park track again this summer, will start at 2 p. m. today, an hour earlier than the regular program, and Post and Paddock and Jockey clubs are expecting large crowds for the special events. The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., will receive the profits of this week at the track.

The largest crowd so far this season at the Arlington meeting poured into the grandstands and Jockey club yesterday, and an even larger crowd is expected today. Bright sunshine and a steady, strong wind made cool dresses and tiny hats the most comfortable sort of feminine attire.

Arriving shortly before post time were the Abner J. Stilwells and their guests from Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. William Ansted. Mrs. Stilwell promptly checked Mrs. Ansted's pretty little hat, which she was unable to keep on because of the breeze. Mrs. Stilwell's own tiny white embroidery hat was pinned on firmly and was an attractive addition to her cool, thin, yellow linen frock with white embroidery at the cap and sleeves and around the neck line. Having luncheon in the club house dining room were the Armin Brands and a large group.

Mrs. George E. Van Hagen, her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Van Hagen, in brown and white stripes and no hat, and Miss Catharine Lewis watched the program from the Post and Paddock lawn.

Mrs. Ednyfed Williams looked cool and comfortable in a turquoise and black print dress, a small hat of black satin bows and black satin gloves to match. As chairman of the Illinois racing board, Maj. Williams expects a busy three days with the National Association of State Racing Commissioners, which got under way last night in the Stevens hotel.

Some of the others in the Post and Paddock club yesterday were the Robert Harveys, Francis Neilsen, Mrs. John Mitchell Hutchins, and Mr. and Mrs. Keither Evans of Riverside, whose twin daughters, Barbara and Katharine, in pink and yellow dresses of the same design drew many interested glances.

Engagement News.

At a cocktail party and buffet supper Sunday in their home in Cleveland, O., Mr. and Mrs. Carl N. Holmes announced the engagement of their daughter, Jean Susan, to James Arthur Babson, son of Mrs. Gustavus Babson of Lake Shore dr. and the late Mr. Babson.

Miss Holmes, a member of the Cleveland Junior league, attended Smith college. Her fiancé studied at Deerfield academy in Massachusetts and at the University of Pennsylvania before entering the United States Merchant Marine academy at Kings Point, Long Island, as a cadet midshipman. He and his fiancée have no plans for their wedding, but she will come to Chicago for a visit when he has a leave in September.

Young Mr. Babson's brother, Lt. Gustavus Babson Jr., is on duty with the navy in the South Pacific.

Here and There.

The Summer Social Register for 1944, now in the mails, lists 715 more entries than last season's, indicating that more families have been able to open their country homes this year than last. War time trends noted: Marriages have decreased to 1,018 for the current year, compared with 1,195 in 1943 and 1,681 in 1942, and yachts again are omitted.

The Dennehy family's Fourth of July picnic will be held as usual today at Tower farm in Wadsworth. The gathering will be about as large as usual, with the exception of some younger members of the clan who will be at their jobs, among them Miss Virginie Washburne and her brother, Tom.

The Exmoor, Glenview, and Sunset Ridge Country clubs are having children's parties this afternoon, with special entertainment for the youngsters.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Loring Peirce [Marion Field] of Evanston are being congratulated on the birth of their second child, a son, June 23, in the Evanston hospital. The baby, who has been named Robert Loring, and his sister, Nancy Field, 3, are grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Judson L. Field of Oak Park and of Mrs. Rose Peirce of Chicago.

Ensign and Mrs. Perry H. Kenly Jr. [Betty Jean Swan] now are at home in Norfolk, Va., where he was sent after being stationed at the University of Chicago school of aerology here.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

WAC Supply Sgt. Betty DeYoung yesterday issued to army women in the Chicago installation the new beige rayon shantung off-duty dresses which are the latest addition to the official WAC wardrobe. With them WACs will wear yellow chamois gloves, pumps instead of regulation oxfords, and overseas caps to match the dresses. The dress is of one piece, made with a zipper front. Insignia, identical with those used on regular uniforms, are worn on the points of the open collar. Long or short sleeves are optional.

Corp. Sara Jane Curtis wearing new WAC off-duty dress.

A second civilian woman employe of the army's Chicago signal depot, 1903 W. Pershing rd., has decided to don a uniform. She is Mrs. Sheila Martin, who has worked under civil service as a clerk-typist in the public relations office of the depot. She was sworn into the WAVES several days ago and expects to leave late this month for basic training at Hunter college, New York City.

Because of her clerical skills, Mrs. Martin hopes to be assigned as a yeoman [navy stenographer] upon completion of her instruction. She is the first member of her family to go into uniform. Her husband, Leonard, an essential civilian employe of the Pennsylvania railroad, has given her every encouragement regarding her enlistment.

Mrs. Martin, who came to this country from St. John's, Newfoundland, at the age of 7, became a United States citizen in January. She is a graduate of St. Bridget's High school and also attended a Chicago business college.

The first woman on the signal depot staff to enter service, Pvt. Rosalee Goddard of the WAC, is doing stenographic work at Fort Knox, Ky.

Members of the motor corps of the Chicago unit of the American Women's Voluntary Services took over a new assignment yesterday, that of driving staff cars for officers at the army transient aircraft hangar, 6013 S. Central av.

Maj. Raymond F. Toliver, who has charge of the hangar, said the women work from noon to 8 p. m. every day of the week. The uniformed, volunteer drivers, headed by Mrs. Alma Nellis, chauffeur to the loop and to army bases in this area those officers who put their planes down at the hangar.

Mrs. Lillian Johnson, head of the corps, has announced that her division needs more qualified drivers to take over another army assignment, on which the women will wear, not their handsome blue uniforms, but mechanics' jeans and will drive army vehicles of many types.

Women interested in signing up with the corps and who are qualified to pass a driver's test are invited to inquire about membership by calling Mrs. Johnson at Andover 3380.

Chicagoan Sara Frances Jones, national president of the Women's Overseas Service league, whose members all served in uniform in Europe in World War I., has announced that the league, meeting in annual convention in Cincinnati, O., last week, passed a resolution to admit to membership women on overseas duty in the present war.

The benefits of the organization now are available to WACs on foreign duty, army and navy nurses, and Red Cross workers serving outside the United States. The women may join at any time, while on furlough or leave in this country, or after the war.

Miss Jones said that the British counterpart of the league also opened its membership last week to women of this war.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Telephone Center.

On Times Square in New York there is a public telephone center for service men and women. It's a huge room—an inviting room, especially inviting on a holiday.

The city emptied itself into the country Friday evening. Great numbers of white collar girls, working in New York, took advantage of the long week-end and went home.

The boys in service would like to go home, too, but the only way most of them can is by telephone. If you doubt they feel that way about it, just glance at the registry and see the comments of the service men who make a telephone call and then write in the registry: "Just like home" . . . or "best place in the world outside of home."

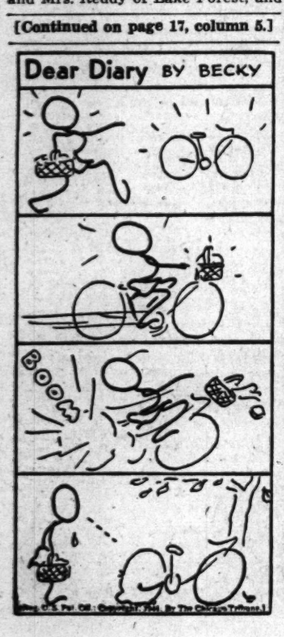
Lonesome Town.

A big city is a lonesome place on a holiday, but not telephone center! There, 35 telephone operators are ready to help the men place their calls. Many of the girls have husbands in service; they are 100 per cent in the bond drive and 100 per cent in the war as they watch the boys day after day, evening after evening, anxiously put thru a call and leave the phone booth with their heads higher and their hearts lighter. It's quite a sight, the girls say, when you watch it every day! They see men telephone before going overseas; they see men call home when they return—a soldier who 24 hours before was in Casablanca . . . a lad returned from the invasion. They see a middle aged couple come every night in the hope of meeting their boy—he had telephoned he was about to embark and the parents rushed to New York from a small town. The parents wait. Every night. The girls see a lad hunt up a Worcester, Mass., directory and point to a picture in the classified section. "Yep—there she is—my sister!" he says to another service man. They see the men point out their home towns on the big wall maps, or point out a place, far distant, where they have been in the war.

A Swell Place.

"One swell place," the boys say, and they are right. In one day a call was placed to every state in the Union except one. About 45 per cent of the calls are collect, tho the army seems to send more collect than the navy. Many times the boys sit down in the big comfortable chairs after they've made a call—just sit down to think it over. Sometimes they come to the center just to thumb thru the telephone books. They like to see if John Smith still lives on Green st. Many of the men read magazines and newspapers; sometimes they're so tired they fall asleep while waiting to complete a call. Before closing hour the manager makes the rounds to find out which boy is calling which place. And more times than not it's hard to close on the dot, because some one is waiting to get a call thru to Oshkosh or Kansas City and the telephone operators haven't the heart to close up with a disappointed soldier sitting in the lounge.

The girls love the work because they can see the results of their efforts—smiles and courage. And they think it's interesting that in a place devoted to the use of the telephone, 25,000 sheets of letter paper are used a month. One boy in particular they tell about. He settled at a desk and was laboriously writing a letter. What looked like a magazine was propped up before him but later it was discovered what it was—a book on "How to Write Love Letters."



Service Show in Grant Park to Mark 4th

An army Fourth of July program featuring patriotic and light music, an address by President Snyder of Northwestern university, and songs by "the army's Frank Sinatra," Pvt. Bob Eberle, will be presented at the Grant park band shell opposite 11th st. at 8 o'clock tonight.

The event is sponsored by the Chicago park district. Admission is free.

The 344th army service forces band of Fort Sheridan, augmented by musicians from the 740th military police battalion at Fort Skokie, will be heard in marches, songs of the various services, and melodies from opera and operetta.

Capt. L. E. Watters of the 6th service command headquarters is to conduct. He will be assisted by Staff Sgt. Norman Stone, bandmaster of the service forces group, and Staff Sgt. Hubert Finlay, who holds the same post with the military police band.

President Snyder's subject will be "July 4—1776 and 1944."

Eberle, formerly soloist with Jimmy Dorsey's orchestra, will sing "Tangerine" and "Besame Mucho." Pvt. "Buddy" Clark, who has appeared on the Hit Parade and other national radio programs, will be heard in "Love, Love, Love" and "Long Ago and Far Away."

Instrumental soloists will be Pvt. Mischa Novy, violinist, and Corp. "Red" Hodgson, cornetist. The latter is the composer of the 1935—'36 hit, "The Music Goes 'Round and 'Round." The Fort Sheridan dance band will be heard under Sgt. Carmen Del Giudice's direction. Sgt. Boris Aplon of Fort Sheridan will be the announcer.

On the Aisle

Beautiful K. T. for "Turtle."

When our company of "The Voice of the Turtle" opens at the Selwyn Oct. 2, built-in kitchenette and all, K. T. Stevens will be acting the Margaret Sullavan role. The other two members of the three character cast have not been announced, but Alfred de Liagre, the producer, and John Van Druten, the author and director, seem to have done all right in their first choice. Miss Stevens made her Chicago bow in 1941 when she replaced Marcy Wescott in "My Sister Eileen," and my scrapbook shows that I found her "honey blonde, leggy, and lovely, with an instinct for timing and a flowing quality of movement." All these qualities are negotiable for the best comedy in seasons, and their owner must have improved on them by this time.

K. T Stevens.

For the record, Miss Stevens was Gloria Wood until she went to court about it. Her father is the movie director, Sam Wood, and she made her picture début at 18 months as the baby who cried when Jackie Coogan stole her ice cream in "Peck's Bad Boy." After she grew up she alternated between stage and screen, playing everything from "Saint Joan" in stock to a bit in "Kitty Foyle" with Ginger Rogers. Before "The Voice of the Turtle" goes into rehearsal, she will play "My Sister Eileen" [with Libby Holman] and "Little Women" in summer stock.

Zasu Pitts Coming.

But the Selwyn doesn't have to languish in darkness until fall. Due Monday night, July 17, is Zasu Pitts in "Ramshackle Inn," George Batson's farcical melodrama which defied New York prognosticators by lasting six months on the drawing power of its hand fluttering star. This will be Miss Pitts' second theater trip to Chicago. Her first was more than a year ago at the Erlanger, when "Her First Murder" buried a funny woman under a hopeless play.

"Oklahoma!'s" First Million.

"Oklahoma!" rings up its 300th performance at the Erlanger tomorrow afternoon, and Friday night its millionth dollar will come rolling in at the boxoffice. The musical has a new Laurey in Betty Jane Watson and a new Ado Annie in Dorothea Freed—both to be reviewed when they get their bearings.

Gossip.

Emmerich Kalman's "Countess Maritza" will be fourth on the Civic Opera house's operetta list, opening July 21 after two weeks of "Wildflower," due Friday night. . . . Forrest Orr, remembered as the plump banker in "Tovarich," has been added to the Gloria Swanson show, due at the Blackstone July 11. . . . George S. Kaufman will direct the stage version of "The Late George Apley" and collaborate with Marquand on the adaptation. . . . When Lila Lee leaves "Kiss and Tell" at the end of the week [Katharine Warren returns from vacation] she will take a permanent job in the Detroit company, replacing Violet Heming: The comedy plays its 550th performance at the Harris Saturday night, and offers one of the town's two holiday matinees today. The other is scheduled by "Uncle Harry," at the Great Northern. The latter will close Saturday night.

Let's Have a Picnic—the Way to a Child's Heart

(Story in adjoining column.)

This young mother is giving her small daughters the time of their lives—with a picnic. Such simple diversions are memorable events for youngsters, Mrs. Bevans notes in her article today.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 3.—We can't celebrate Fourth of July in the usual light hearted way this year, with firecrackers, soda pop, and all the rest of it. We're on the road to victory in another desperate struggle to protect the ideals we've held since 1776, and the cost is high—tho not so high as it would be to lose that struggle. Our thoughts today are with the men who are fighting it out for us on all the fronts. And the best thing we can do is to renew our faith and work for the sort of freedom the fathers of our country founded here. . . . When Walt Disney makes "Uncle Remus," based on the Joel Chandler Harris books, he'll give it the works. Story plans are already being drawn up, and when production is ready to go, Walt will send crews down to Georgia and Alabama to get authentic character and background material. Harris, who wrote the stories, was a Georgia newspaperman. The picture will be rich in the humor of the lovable old Negro philosopher. It goes into production immediately following "Swing Street" [in which you'll hear Dinah Shore's voice and Benny Goodman's music]. . . . "Alice in Wonderland" and "Cinderella," which are also on the list, will not be made until some of Disney's technicians get back from the war. . . . When the world settles down, Walt wants to go to Europe and Australia and do pictures based on the music and local color, just as he's done with his South American pictures. This will be his contribution to the good will of the world at peace, and it should be a potent force in helping peoples of different countries to understand each other.

Friendship in Filmland.

Margaret O'Brien was the only film star I. A. R. Wylie asked to meet when she was out here working on her sequence for "The Common Sin." The meeting was arranged and the two became great friends. When Miss Wylie's completed sequence reached Carey Wilson, who'll produce the picture, he found she had written in a part that nobody but Margaret could possibly play! This production is a vacation for Carey from the Hardy pictures and Nostradamus shorts to which he's been devoting all his time. It's to be a series of events in the lives of different people, each sequence by a different author. . . . Ethel Barrymore, who turned thumbs down on movies for 12 years, is interested again since making "None But the Lonely Heart," and David Hempstead's reading scripts like mad, trying to find another story for her.

Happy Landings for Bing.

Bing Crosby was on the set bright and early for the first day's shooting on "The Great John L.," with which he makes his bow as producer. Greg McClure, who plays Sullivan, presented the new "Boss man" with a bull whip. Bing cracked the old whip once, then dashed off to Paramount, where he's just another employe. . . . Greg has received 500 fan letters to date—and all he can say about it is "gosh!" . . . Tommy Dorsey is back from his tour of 15 one-night stands to work in "Thrill of A Romance," with Esther Williams and Van Johnson. . . . Incidentally, after spending about 6 hours a day in the water for, lo, these many weeks in "Ziegfeld Follies," Esther's taking a postman's holiday today. She's up at Port Hueneme dedicating a new swimming pool for the Seabees.

On the Distaff Side.

Mae Marsh, who's actually a grandmother, plays a spinster in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," while Ferike Boros, who never was married, is mamma to Dorothy McGuire and grandma to Peggy Ann Garner in the same picture. . . . The stork's flying high at Universal, what with Evelyn Ankers and her stand-in, Maxine Rondeau, both quitting work to wait for their blessed events. . . . Laraine Day gave a baby shower for Ruth Hussey [Mrs. Robert Longnecker.] . . . Leah Rhodes, Warners designer, has been borrowed by RKO to design clothes for Hedy Lamarr in "Experiment Perilous." . . . Maria Montez wears one of mother-in-law Alex Aumont's creations in "Bowery To Broadway." Jean Pierre's mother, who runs a dress shop in New York, sent Maria the outfit especially for the picture. . . . Ann Revere, after being veddy British in "National Velvet," now has to acquire a southern accent for "Sunday Dinner For A Soldier."

Short Shorts.

Frank Gruber has been signed to a term deal with RKO as a writer. He sold "For Some It Rains," which is slated for Jean Arthur and is now doing the screenplay for "Who Could Ask For Anything More." . . . Marion Hutton gets a break in the Abbott and Costello picture "In Society." She'll have as her music director Edgar [Cookie] Fairchild, who did all right by Deanna Durbin and Dinah Shore. . . . Lauritz Melchior will give out with three Wagnerian arias in "Thrill of a Romance." . . . Mary Howard, who used to be seen in pictures, has just flown to Bermuda for a six week tour with a USO unit. She's been doing one night stands for the soldiers during the last two years. . . . Hats off to Bing Crosby and Georgia Gibbs, who've never turned down a radio show for the boys over there. They average a show a week for men in the service. . . . Boodie Pepper goes the local glamor girls one better when she answers requests from soldiers for pin-up pictures. She sends six little hotshots of herself, which can be carried in a wallet.

'Cobra' Story Not a Movie to Take Seriously

"COBRA WOMAN."

A Universal picture, directed by Robert Siodmak, featuring Maria Montez, Jon Hall, and Sabu, and presented at the Palace.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Twin sisters were the "Cobra" girls, and they were fair to see! One was as gentle as a dove. One ruled with cru-el-ty the super-sti-tious natives of a high cliffed South Sea isle, from which the dove-like sister'd been spir-it-ed as a chile.

Upon another island she had lived and loved. Alack! Just as she is about to wed, she's nabbed and toted back to Cobra Isle, where follows her devoted fi-an-CE. He and the slender Sabu know that she has been the prey of Foul Design in human form, the which they mean to rout. Abetted by a chimpanzee, they mean to get her out of trouble, be it great or small—or peril what it may. Of fear, these three've the luck to be not troubled that-away.

The dialog's spoken in English meticulous.

Th' while action transpires that is simply ridiculous.

Technicolor is gorgeous and so's Miss Montez

You'll occas'n'ly laff—and Jon Hall will please-yez.

The picture's not one to deride too deliriously

And yet you'd be crazy to take the thing seriously.

See you tomorrow.

It's Fun to Eat Outdoors and Breaks Routine

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We were talking recently about how a mother, who wishes to, but cannot afford to send her children to camp, could simulate this camp idea at home.

One idea I didn't dwell on, but want to today, is that of picnicking.

Any one who has anything to do with children knows how dearly they love a picnic. Little children especially love them, but then they are so easy to please and amuse and make happy that you don't have to half try. They have so much imagination and such joy of living that the littlest thing out of the established routine of their day can become a great event. All we need to do is to understand, drop our strictly businesslike attitude toward life and chores, think up some little, out of the ordinary thing to do with them that has a bit of play feeling in it, and they are enthralled.

Picnics are an example of what I mean. Wherever you may live, the simplest sort of food, even a menu they are used to every day, eaten in a different place instead of on their usual table, becomes a picnic. But if you add some surprise, like an unexpected tray of ice cream or a fresh batch of cookies, their delight is intensified. Just pack up their luncheon or an early supper in a big basket, every once in a while this summer and carry it out under the trees, and you'll find the children's fun will be out of all proportion to the trouble it has caused you.

Lower Cost Clothes of Cotton Expected Soon, OPA Asserts

"Serviceable" house dresses of good grade cotton at $1.49, men's dress shirts at $1.39, women's slips at 65 cents, and men's shorts at 39 cents, as well as cheaper clothes for children, bed linens, and work gloves, may be expected here in a month or two, the office of price administration said yesterday.

Paul A. H. Shults, area director, said new cotton clothes for which the war production board has allocated fabrics have been placed under dollars and cents ceilings by the OPA after consultation with the office of economic stabilization and the office of civilian requirements. In the past, he said, all clothes have been under ceilings based on markups over wholesale prices.

"The government is trying to make available all the low cost civilian essential clothing it can," Mr. Shults said. "The situation is better than it was six months ago, but there still is need for much more serviceable clothing at prices in line for what work and every day clothes formerly sold for."

'One Is Missing'

By H. Vernor Dixon

(Copyright: 1944: By H. Vernor Dixon.)

SYNOPSIS: Camouflaged for jungle warfare, Capt. Jed Reed calls to his companion, Bart, a giant, clad in loin cloth. A white man is approaching. He is Hugh Wescott St. John, engineer, London, Manila, and Hongkong. St. John takes them to a smashed airplane, where they meet Tom Riddell and Richard Cary, pilots; Scott Banning, his wife, Ellen, and Mae Nolan, whose dancing partner, Jimmy Taylor, was killed in the crash. Jed is unsympathetic and curious as to how they shall die. At the fall of Manila, Mae and Jimmy were thrown into a concentration camp from which Scott Banning pulled an escape and had to take them along. They were met in Borneo by Riddell and Cary, with an airplane. Supposedly on their way to China, they crashed. Banning expects to buy his way out of the jungle. Jed assures him there is no escape, as they are surrounded by Japanese. Jed, son of a missionary, whose life has been spent in the South seas, attended officers' training school in the United States. As a demolitions expert, most of his fighting was done behind the lines, blowing up bridges, roads, storage, and munitions dumps. Jed offers to share the wrecked schooner that he and Bart occupy. Banning, an American financier, manufactures airplanes — some used by the Japs. Riddell is his chief test pilot. Jed thinks Ellen very beautiful; Mae, attractive and honest. Bart learns the party was searching for a small island in the gulf, where a submarine was to meet them, but a storm blew them off their course.

INSTALMENT VIII.

PLANS FOR ESCAPE.

Banning looked from one to the other in the room and then back at Riddell. "Well, what do you think?"

Riddell nodded unenthusiastically. "We could get this boat in decent shape in about two weeks or a month. From here to the island it's only about 50 miles. We could make that some night, between sunset and dawn. I'm confident of that."

Banning rubbed his hands together. "Good. Good. Now, do you think the captain would have any objections to us repairing the boat?"

Riddell smiled. "You ask him, with a gun in his back."

Banning returned the smile. St. John frowned at the two men. "What," he asked, "are you gentlemen discussing? I fail to follow you."

Banning leaned back against the aft bulkhead. He cleared his throat and said, "We're talking about escape. A French submarine is waiting for us at a small island about 80 miles from here. Surprising, isn't it? If we can get to that submarine we'll be saved, all of us. You heard what Tom had to say. But there is one thing in the way—"

Mae laughed sarcastically. "You mean Capt. Jed Reed."

Ellen said impatiently, "Please let him continue, Miss Nolan. After all, this is all to your benefit as well as ours."

"I doubt it. Anyway, go ahead."

Banning said, "Of course, you are right. The captain is in the way. For some peculiar reason known only to himself, he is not interested in escaping from Malaya, nor does he wish us to get away. He gives me the creeps, that man. There's something wrong with him."

The Englishman slowly shook his head. "Sour, perhaps. Don't you think it would be advisable to talk matters over with him?"

Banning cried, "I should say not! That man is dangerous, I'm telling you. We have to keep this to ourselves."

"And then?"

"Well, wait for a favorable opportunity to overpower him and the black man. Is it agreed that we work together?"

Ellen and the two pilots nodded. The Englishman was dubious, but Mae Nolan was frankly antagonistic to the whole scheme. "I know what you think of me," she said, "but maybe I've seen a little more of human nature than the rest of you. If anyone ever gets us out of this jungle it will be Capt. Reed and no one else."

Ellen drawled, "You seem to like him."

Mae turned and looked at Ellen Banning. "Y' know," she smiled, "it wouldn't surprise me at all if you began to like him yourself. This jungle's a funny place. You think differently."

She disappeared down the passage and Ellen flushed and glanced at the pilot. A smile had started about Riddell's lips, but it faded when Banning looked in his direction.

Ellen waited a moment, then followed Mae to the aft cabin. She softly closed the door behind her and leaned back against it.

Ellen's mouth made a grimace of distaste. "Miss Nolan," she said, "I would like to know what you were implying a moment ago."

Mae leaned back against the bulkhead and answered, "I wasn't implying a thing; just making a plain statement, that's all."

"A cheap one. You know nothing about me."

"O, don't I?" Mae giggled. "You'd be surprised."

Twin spots of color appeared on Ellen's cheeks. They appraised each other for a long time, then Ellen finally said, "We may as well have an understanding right now. Circumstances have forced us together in a very unfortunate situation. But it needn't be made worse by sly remarks from you."

Mae smiled at her. "You're wondering what I know about you, aren't you?"

"I am not interested in the slightest. Just what is it that you think you know?"

Mae leaned forward and said, "Now I'm sorry I said anything. But you've gone out of your way to ask for this. All right, I'll tell you. Jimmy and I were playing in the International House in Shanghai, when you were quite the rage of the town."

"O, really?"

"Yes, really. The dashing, the lovely Mrs. Banning. All the men were drinking toasts to you, and on the side you were slyly meeting that young pilot, Tom Riddell."

Ellen threw her head back and laughed. "Of all the preposterous——"

"Look, Mrs. Banning; you're not fooling me. I know you. Show people are terrific gossips. I heard all about you. And I saw you a number of times with Tom Riddell."

"A friend and employe of my husband."

"Don't give me that. You two were a backstage scandal. Then, again, I was in Osaka when the three of you were there. It was the same thing. Even the Japanese were making sly remarks about you and Tom Riddell. The affair amused them. Then, one evening, I was at a tea house with Jimmy. You and the pilot were in the next room."

Ellen's checks flushed a deep red and she snapped, "Just what did you hear that was so interesting?"

"Riddell was trying to get you to leave your husband. You were just stalling, that's all, and he knew it. He got mad and the two of you had quite a row. Jimmy and I didn't care to hear any more, so we left."

"So considerate of you." Ellen got to her feet and stood in the center of the stateroom. "Evidently," she said, "it is no use my denying this little—ah—delusion of yours. But, granting its possibility, could you tell me if it is any of your business?"

"None at all. I am not concerned with anything you do, or interested. You're the one who wanted the understanding. Look, Mrs. Banning; I know your type. You're like a female Dracula. When you get all you want out of a man you drop him cold. You went after money and you got it. Now you think you have enough, so your attention has come back to younger men, like Tom Riddell and Capt. Jed Reed."

Ellen's laughter tinkled in the humid cabin. "That horrible beast! How funny."

Mae studied her for a long moment, then smiled. "Not so funny as you may think. I have a hunch that when he washes off all that green paint you're going to be quite surprised with the man underneath. Frankly, I have never met any one exactly like him. He's all man. He exudes masculinity like you do femininity. That's why I said you're going to be interested in him."

"That is so ridiculous. But thank you for the chat, my dear. You have been very entertaining. I must tell Scott all about it."

"Yes, do."

Ellen turned on Mae, her eyes suddenly blazing with anger. "You cheap little cabaret dancer! Let me warn you, Miss Nolan; if you dare step on my toes, in any way, I—I'll have Scott leave you here in this jungle. That is a promise."

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

In today's deal the declarer found an ace in dummy that was—or rather, should have been—worth exactly nothing, but the kindness of a defender turned it into valuable property.

South, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	1 spade	Double	2 clubs
2 hearts	Pass	3 diam.	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	4 diam.	Pass
5 diamonds	Double [final bid]

West opened the diamond seven, his idea being to protect his heart strength against ruffs in dummy. [A somewhat optimistic notion in view of North's repeated diamond raising.] Declarer won in his own hand and, after reflecting bitterly that dummy's spade ace was no better than a fifth wheel, suddenly saw a chance to convert that card into a definite asset. He slyly led the club queen, and to his pleasure West fell squarely into the trap. For reasons that must remain obscure, West decided that it would be better to let partner win this trick with his club king. [Perhaps West felt that an immediate heart return was desirable.] Unfortunately for the defense, East found it impossible to produce the club king.

The club queen having held, declarer led a trump to dummy and discarded the club king on the spade ace. After that it was a simple matter to concede two heart tricks, establish the fifth heart via a cross-ruff, and claim the contract.

Garden Club to Visit Service Men's Center for Its July Meeting

The Garden Club of Illinois will visit the service men's center at 176 W. Washington st., next Monday afternoon. It will be the club's July meeting. Thru its war service committee, of which Mrs. Berthold A. Cronson is chairman, the club supplies flowers for the city's and U. S. O. centers in the Chicago vicinity and for hospitals, libraries, and chapels in camps and naval stations in this area. Mrs. Berthold has charge of the Monday program.

Preliminary to the tour, the club will lunch at 12:30 p. m. in the English room at Marshall Field & Co. The directors will have a conference at 10:30 a. m., with Mrs. Elizabeth R. Howland presiding.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

If you intend to do anything with raspberries this year—make jams or preserves, or treat yourself to a fresh raspberry pie—you'd better do it now for raspberries are at the peak of their all too brief season. Yes, they're high priced, as are all fruits right now. I paid 49 cents for a pound of fat, sweet cherries only the other day, and a pound doesn't go far in a family of berry lovers!

You'd better grab for cherries, too, if you want them for jam and pie; you may be left if you wait for lower prices.

Lucky are the families whose red currant bushes are bearing heavily this year. Currants are the best of all jelly fruits, in my opinion, for they are rich in acid and pectin, the two jelly making properties, and the jelly they produce is a beautiful red quiver of superlative flavor.

Peaches are coming to market in increasing quantity. Last year we had a peach famine, but the outlook this summer is so much better that peaches may be priced moderately enough for large scale canning operations.

Cantaloupes are becoming more plentiful and more reasonable in price. Watermelons are available in some markets, and are dearly bought. But if you love watermelon and pay day wasn't so long ago, you'll pay the dollar or whatever price your dealer asks.

Other fruits now beautifying market windows are apricots, several varieties of plums, some seedless grapes, fresh black figs, some huge, terribly expensive pears, and mangoes.

Mangoes come to Chicago every summer, but I've never noticed so many of them before. The mango is a tropical fruit common south of the border. Fine mangoes for our markets are grown in Florida. Choice fruit has a lovely rosy blush and a noticeable fragrance.

If you haven't become acquainted with the mango, a peach fleshed, smooth skinned, large fruit [as large as a big avocado], buy one and try it. You'll wonder whether it tastes more like a peach, an apricot, a melon or a pineapple. The flavor intrigues you.

Mangoes must be handled properly or they can't be appreciated fully. They lose fragrance and flavor if the flesh is exposed to the air before serving. The best way to serve a mango is to remove the skin in strips, spooning out the rich flesh as you go. A hostess who wishes to serve mangoes for dessert may cut a rather large "flap" of mango skin which may be lifted for eating.

Mangoes are wonderful in fruit salads, but should be prepared just before serving. Store them in the refrigerator individually wrapped in waxed paper, in order to corral that aroma.

Casual Shoes Gaily Footnote Summer Time

BY REA SEEGER.

Smart shoppers have discovered how to conserve their rationed street and dress footgear by sliding into unrationed play shoes and summer sandals the minute they get home. The casual shoes are not only colorful and easy to wear but are designed to slenderize the foot. The rope soled models still are best with casual clothes. They're exceptionally cool and flexible on the foot, come in a variety of colors, and may be had with low or high heels. Canvas and other cool cotton materials are used for uppers, which are cut and fitted with the same skill as is expended on leather shoes.

Newly arrived are clogs of gayly painted wood combined with tie straps of either printed cotton or jersey. The soles are thick and the heels dizzily high. They are the most decorative footnotes in the shops. Cerise, bright green, vivid blues, yellows, and some darker colors are used on the wooden heels and soles, with apparently no ceiling to the exotic colors and patterns of the print used for lacing and band ties. Clogs are ideal with summer lounging slacks for garden and porch wear. No one will mind the clatter, and think how you'll save your street pumps when you wear such gay and colorful clogs.

In the same cheerful category of summer lounging footgear are the scuffs of colored cotton. These are heelless, the kind you can slide into with ease and speed, with soles of the same cotton canvas textured stuff as the straps over the toes and instep. Green, blue, red, gold, and white assure a good color choice. Some travel scuffs cut on the same model come in neat black background prints with red, blue, and green floral pattern, and the price marks are as easy to approve as the colors and snappy outline.

Thru the Looking Glass

This is a relaxation day for almost all of us lucky ones on the home front. We ought to make the most of our luck.

Today, we propose that the women who never get a real chance to relax should learn how to sail in and do it, right at home.

If you have children, hand them over to father for the day. He'll survive and so will they. Have your breakfast in bed, if you can possibly swing it. Read the papers leisurely or nibble on a novel. Have lunch when you want it and of what you want. Brush your hair. Do your nails. Have an afternoon nap, followed by a de luxe bath, some fancy fragrancing, and the donning of your best dress for dinner. Be firm about keeping the doors closed and all minor household catastrophes out of eye and earshot.

We know, of course, that in some households this is utterly impossible, but it can be arranged in plenty of them. The woman who doesn't stop ever so often—who doesn't say "to heck with the house and the meals and the dust on the shelves today"—is making a great mistake. Nobody loves a harassed housewife, not even those for whom she is harassing herself. In the curious, ungrateful way of human nature they may love her least of all.

What's one woman's relaxation dish is another woman's poison. Maybe your dish would be to get as far away from the house and its inhabitants as possible. Take your day of independence and do this. Let dinner be on father, and let him pay the check. And don't open your little trap about how much it costs if he gets expansive . . . that's his pleasure, and his compliment to you, and if you're a smart little lady, you'll lap it up!

It's Independence day for everybody not chained to war work; the women who never get independent of the cook stove and the children owe it to themselves to revolt.

Wife Pursues Another Man; Son, 3, Victim

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I married young and have now been married a little over five years," writes Sara. "I have a little boy of 3. My husband and I have been separated for a year. But for two years I have been going around with a man who also is married but who says he will marry me as soon as he can get a divorce. His wife says she will not give it to him, and he is crazy about his children. He likes mine as much as his own.

"I'm worried about some of his actions, tho, and sometimes doubt whether he intends to get a divorce or is only kidding me along. It was over this man that my husband and I quarreled. If this fellow does throw me over I would like to go back to my husband, as I'm not very good at supporting myself and son. The reason I haven't got support for my child is that my husband doesn't know where I am and I didn't insist upon it before. Anyway, it's a mess. What do you think about it?"

We think it is a mess, too, but more than a mess for the little fellow who calls you mother. We think you've let him down badly, depriving him of his Dad, of a regular home, and a mother he might be proud of.

You don't sound to us like a woman who has happiness coming to her. You have no respect for conventions, since you obviously went with another married man while you were still living with your husband. You have no sense of fairness or you wouldn't do that to another woman and mother. You certainly have no moral responsibility or you would consider your duty to your husband and to your boy before you would go chasing butterflies. No, we don't think the man intends to get a divorce to marry you. You haven't shown up intelligently in the last experience, so why should he take you on? He's selfish, so would be looking for a good thing for himself; otherwise, he wouldn't be chasing women.

If your husband takes you back now, we think you would be lucky and that he would be doing the favor, not you.

Household Forum

Mrs. Fred S., Chicago—Our summer cottage gets infested with lawn ants. We have managed to control them by finding the nests, jabbing a hole in each, and pouring in an ounce of carbon tetrachloride. Vapor from this liquid works down to the nests and destroys the ant.

Miss Edith H., Elgin, Ill.—Our house is stove heated. For the isinglass or mica used in the doors I find alcohol is the best cleaner; surface soil can easily be wiped off with it.

Mrs. Arthur G., Evanston— I use inner tube patching for mending most of my rubber articles. When I patch light rubber goods such as rubber gloves, etc., I make the patch of thin rubber.

ILLINOIS BETTING MARK SET AT CHARITY MEET

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

ONE of Charley Grimm's favorite stories has to do with a guest who was being wined in the palatial living room of the Grimm farmhouse near St. Louis. . . . The gentleman was becoming slightly inebriated, so Grimm suggested they retire to the rathskeller. . . . The visitor didn't understand, so Grimm elucidated, "Come on, we'll go down to the basement." . . . "What!" exploded the guest. "Aren't we in the basement now?" . . . Adoption by the Washington Redskins of the T formation, which saves wear and tear on a quarter back, will prolong the career of Sammy Baugh at least five years in the opinion of Luke Johnsos, co-coach of the Bears. . . . It goes without saying the Bears would like to have Mr. Baugh with them the night they meet the College All-Stars at Dyche stadium Aug. 30. . . . Lt. Jim McDonald, former Illinois football captain whom the navy reported killed in action in the South Pacific June 27, reached his peak as a gridiron performer in the scoreless tie the Illini played with Notre Dame in 1938, according to Bob Zuppke, his coach. . . . "He was a terrific line backer that afternoon," Zup recalls. . . . Elmer Layden, coach of the Fighting Irish in those days, said it was one of the finest defensive exhibitions he ever had seen. . . . Jim must have given the Japs hell, too. . . . Don McNair of the army air forces, now stationed on Monterey bay in California, holds the world record for under-water swimming, a distance of 353 feet, or 2 minutes 47 seconds, under water at one time. . . . Ronald McIntyre, former Milwaukee sports editor, is the new sports editor of the St. Paul Dispatch. . . .

It was something of a reunion when Lt. Comdr. Harvey Harman, athletic director of the Iowa Pre-Flight school, welcomed Lt. Comdr. Jack Meagher [pronounced Marr] as the Seahawks' new football coach. . . . They last met in Havana on New Year's, 1937, when Meagher's Auburn eleven defeated Villanova, 7 to 0. . . . Harman served as field judge of the track meet that was a part of the big program sponsored by President Gomez to sell American sports to the Cubans. . . . Willie Joyce, former Golden Gloves champion who will meet Willie Pep in Comiskey park Friday night, holds one of the fastest knockouts in ring history—a 12 second victory over Jorge Morelia of Detroit at White City four years ago. . . . The finish was only a half second off the world record. . . . Otto Graham, former three sport star at Northwestern, is stationed at a flying field at Salem, Va., from where he writes, "The Yanks are still winning the Civil war down here, but it's a hard fight." . . . Lt. Ralph Chmurski, former Marquette fencer who is a navigator of a bomber, was in the first wave of planes which swept into Normandy ahead of the infantry on D-day. . . . "Ringling will have to get another name for the circus," he writes, "for I have just seen the greatest show on earth."

It's the Housing Shortage.

was heard: "Car 16 go to Central av. A man is lying in the street between Grace and Berenice."

Then getting them off to school,
Hurrying others and speeding them on,
Herself keeping steady and cool.

Dad, to be sure, is a busy man,
But he at least has a change,
It's mother who's cooped up most of the time
At the hoover, the sink or the range;
There's a baby or two to be fed on the dot,
And whether for love or for pelf,
Whom can she get to help her out?
The answer, she does it herself.

Sure, dad's a bit tired when evening comes
And the old 6:30 pulls in,
But what about mother? Dinner's all set
And she's there at the door with a grin;
Steadfast and all tho dads may be,
Trustworthy, loyal and fine,
It's in mothers we come the closest on earth
To a prevue of the divine!

You swear that you are mine forevermore,
That moon and stars are witness to your vow—
That love is lasting, on your heart will score
Its creed eternal—this you tell me now.
Yet love itself needs no impassioned speech—
No sighs, no tears, to forward its sweet cause—
It is a subtle power whose magic reach
Touches all hearts but once—gives them no pause,
But stirs each on to some love-lightened way
To win achievements and to seek out fame—
To scatter sunshine on some dreary day—
To scale the heights for sake of love's sweet name.
Your love is pledged, forever, then to me—
Remember this—it means enternity!

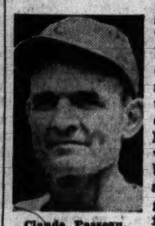
CUBS HOPE TO LOSE LEASE ON CELLAR TODAY

Hosts to Braves in Double Header.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Mr. Charley Grimm's Cubs will launch today what they have officially designated as moving week. They have a hunch the movers may show up any minute now to get them out of the National league cellar, in which they have been permanent altho unhappy guests since a few days after the season opened. The movers, however, will continue to hold off pending definite assurance from the Cubs they are ready and the latter can give that today, if they wish, by taking care of themselves in a double header with the Braves.



Claude Passeau.

Passeau, Fleming to Pitch.

The double bill will touch off a six day program that should convince Grimm's boys that they are earning their wages. After the single games with the Braves tomorrow and Thursday, the Giants will show up Friday for a double header and to make it better for the bargain hunters the same two teams will play another pair next Sunday, after squeezing in a single affair Saturday afternoon.

Not having an oversupply of pitchers, Boss Grimm will be forced to take a chance on Claude Passeau in one of today's affairs. Claude's arm is O. K., but his back's not so good. It caused him to give up a planned start in the final with Brooklyn last Friday and also sent him to the X-ray machine for an examination that failed to reveal the source of annoyance.

The other game will be handled by Bill Fleming, who produced a three hit shutout when he subbed for Passeau against the Dodgers.

Linn Becomes Baseball Minded.

The Cubs may have a little added pitching help within the next few days and with Paul Derringer somewhat ineffective and Ed Hanyzewski continuing in the role of an elbow patient, any sort of help will be welcomed by Grimm.

Japhet Linn, who was supposed to show up at the French Lick, Ind., camp last March but then went railroading instead, has become baseball minded again and might show up by the end of the week but probably will not be in condition to pitch immediately.

SOX TO SEND LEE, LOPAT AGAINST SENATORS TODAY.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—The White Sox, who lost their first two games here early in May and since have beaten the Senators five straight, are here for four games with Ossie Bluege's boys, beginning with a double header tomorrow, followed by night games Wednesday and Thursday.

In tomorrow's holiday encounters, Manager Jimmy Dykes will send forward his two starting but seldom victorious lefties, Thornton Lee and Ed. Lopat. Lee has won one, while losing eight, Lopat has won two and lost five. Opposing the two will be Johnny Niggeling and Early Wynn.

Have One Shortstop.

Early July being the time when baseball folks usually take inventory and observers make revamped observations, it may be said that today's respite in the playing schedule gave the Sox tourists time to pause for a few reflections. The conclusion reached by some, at least, is that the Comiskey bank roll has become frozen, despite a big jump in attendance at home, where an average of 10,000 paid has prevailed over a span of 26 home games.

Main evidence that the Sox counting room is trying to skin by with a minimum outgo of cash is reflected in the fact that the team is supposed to be vying for a pennant with only one shortstop. The emphasis is not on the fact that this lone shortstop is a sub .200 hitter, but the fact that the Sox will have no shortstop if anything happens to said shortstop. Old Tony Cuccinello can fill in at third and second but scarcely could do much good at short.

Need More Catchers.

Tony, by the way, is the only replacement for the entire economy infield. When Hal Trosky was incapacitated Ed Carnett, outfielder, took his place. And as the suspicion grows that the present third baseman is too fat, there are some who are urging that another outfielder, Ralph Hodgin, be pressed into service at third as a part of the obvious conservation program.

There are also some who believe the Sox's closed purse policy has been reflected in the state of the catching department.

In the outfield the Sox are well manned, in the infield there has been some distinguished hustling and success, and oddly enough by fellows who are said to have very conservative contracts as compared to the documents held by gents who spend much time keeping the bench warm.

Have Made One Deal.

The White Sox have completed one player transaction of even passing importance since the spring training season. Myril Hoag was sold to the Cleveland Indians the other day for the waiver price of $7,500, which is $1,500 more than the Sox have invested in the gent who has played every inning at second base.

Pensive, Kentucky Derby winner, which will go to the post today as favorite in the $61,600 Stars and Stripes handicap at Washington Park.

Jug McSpaden Beats Hogan in Victory Open Play-Off

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Harold [Jug] McSpaden, 35 year old Philadelphia professional, yesterday defeated Lt. Ben Hogan, 31 year old Fort Worth army airman, 70 strokes to 73, in their 18 hole play-off for the second Chicago Victory National Open golf championship at the Edgewater Golf club. The two had been tied at the end of Sunday's regulation 72 holes with scores of 273, McSpaden arranging the deadlock with a dramatic 40 foot putt on the last green. For his work yesterday, McSpaden collected $3,000 in war bonds, while Lt. Hogan received the solace of $1,750 in bonds.

In triumphing, McSpaden proved several points to the gallery of more than 3,000. First, of course, there was the fact that he is one of the best competitors in the game. Secondly, he showed why he is the leading money winner of 1944, his Edgewater triumph raising his winnings to $18,100 in war bonds. Third, he demonstrated that in order to win championship competitive golf, you must play it day in and day out.

Hogan Proves Point.

Best evidence of the last argument was the play of Lt. Hogan. By his own admission, Ben was not playing the brand of golf which made him one of the game's masters before he entered the service. His play has been restricted to practice tee work, and his absence from money swinging was quite apparent. Only his remarkable gift of concentration enabled him to hang on thru the full tournament route.

That same knack yesterday on an occasion or two threatened to make the play-off interesting.

The play-off cards:

Par—out	434	355	434—35
McSpaden—out	533	354	435—35
Lt. Hogan—out	435	345	535—37
Par—In	344	455	434—36—71
McSpaden—In	434	455	424—35—70
Lt. Hogan—In	344	544	444—36—73

Hogan took the advantage for the only time in the match on the 358 yard first hole with a par four, despite a visit to the rough. McSpaden went away with a bogey five after overshooting the green with his approach. Both got par threes at the second, and then the picture changed at the third. Jug dropped a 12 footer for a birdie, while Hogan, in the rough off the tee, was going for a five.

Hogan regained one with a 45 foot birdie thrust at the fifth but McSpaden chipped within a yard at the next to take the lead again. He was two strokes in front after the lieutenant drove near a ditch and spilled his second into the sand near the green. They took regulation threes on the 170 yard eighth, but came off the ninth with bogies. Hogan here blew a two and a half footer for a par, while McSpaden's second landed atop a knoll. Jug was out in 35, even par, against Ben's 37.

McSpaden Overshoots Green.

Hogan had a 15 foot chance for a deuce at the 150 yard 10th, which he missed, but picked up a stroke when McSpaden failed to connect with the green and overshot it with his second. The victor took that back with a 12 foot birdie at No. 11. They had fours at the 12th, then Jug went three shots ahead on the 13th, where Ben drove the left ditch.

At this point Hogan began his rally. He hit two fine woods to the side of the 469 yard 14th and chipped dead for a birdie. McSpaden had driven a bunker and planted his second in the rough. Hogan got another birdie at the 349 yard 15th where Jug missed a three footer for his four.

Both collected fours at the 286 yard 16th. Came the 17th, and McSpaden sank an eight footer for a deuce, while Ben, who put his tee shot in the rear rough, missed a five footer for a three. Each got his four at the 18th, Jug after driving the adjoining first fairway, and Ben after landing in the rough with his tee shot and falling short with his second.

HERE is how the first nine leading pros in the Chicago Victory National Golf tournament split up war bond prizes:

PENSIVE 7-5 FAVORITE TODAY IN $61,600 STARS AND STRIPES

Derby, Preakness Winner to Make Chicago Debut.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Twelve of the turf's speediest thorobreds, headed by the Calumet farm's Pensive, winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, will go to the post today in the $61,600 Stars and Stripes handicap. This is the banner attraction of Charity Week, which yesterday opened in record breaking style at Washington Park. Today's race will be worth $43,250 to the winner. Pensive is expected to be a 7 to 5 favorite.

Eleven older horses, including one 4 year old filly, Mrs. Robert McGarvey's Night Shadow, will oppose Warren Wright's great 3 year old which will be making his first Chicago appearance.

Pensive's presence in Arlington Park's traditional Independence day fixture more than compensates for the withdrawal yesterday of Wright's Sun Again, champion of the handicap division. Sun Again is suffering from the return of an old tendon ailment. Pensive will carry 114 pounds, two pounds under scale and one less than the top weighted Rounders, winner of the Stars and Stripes last year.

Expect Record Mutuel Play.

In addition to the Irish bred Rounders, running for William Helis of New Orleans, the following horses were named thru the entry box to oppose Pensive:

Allen Drumheller's Georgie Drum, 113; John Marsch's Valdina Foe, 110; George J. Stempel's Put In, 109; Ethel Hill's War Knight, 106; Howard Wells' Equifox, 102; David Straus' Daily Trouble, 101; Clyde Troutt's Take Wing, 100; Night Shadow, 100; R. W. Montgomery's Choppy Sea, 98; Happy Hour farm's Martian, 97.

All nine races on today's program will bear patriotic names in keeping with the holiday. In addition to the Stars and Stripes at a mile and an eighth there will be three other events at distances over a mile. Two of these, the Yorktown and the Valley Forge, both at a mile and one sixteenth, are scheduled for the turf course.

Seven Run in Secondary Race.

Ranking as the co-feature with the Stars and Stripes is the $2,500 Independence purse for 3 year olds and upward. It has drawn seven good sprinters including Miss Keeneland, a stablemate of Twilight Tear.

Mrs. J. A. Nix's Hy-Trite captured the second race yesterday, on which $163,147 was bet. Overcross paid $6.40 in winning the first race and Hy-Trite $12. The daily double was worth $52.60.

The third race went to John Marsch's Unconditional, a 2 year old gelding running in a six furlong event for 2 year old maidens. Unconditional paid $4 and the customers poured $189,656 thru the mutuel windows to bring the total for the first three races to $521,531.

Best Birthday stuck his nose out in front to beat Twixt in the fourth race, a $2,000 grade D purse which drew only five entrants, yet resulted in mutuels of $178,700. Best Birthday, owned by T. D. Taggart, paid $6.80.

William Helis' Spartan Noble accounted for the fifth event, a six furlong sprint for 2 year old maiden colts and geldings. John Marsch's Valdina Aide was second and C. C. Tanner's Shreve third. The winner, ridden by Nick Jemas, paid $6.60.

Stars, Stripes Field

TWELVE of the nation's finest handicap stars were entered overnight to compete in the $61,600 Stars and Stripes handicap today at Washington Park. Distance is one mile and a furlong. The field, in order of post position, follows:

Horse.	Wt.	Jockey.	Prob. odds.
War Knight	106	Brooks	8-1
Put In	109	Haas	8-1
Choppy Sea	98	Higley	20-1

38,000 Spectators Send $1,681,395 Thru Mutuels.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Thirty-eight thousand race fans, in attendance on the first day of the charity meeting at Washington Park sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., yesterday set an all-time one day record for wagering on Illinois tracks. The season's largest throng paid $1,681,395 thru the mutuel windows. This surpassed the former mark of $1,503,279, which was established at the same track on Labor day last year.

By their patronage and financial support, Chicago fans thus cast a tremendous vote for charity, which will receive the profits of the five days of racing donated by the five Chicago tracks. With today's Stars and Stripes handicap, feature of the nine races arranged for Independence day, and with Thursday's $10,000 Skokie handicap, this week easily will be the peak for racing in the central states.

Fans Rush to Windows.

Yesterday's crowd served notice in the first race that the state record would be broken when $94,732 was wagered on the opener and $73,996 was bet on the daily double. At the end of the sixth race the mutuel handle had passed the million dollar mark and after the eighth race the figure was just short of the state record. By this time it had easily beaten the Arlington Park mark of $1,340,625, which was set on the 1943 Stars and Stripes program.

Following are the mutuel figures, race by race:

Daily double	73,996
Second race	168,147
Third race	189,656
Fourth race	178,700
Fifth race	180,883
Sixth race	207,912
Seventh race	219,273
Eighth race	154,894
Ninth race	179,901

Officials last night predicted that more than a quarter of a million dollars will be given to The Chicago Tribune Charities for distribution to the city's needy.

Famous Horses to Parade.

Eight equine stars of the past and present will parade at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon as a prelude to the second day of the charity meeting. These internationally famous horses will be assembled in the paddock at 1:15. Fifteen minutes later they will be displayed on the track for all the holiday throng in the grandstand, clubhouse, and on the terraces, to see.

The established winners are Albert Sabath's Alsab, Warren Wright's Sun Again, Louis B. Mayer's Thumbs Up, Woolford farm's Signator, and John Marsch's Occupation and Occupy.

The youngsters are William Helis' Pericles, the $66,000 colt, and Marsch's Free For All. The latter already has established himself by winning the Hyde Park Stakes early in the Arlington meeting.

It's Home for Alsab.

Champions have been paraded individually at other tracks but this is the first occasion for a presentation of such proportions. It is particularly fitting that Alsab should be in the group for at this track he scored some of his most notable victories as a 2 year old in 1941 and again as a 3 year old when he won the American Derby.

Sun Again, which was withdrawn from today's Stars and Stripes, is the leading claimant for the national handicap championship. Thumbs Up is one of Sun Again's most formidable challengers for supremacy among the older horses. Occupation and Occupy, full brothers, dominated the national juvenile competition in 1942 and 1943, respectively. Signator was the foremost sprinter of the Chicago season last year.

Post Time Is 2 P. M.

Pericles, which has yet to make a start, is one of the most talked of colts because of his purchase and breeding price. Marsch is depending on Free For All to carry on the tradition established by Occupation and Occupy.

The parade of stars unquestionably will attract an early crowd which may approach capacity. With favorable weather forecast, today's attendance [post time for the first

THREE CUBS WIN PLACES ON N. L. ALL-STAR SQUAD

Name Nicholson, Johnson, and Cavarretta.

The National league all-star squad, announced yesterday in New York, lists three members of the Chicago Cubs. They are Outfielder Bill Nicholson, First Baseman Phil Cavarretta, and Second Baseman Don Johnson.

Nicholson has won the honor before, but it is the first time for the other two Cubs. The National and American league stars will meet in the 12th game of the series next Tuesday night in Forbes field, home of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Bill Southworth of the league champion St. Louis Cardinals will manage the Nationals. The Americans will be led by Joe McCarthy.

Cardinals Land Six.

The National league managers each nominated a squad of 25 and the 25 picked represents a consensus. Six Cardinals were selected and the Cincinnati Reds qualified four. Pittsburgh, Boston, and Brooklyn were other clubs in addition to the Cubs to land three men. New York will be represented by two Giants and one member of the Phillies was named.

Failure of the managers to pick Jim Tobin of the Braves was the big surprise. Tobin pitched a no hit game early in the season and later a five inning no hitter. Also ignored were Mort Cooper and Ray Sanders of the Cardinals, Tommy Holmes of the Braves, and Phil Weintraub of the Giants.

It's Ott's 11th Game.

The grandpappy of the game will be Manager Mel Ott of the Giants, who missed being an all-star only in the first year, 1933.

Nicholson doubtless will start the game. Second base will be between Johnson and the Braves' Connie Ryan. Frank McCormick of the Reds also was picked at first base. The complete list by teams:

ST. LOUIS—Pitchers George Munger and Max Lanier, Shortstop Martin Marion, Third Baseman Whitey Kurowski, Catcher Walker Cooper, and Outfielder Stan Musial.

CINCINNATI—Catcher Ray Mueller, Pitcher Bucky Walters, First Baseman Frank McCormick, and Shortstop Eddie Miller.

CHICAGO—Outfielder Bill Nicholson, First Baseman Phil Cavarretta, and Second Baseman Don Johnson.

BROOKLYN—Catcher Mickey Owen, and Outfielders Dixie Walker and Augie Galan.

PITTSBURGH—Pitcher Rip Sewell, Third Baseman Bob Elliott, and Outfielder Vince Di Maggio.

BOSTON—Pitchers Al Javery and Nate Andrews and Second Baseman Connie Ryan.

NEW YORK—First Baseman Phil Weintraub and Outfielder Mel Ott.

PHILADELPHIA—Pitcher Ken Raffensberger.

YACHTS TO VIE IN RACE TODAY OFF WILMETTE

All sailing yachts in Wilmette harbor are expected to compete in the Sheridan Shore Yacht club's third annual free for all race, to be sailed at 3:05 o'clock this afternoon off the harbor.

An exchange race will be sailed by the Arrow class, starting at 10:30 o'clock this morning. In this event skippers who have been losing so far this season will sail the sloops which have won most of the races, and the skippers of the latter will sail the slower craft.

Final races for the Chicago Yacht club's Subscription trophy in the R class, the Lake Michigan 110 class championship, the Sterling Morton trophy for Star class sloops, and a special prize for Tumlaren class craft, will all be sailed today off Belmont harbor.

SERVICES HELD FOR ED SHEEHAN, OLD-TIME STAR

Funeral services were held yesterday for Edward J. Sheehan, 81, who once was a left handed catcher with the Syracuse [N. Y.] Stars. Sheehan, who died Saturday, was the father of Jack Sheehan, head of the Chicago Cubs' baseball schools. Services were at St. Bride's church, 78th st. and Coles av., and burial was in Holy Sepulchre cemetery. Other immediate survivors are the widow; a brother, Daniel, and four daughters, Sister Mary Dolores of St. Augustine, Fla., Mrs. Geraldine Baoudoine, Mrs. Sarah Rowan, and Marion Sheehan, all of Chicago.

KEYNES TELLS PARLEY WORLD BANK IS NEEDED

White Heads Major Commission.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bretton Woods, N. H., July 3—Delegates to the allied nations monetary and financial conference were told today by John Maynard Keynes, chairman of the British delegation, that the establishment of a world bank is of "the utmost urgency and importance."

Keynes spoke after his election as chairman of a commission which will draft detailed plans for such a bank for submission to the general conference. The establishment of the bank is one of the two major objectives of the conference, the other being an agreement for organizing an 8 billion dollar monetary fund which would seek to stabilize international currency values. Drafting of plans for the fund is being handled by a separate commission of which Harry D. White of the American delegation was today elected chairman. White is the chief monetary expert of the treasury department.

Suarez Heads Group.

The election of Keynes and White to head the two major commissions completed the organization machinery of the conference which opened here last Saturday. A third commission was named to take up "other means of financial operation." This group is headed by Edward Suarez, financial minister of Mexico. Keynes told the conference the world bank is vital to the restoration of war shattered national economies and the replacement of production machinery that has been lost or destroyed.

These tasks will occupy the bank in the immediate post-war years, he said. After that the bank will devote itself to raising living standards all over the world, he asserted.

"As soon as possible, and with increasing emphasis there will be the duty to develop the resources and productive capacity of the world, with special attention to less developed countries, to raising the standard of life and the conditions of labor everywhere, to make the resources of the world more fully available to all mankind, and so to order the operations of the bank to promote and maintain equilibrium in the international balances of payments of all member countries," he said.

U. S. Would Carry Big Share.

Keynes did not describe the financial setup of the proposed world bank. It was made known earlier, however, that its initial capital would be 10 billion dollars of which the United States would put up 3¼ billions and Great Britain about 1 billion. This would be in addition to the 8 billions which, it is proposed, will be put into the monetary fund. The United States share of the latter is estimated at 2½ to 2¾ billions and Britain's quota is 1¼ billions. Other participating countries would supply the balance of the capital of the two agencies.

Keynes explained that the bank will fill a gap in international financial arrangements not provided for by the monetary fund, which will be confined to currency operations, and the allied relief needs after the war.

Tells Duty of Bank.

"In general it will be the duty of the bank, by wise and prudent lending, to promote a policy of expansion of the world's economy in the sense in which this term is the exact opposite of inflation," Keynes said. "By 'expansion' we should mean the increase of resources and production in real terms, in physical quantity, accompanied and facilitated by a corresponding increase in purchasing power. By 'inflation,' on the other hand, we should mean the increase of purchasing power corresponding to which there is no accompanying increase in the quantity of production. The bank will promote expansion and avoid inflation."

Keynes said that a certain part of the bank's funds will be available for direct lending. Most of the capital, however, will be held in reserve to enable it to guarantee loans made by others. One type of guaranteed loan would be made thru ordinary investment market channels, he said. A second type would call for borrowing by the bank funds which would be reloaned by the bank to eligible nations.

U. S. "Must" Furnish Most.

Keynes said it is plain that most of money for overseas loans must come from the United States in the first years after the war. Funds so lent by investors in the United States or the American government will carry the guarantee of the bank, the risk being spread among all countries subscribing to the bank in the ratio of their quotas.

By spreading the risk among all countries it will be possible to float loans that on a strictly commercial basis would not be possible, Keynes said.

Other developments today included the election of five vice presidents of the conference. Among those named was M. S. Stephanov, chief of the Russian delegation. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau had been elected president of the conference earlier.

The American delegation, it was reported, is solidly opposed to the use of silver in any of the post-war monetary arrangements. This was made clear by a delegation member after word was received of the letter sent to President Roosevelt by 25 western senators urging that silver be given consideration at the present conference. The question is expected to come up later at the conference. The Mexican delegation is expected to ask special consideration for silver.

Chicago Bank Loan, Deposit Totals Mount

Chicago banks increased their participation in the financing of business and industry in the second quarter of 1944, and achieved still higher peaks in deposits and in holdings of government securities.

Deposits exceeded 7 billion dollars for the first time in history, according to figures compiled yesterday by the Chicago Clearing House association in response to calls for the condition of banks as of June 30, issued by the controler of the currency and the state auditor.

Loans and discounts of the banks totaled $1,191,960,000, against $1,089,980,000 as shown on the preceding bank call dates, April 13 in the case of national banks and March 30 in the case of the state chartered banks. The increase from the combined total of a year ago—$898,232,000—shows the extent to which the banks have financed new business activities in the Chicago area in the last year.

State Banks' Loans Slip.

State banks failed to reach their March 30 total in loans and discounts, but this was more than offset by substantial gains by the national banks that raised the combined total.

Total deposits were $7,073,256,000 as of last Friday, rising more than a half billion dollars from the preceding call dates. A year ago the total was $6,012,539,000. Savings deposits rose about 50 million dollars to $864,179,000, compared with $697,922,000 on June 30, 1943.

Bank investments in United States government securities reached $4,278,825,000 to set another in a series of peaks established since the government began depending heavily on bank support for war funds. The total for the preceding call dates was $3,905,727,000, and a year ago was $3,559,602,000.

Cash Resources Rise 24 Million.

Cash resources of the banks rose about 24 million dollars to $1,539,838,000, but failed to reach higher totals shown for recent years.

Four of the downtown banks issued figures on surplus and undivided profits indicating a higher trend of bank profits. The figures are: Northern Trust company, $12,398,000, against $11,857,000 on June 30, 1943; Harris Trust and Savings bank, $14,744,000, against $13,806,000; City National Bank and Trust company, $5,048,000, against $4,515,000, and American National Bank and Trust company, $3,708,000, against $3,127,000.

NEW YORK BANKS' REPORT.

New York, July 3 (AP).—Midyear condition statements of several New York banks today showed June quarter and half year profits higher than in 1943 periods.

Chemical Bank and Trust company earned 73 cents a share in the June quarter, against 69 cents a year ago; Manufacturers' Trust company, $2.31 a share in the first half, against $2.17 a year ago; New York Trust company, $1.71 a share in the June quarter, against $1.40; Brooklyn Trust company, $2.93 a share in the June quarter, against $1.62.

Railroads' Net Income Decreases to 59 Million

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—Class 1 railroads had a net income of $59,000,000 in May, compared with $85,731,956 in May, 1943, the Association of American Railroads reported today. Net operating income totaled $98,505,213, compared with $129,478,115 a year ago. May operating revenues totaled $804,055,622 this year and $759,272,572 in May, 1943. Operating expenses were $526,767,253 and $454,327,068, respectively.

Market Holiday

Banks and security and commodity markets will be closed today in observance of Independence day.

People and Events

The resignation of Walter F. Straub as director of the OPA food rationing division in Washington was announced yesterday. President of W. F. Straub & Co., Chicago, he will return to his own business, but will continue as an OPA consultant. Ivan Burdick, associate food rationing director, will become acting director.

Walter F. Straub.

Walter Claassen, widely known hotel man, was appointed to a newly created position as director of food and restaurant service for Northwest Airlines, Croll Hunter, president and general manager, announced.

Promotion of six assistant branch managers to managerships was announced by J. R. Davis, director of sales and advertising of the Ford Motor company. The new branch managers are: George T. Montagnet, New Orleans; Ray A. Grimmer, Milwaukee; Harry M. Lidgard, Pittsburgh; John W. Schwer, Fargo, and Nelson F. Bowe, Los Angeles.

Charles A. Skog, freight traffic manager at Chicago, was promoted to general manager of the Grand Trunk Western railroad. Skog succeeds W. J. Hogan who died last week. Walter H. Edmondson, who had been general superintendent, was promoted to assistant general manager.

CHOICE CATTLE, HOGS ACTIVE ON SHORT SUPPLIES

Supplies of meat animals offered to packers yesterday on the principal live stock markets were smallest for Monday in more than a year. Members of the trade attributed part of the decrease to the holiday, but many said hog producers were reducing market volume in the expectation of higher prices soon.

Brisk demand sent the hog top price at the Chicago stock yards up 10 cents a hundred pounds to $13.85, the first time the top has been above the $13.75 floor since April 25. The average gained 10 cents, at $12.85, highest since June 6.

Competition for choice and prime cattle ran high, with all buyers giving firm prices compared with last week's best. However, medium and lower grades of cattle were harder to sell and some were 25 cents lower near the close.

CORN IS WAIST HIGH IN MANY ILLINOIS AREAS

Springfield, Ill., July 3 (AP).—Illinois corn, which some farmers say should be knee high by Independence day, is waist high in many areas and is averaging 24 inches tall without serious damage so far from dry weather, state-federal agricultural observers reported today.

The chief casualty of the dry weather has been early southern Illinois summer apples but shortage of rain has resulted in "perfect harvest weather," said A. J. Surratt, United States department of agriculture statistician.

Release 7 Million Pounds of Aluminum for Cans

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The WPB announced today that approximately 7 million pounds of aluminum will be available during the third quarter of this year for experimental use in the manufacture of food and non-food cans. It said aluminum soon may be released for many lighting fixture articles normally made from copper or brass.

A well established company with over fifty years background, producing a nationally known product, has a permanent position in their labor relations department for a man with proper background and experience in this type of work. Predict Gains in Demand for Frozen Foods

Increased consumption of frozen foods after the war was predicted yesterday by the Edison General Electric Appliance company, Chicago, on the basis of a survey of locker plant operators.

Frozen foods are stored in 5,000 cold locker plants by approximately 1½ million families, the survey showed. Slightly more than half these plants sell frozen foods at retail, but after the war, 81 per cent expect to enter the retail field. In addition to selling foods, more than 80 per cent will sell home freezer cabinets.

Million Sales Indicated.

The survey, in which 1,154 operators responded, obtained answers to 10 questions and hundreds of comments on various phases of frozen food handling. It indicated 1 million home freezers would be sold within two years after the war, said F. F. Duggan, manager of the company's refrigeration sales division.

Any far-reaching change in methods of processing and packaging foods must depend on the expansion of locker plants, Duggan said.

"Their big job will be to assist in processing and freezing locally grown products for the growers, for sale to other food retailers and to homes," he said. "American homes will want home freezers only if they can make full use of them.

Economy Primary Point.

"That means they must be able to buy large packages of commercially processed frozen foods for long-time storage, that they can freeze and store their own garden products in summer for winter eating, and that they can save money by storing foods purchased at low seasonal prices and processed by the locker plant for winter use."

Refrigerators with frozen food storage compartments will continue to increase in popularity even to the point of replacing standard refrigerators, Duggan predicted.

JULY NEWSPRINT ORDERS EXCEED QUOTA, SAYS WPB

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The WPB today told newspaper publishers that orders for July shipments of Canadian newsprint far exceeded authorized delivery quotas and publishers must reduce their orders to stay within their authorizations.

Publishers are permitted to order each month not more than one-third of the allowed quarterly newsprint consumption quota. Any additional amount must be specifically authorized by WPB.

Arthur R. Treanor, director of the printing and publishing division of WPB, said some publishers still are not filing with the division copies of their certified newsprint orders each month as required by Order L-240.

STOCKS UPSET HOLIDAY HABIT WITH BIG GAINS

War, Politics, Idle Cash Are Factors.

New York, July 3 (AP).—The stock market violated precedent today with a broad advance on the eve of a holiday in which principal exchanges will recess.

Altho customers generally were scarce in boardrooms, many away over the extended holiday, it was one of the liveliest July 3 sessions in years. Out of town orders accounted for the larger part of the activity in addition to telephonic business that came from clients at vacation resorts.

Pivotals gave a good account of themselves in turnover, but low priced issues still were the fastest sprinters. Largest dealings were in Commonwealth and Southern, which came out in blocks of as much as 13,000 shares, and finished up 1-16 of a point at 13-16.

All Groups Share In Rise.

War news, political hopes, and persistent pressure of idle investment funds continued as the main trend bulwark. Many potential purchasers held aloof on the idea the lengthy drive called for a correction.

From the opening bidders shifted from group to group. In rotation they took on aircrafts, oils, rails, steels, motors, sugars, utilities, and specialties, with the result that few sections were neglected. Closing gains ranged from fractions to two points, with isolated favorites up four or so. Tops for one to seven years were widespread.

The Associated Press 60 stock average advanced .03 point to 55.8, largest rise since June 19 and a new high since Oct. 2, 1937.

RAILS LEAD BOND RISE.

New York, July 3 (AP).—Rail issues took the lead in a moderate advance in today's bond market. The Associated Press rail index gained 0.2 point, and other major groups each rose 0.1. Transactions amounted to $7,759,900 face value, against $7,839,000 Friday.

North Western issues were prominent, especially the new 4½s of '99, which rose 1½ points to 73¾ on a turnover of more than $1,300,000.

CHICAGO LIST GAINS.

Prices were higher on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday as volume rose to 52,000 shares. Among the most active issues was United States Steel common, which closed at a new 1944 high of 60⅞, a rise of 1⅝ on a turnover of 1,500 shares. Other gainers were Chicago corporation, 6¾, up ⅝; Armour & Co., 6⅞, up ⅛, and Aviation corporation, 4⅞, up ⅛. Besides United States Steel, 14 others set new highs.

PLEDGED EASING OF TOOL BUYING FAILS TO ARRIVE

New York, July 3 [Special].—Despite the definite announcement by WPB Chairman Nelson, that controls on the purchase of machinery, tools, and dies for civilian production were to be modified July 1, a check at the agency's regional offices today disclosed that no final action has been taken.

Manufacturers, who said they had been "skeptically" watching for action on the date set by Nelson, commented that inasmuch as action on a "definite, well publicized announcement which sounded like a directive in itself, has not filtered thru to the regional offices in two weeks, the future outlook for decentralized WPB activities continues to look dim."

Asked whether manufacturers could now approach the regional office for machinery and tools for civilian production, regional officials, after consulting Washington, said "no change has as yet been made" and explained that such sales would have to be made under the terms of the long standing directive 23. Any manufacturer of civilian products that approached the regional agency would be asked to fill out the usual forms and wait until action could be taken sometime after orders had been received from Washington, it was explained.

FIX PULPWOOD CEILING TO AVOID LABOR DIVERSION

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—In an effort to halt diversion of labor to pulpwood cutting instead of cutting wood needed as fuel, the OPA today announced that producers' prices for pulpwood in the western half of the United States may not exceed maximum prices for firewood.

Effective July 8, the action will afford some control of prices for pulpwood which were exempted from price control a short time ago to encourage production of pulp. OPA said this resulted in a serious diversion of labor and production from firewood which tends to impair the already critical fuel supply situation in many western areas.

Trim Steel Output Rate to 94.3 Pct. of Capacity

New York, July 3 (AP).—The nation's steel mills will operate at 94.3 per cent of capacity this week, compared with 95.7 per cent last week, the American Iron and Steel institute reported today.

Wheat Leads Grain Decline; Labor Lack Slows Movement

Hedge with Sales

Wheat futures slumped 1¾ to 2⅜ cents a bushel yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade and closed at the bottom. July sold at $1.55½, a new low since late last November. Receipts of more than 12 million bushels of wheat at primary and interior southwestern terminals caused active purchasing by cash interests which was hedged by sales of futures on the Board of Trade and in other markets.

The decline in wheat futures was accelerated by reports of a break in premiums on soft red winter wheat in Ohio, where some sales of grain were said to have been made well below Chicago prices.

Other Grains Decline.

Other grains followed wheat, but received fair support and did not fully reflect the wheat decline. Oats lost ½ to ¾ cent, rye ¾ to 1 cent, and barley closed unchanged to ½ cent lower.

With harvesting of the new winter wheat crop well under way in the southwest and cutting of oats advancing northward at a rapid rate grains have developed a much weaker undertone.

The Commodity Credit corporation was reported to be using drastic methods in disposing of some of the poor quality cash corn it has purchased recently, forcing Chicago industries to take the grain at relatively high prices. Because of the scarcity of labor it is believed the corn will have to be held on the track for several days and will be in poor condition by the time it is unloaded at elevators.

Box Car Congestion

Labor shortages are slowing up the movement of wheat to terminal elevators, Chicago railroad officials reported yesterday. J. J. Mahoney, superintendent of transportation for the Santa Fe railway, said there is insufficient labor to unload cars of wheat as fast as they arrive in southwestern terminals, and the congestion is adding to the already acute shortage of box cars.

He said government agencies are attempting to obtain soldier help at the crowded terminals, and that permission already had been granted for an increase in wage rates for elevator and mill workers unloading the grain.

2,384 Cars Await Disposition.

"At the 15 terminal and subterminal points in our big wheat territory we have 2,884 loaded cars awaiting disposition today," Mahoney asserted. "Sunday 500 cars were unloaded and 736 were in transit to those points.

"The situation has been developing for more than a week. A week ago we had 1,483 loads of wheat in the 15 terminals and only 393 were unloaded. Wednesday we had 1,568 loads of wheat and 409 were unloaded."

Mahoney said the invasion of France has caused a large movement of western box cars to the eastern seaboard in order to protect the flow of war materials needed for the military.

K. K. Stokes, transportation superintendent of the Rock Island railroad, said his road's grain movements paralleled the Sante Fe situation.

WLB Orders Teamsters to End Walkout

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The war labor board telegraphed officials of the AFL teamsters' union at Minneapolis and St. Paul today that a strike affecting fuel oil transportation companies there "must be terminated immediately."

Board officials said a decision in a case involving the strikers would have been issued this week, but that "the WLB will take no action on your case while there is a work stoppage in progress."

Vote to End Strike.

Garfield, Utah, July 3 (AP).—Members of the International Mine, Mill, and Smelter Workers' union [CIO] voted to return to their jobs at the American Smelting and Refining company plant today after an appeal by army officers to continue production of sulfuric acid, a by-product of copper smelting, which is needed in refining high octane gasoline.

Continued shutdown of the Garfield plant, Lt. Col. M. J. Tierney of the 9th service command labor branch told the men, would cause three refineries in Utah and Wyoming to close. The walkout, affecting more than 1,000 workmen, began Saturday in a dispute over vacations.

Ship Welders Strike.

Baltimore, Md., July 3 (AP).—Approximately 200 CIO production welders at the Bethlehem-Sparrows Point shipyard stopped work and left the yards today in demand for larger increases in incentive pay rates, on which upward adjustments were effective today, a company official reported. The men voted at a night meeting to return to work.

37 Coal Mines Idle.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 3 (AP).—Absenteeism in western Pennsylvania coal mines today closed at least 37 pits and caused an estimated production loss of approximately 105,000 tons, a survey by Harry A. Sutter, area manager for the solid fuels administration, revealed.

FORGET THAT FISHING TRIP, WAR WORKERS URGED BY SOMERVELL

Columbus, O., July 3 [Special].—Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell, chief of the army service and supply forces, called today on war workers to "put off that fishing trip—it can come after the war is won."

"Until we realize the war isn't over and stop delaying production, we'll just delay victory that much longer," he said. "Berlin is 475 miles from the channel, and we've gone 15 miles.

"Mobilization is not over by a long shot. This is no time to be thinking of demobilization. It's a long way to Tokyo."

Gen. Somervell said the rubber situation is "very bad," with production 16 per cent below manufacturers' estimate, which in itself "wasn't high enough." The manufacture of trucks also is far behind, he said, and there is a serious lag in production of malleable steel and castings.

DECLINE HALTED IN STOCK PILE OF CONSUMER COAL

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The slump in consumer stocks of coal was halted in May for the first time in 10 months, Solid Fuels Administrator Ickes reported today.

Soft coal stock piles in the hands of household and industrial users rose to 55,307,000 tons on June 1, a gain of nearly 5 million from May 1. Ickes attributed the improvement to continued heavy output of mines and a lowering of consumption because of warmer weather.

Ickes observed, however, that the stock piles remain far short of the 79,525,000 tons on June 1 last year, while this year's estimated requirements are higher.

Dismantle 5,200 Old Cars for Parts, Scrap in May

Approximately 5,200 automobiles were scrapped in salvage yards in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, and Wisconsin in May, the WPB reported yesterday. The dismantled cars provided replacement parts for war workers' cars and several thousand tons of scrap steel for war industries.

DOUGLAS PLANT PLANE OUTPUT TOPS SCHEDULE

Rate Runs Against National Trend.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—The production of four engined C54 cargo planes at the Douglas Aircraft plant in Chicago at a rate 15 per cent above schedule was one of the cheering items in June plane production, Charles E. Wilson, executive vice chairman of the war production board and chairman of the air production board, said today.

Charles E. Wilson.

Wilson disclosed that nation-wide aircraft output in June was 8,049 planes, a drop of 9.5 per cent from the May figure, and was at the lowest level in 10 months.

He said part of the decrease was attributable to the shorter work month, but that failure of three companies producing smaller type planes to meet schedules figured in the results.

Beginning to Roll.

Wilson reported the increased production at the Douglas plant at a press conference and remarked that "this is very good news; it indicates they are really beginning to roll there." Figures on the number of cargo planes produced were not available.

He said that production nationally of four motored bombers of all types had exceeded schedules and that the decline had been in types "fortunately" not seriously needed. Asked if the decline represented a dangerous condition, he said:

"It would be dangerous only if it continued, which it won't; and if it represented a basic fault, such as man power losses, which it doesn't."

Delay at Buffalo Plant.

Wilson said parts that were not up to standard caused a production loss in navy fighter planes, and added that there had been a "regrettable" production loss in C-46 cargo planes at the Buffalo, N. Y., plant of Curtiss-Wright. He also reported a loss of 200 planes in the basic trainer program.

Production and performance of the B-29 Super Fortress were satisfactory, he said, to "everybody but the Japs."

One unidentified B-29 plant was ahead of production schedules, he said, and others were on schedule.

'L,' BUS LINES HIKE PASSENGER TRAFFIC TOTALS

Buses of the Chicago Motor Coach company and trains of the Chicago Rapid Transit company carried substantially larger numbers of passengers in June than a year earlier. Figures for the first six months of this year also are ahead of 1943.

The buses carried 6,174,915 passengers last month, an increase of 5.2 per cent over June, 1943, and 34,450,275 riders the first six months of this year, a gain of 4.2 per cent.

A total of 15,835,810 persons rode the elevated lines in June, 1944, exceeding the June, 1943, count by

Day by Day on the FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

July 3, 1944.

AMONG the strange things that have appeared in agriculture as a result of the war is a synthetic product made of coal, air, and water which may be used to feed dairy cattle. It replaces the protein feed which now is so scarce.

The product is synthetic urea—a white granular solid resembling stock salt. The urea does not contain any protein but it has a high nitrogen content. Cows and all ruminants have bacteria which can combine nitrogen with other feed and manufacture protein.

Tests Indicate Success.

The feeding of urea still is being studied by the bureau of research of the department of agriculture, but tests show that cows fed urea gave just as much milk as those that received the regular protein. The urea was fed at the rate of .3 of a pound a day to each animal and the cost was a little more than 1 cent a cow a day.

Altho urea is being released now for feeding purposes, the amount is too small to have any effect on the current protein shortage. Research men have hopes, however, that eventually urea will figure prominently in dairy rations.

The Wheaton farm has had good luck with the Angus herd during the calving season. There are three or four heifers left to calve and so far only one calf and one cow have been lost.

Usually a purebred herd owner is happy with a 70 or 80 per cent calf crop, but it looks now as if the farm will do much better.

The calf was lost thru abortion, and the cow was killed when it harmed itself in calving. The black calves and mothers make quite a picture when they gather around the feed bunk or watering trough. During the hot part of the day, the youngsters bed down in the tall grass while their dams either chew their cud or graze beneath the trees.

When the truck with the load of silage appears, the scene changes from one of quiet pastoral beauty to a busy, bawling jam not unlike a subway crowd. The cows run toward the feed bunk, bellowing as loud as they can. The calves get excited and scamper about, losing their mothers, and calling for help.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

JULY and August seeding of quick maturing vegetables, such as beets, carrots, radishes, spinach, and lettuce, is a somewhat different process than spring planting. During April and May there is enough moisture in the soil so that no artificial watering is necessary after seeding, but in midsummer the topsoil may be dust dry, and seeds will not germinate properly in a dry soil.

The recommended method of midsummer planting is as follows: Use a hoe to make a planting furrow at least 2 inches deep. Use a hose or sprinkling can to moisten the bottom of the furrow; then plant the seeds in the moist furrow. The seeds should be lightly covered with ½ inch to 1 inch of soil or compost matter such as decayed leaves or grass clippings.

After the seeds germinate thru the soil or compost, they can be thinned to leave the desired distance between plants. After thinning and after the seedlings have grown 2 to 3 inches, the remainder of the furrow can be refilled during cultivation.

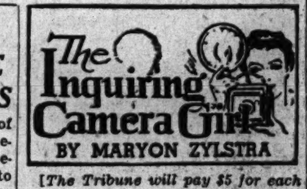
THE INQUIRING CAMERA GIRL
BY MARYON ZYLSTRA



[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by James Zimmerman, 7413 Emerald av.]

THE QUESTION.

What old Spanish custom do you still practice today?

WHERE ASKED.

On Halsted st.

THE ANSWERS.

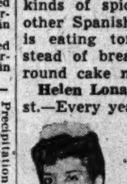
Esther Martinez, office employe, 1408 Harrison st.—On Sept. 15 we Spanish people in the United States celebrate Mexican Independence day, the anniversary of the day Mexico won her independence from Spain. We celebrate for two days with a dance and festival. One event is the singing of Mexico's national anthem,

Leon Rodrigues, tailor, 845 S. Halsted st.—It's an old Spanish custom to serenade your girl friend with a guitar. We still do that in this country but we are not allowed to do it on the streets so we have to do it inside the house. In Mexico we can't serenade the girl in her house. Her father would throw us out.

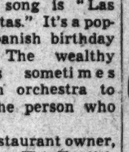
Marcos Colan, watchmaker, 1002 Loomis st. — After a child has been baptized and the church services are over, the father of the child goes out on the steps of the church where a throng of children are congregated. He tosses them a handful of pennies, nickels, or dimes and they all scramble to pick them up.

Frank Martinez, restaurant owner, 2741 Princeton av.—Sunday is a special day for good food among the Spanish people. Every Sunday for dinner we have chicken with a hot sauce made of all kinds of spices. Another Spanish custom is eating tortilla instead of bread. Tortilla is a flat round cake made of cornmeal.

Helen Lona, clerk, 821 S. Halsted st.—Every year on my birthday my family sings a song to me at 5 o'clock in the morning. The name of the song is "Las Maninatas." It's a popular Spanish birthday song. The wealthy families sometimes hire an orchestra to play the song for the person who has a birthday.



Daniel Martinez, restaurant owner, 1141 S. Marshfield av.—The English drink tea in the afternoon and the Swedes drink coffee, but we Spanish people always have a cup of hot chocolate. We usually drink it around 4 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon and eat a sweet roll with it. The day wouldn't be complete without it.



TIN CAN DRIVE AIMED AT LARGE CHICAGO USERS

Mrs. Walter J. Kelly, chairman of the Chicago office of civilian defense fats division, will head a special OCD tin can drive designed to increase collection of prepared cans at restaurants, hotels, hospitals, and large apartment buildings in Chicago industrial areas not served by city scavenger trucks. Private scavenger companies serving these areas will be urged to step up their can collections.

Chicago tin can salvage for the first six months of this year declined more than 60 per cent compared with the same 1943 period. The invasion has brought additional tin demands and has resulted in the WPB setting Chicago's qouta at 700 tons of prepared cans a month.

This quota is expected to be reached thru additional aid from industrial area food users who are reported to have large accumulations of cans awaiting preparation and collection. Shortage of help has retarded can preparation at these sources, but Mrs. Kelly has enlisted the aid of juvenile groups to help relieve this bottle neck in the city's tin can salvage efforts.

Woman Killed by North Shore Train Identified

The woman killed Sunday when she ran in front of a North Shore train near the Ravinia station was identified yesterday as Miss Jessie Sterling, 57, of 4941 Kimberk av., who had been a patient in the North Shore Health resort, 225 Sheridan rd., Winnetka, for the last two weeks. Relatives, who established her identity thru dental work and clothing, said Miss Sterling had been despondent since last fall.

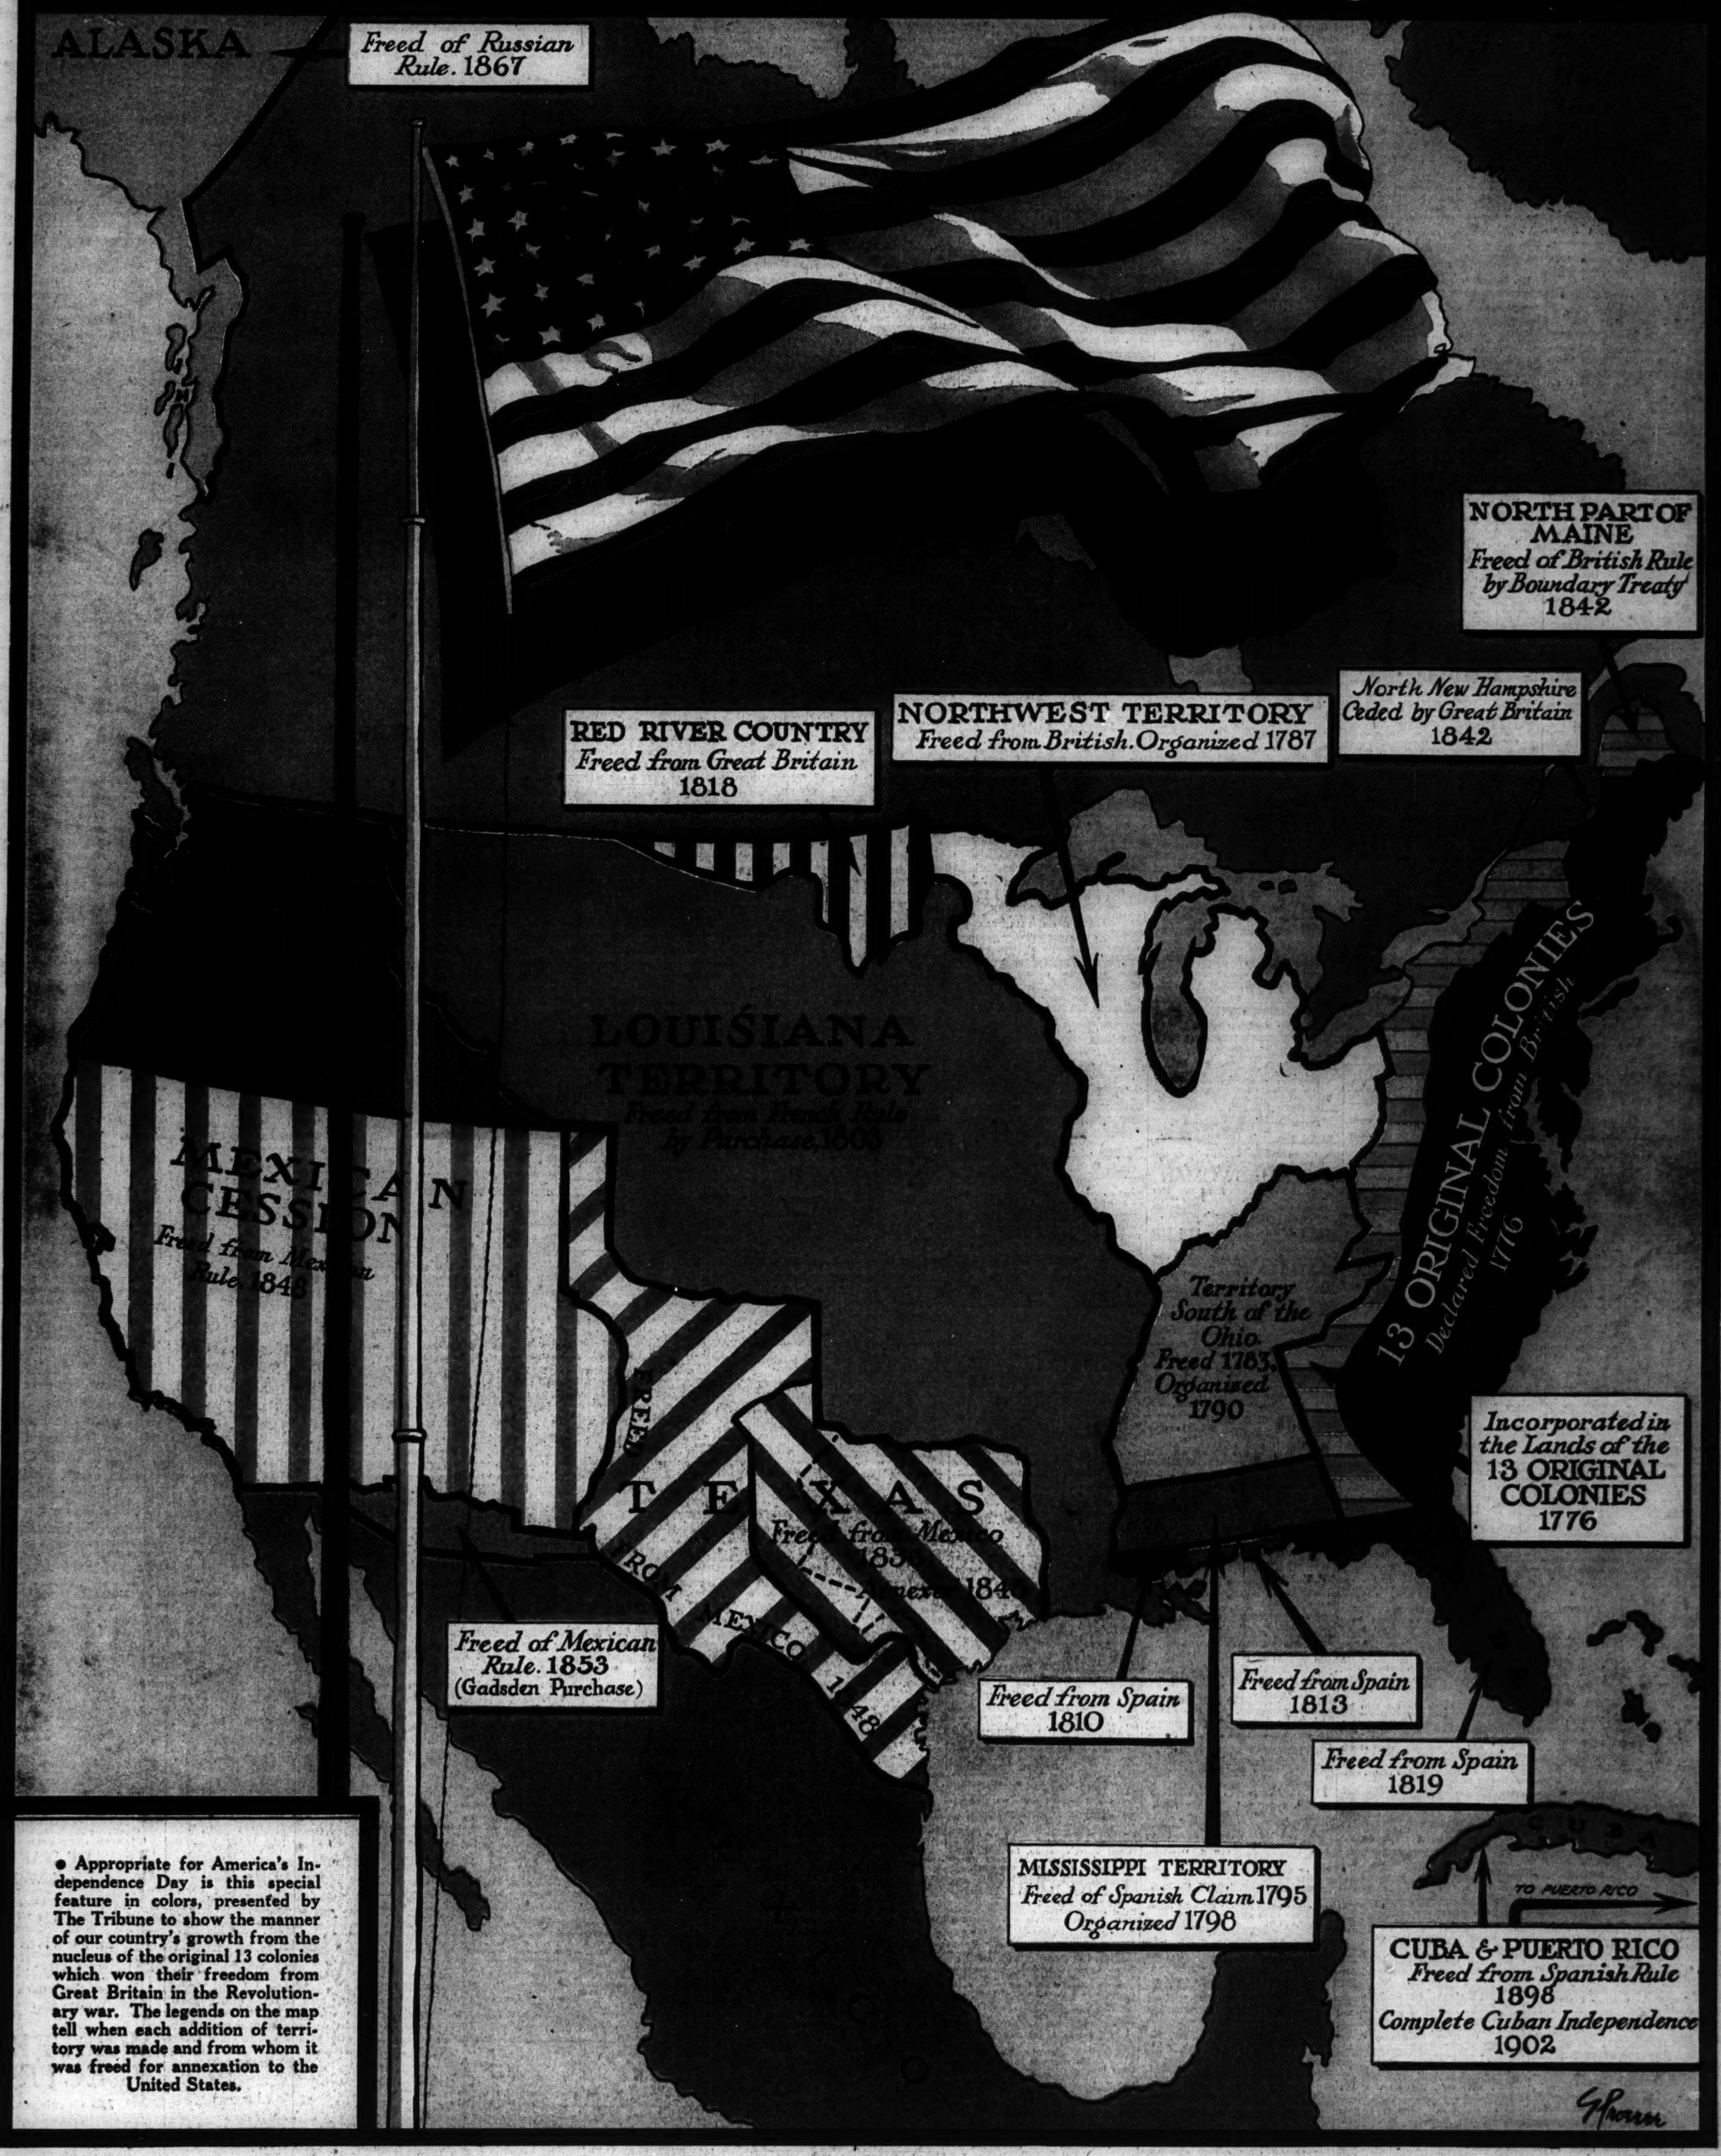
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

The March of Freedom



• Appropriate for America's Independence Day is this special feature in colors, presented by The Tribune to show the manner of our country's growth from the nucleus of the original 13 colonies which won their freedom from Great Britain in the Revolutionary war. The legends on the map tell when each addition of territory was made and from whom it was freed for annexation to the United States.
